PROCLAMATION

The foundation of our Republic rests upon the knowledge and intelligence of American youth, present and future generations and upon the sound education of our young men and women depends the security and destiny of our beloved country.

Our public schools today after broadening their horizons to include the youth of America to gain appreciation for the unity and blessings of our free institutions. A vigorous school system is an effective economic weapon for the defense of the nation against all its enemies, foreign and domestic. Our national independence and personal liberties could not long flourish if the education of our rising generations were to be neglected.

With our growing population and constantly expanding economy, we in California have a responsibility to maintain the highest possible standards of education in our schools. The necessary expansion of school facilities must be matched with vigorous efforts to attract greater numbers of able, well-trained and loyal men and women to accept the profession of teaching as lifetime careers.

Recognizing the importance of citizen cooperation in the development of better public schools, I, Governor J. N. Gair, Governor of California, proclaim April 25-30, 1933, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK throughout our State. I urge my fellow Californians to avail themselves of the opportunities offered to become better informed on the problems, responsibilities and aims of those who serve our public schools as teachers, administrators and trustees.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 23rd day of February, A. D. 1933. One thousand nine hundred and thirty-five.

PROCLAMATION

The City of Hope, renowned national medical center in Los Angeles County, is upon the thirtieth anniversary of its 42nd year of service to afflicted individuals of all creeds and races.

Through its facilities scientific care and expert treatment are provided without cost to victims of such catastrophic diseases as cancer, tuberculosis, leukemia and heart disease. No patient has ever been asked to pay for services received, yet the individual dignity of each has been carefully preserved.

From modest beginnings in the California desert, this fine humanitarian institution has increased in stature and public service, keeping pace with the tremendous development of our State. In expanding its services, its fine educational and research facilities, and its new children's wing, the vital need for increased public support of the City of Hope has become more acute.

Inasmuch as the City of Hope is a beacon of hope to the suffering and since its doors are open to all without question as to ancestry or religion, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim June, 1955, as CITY OF HOPE MONTH in California and urge my fellow citizens to lend every possible assistance to this unique and outstanding institution.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused this Proclamation to be signed in the State of California this 1st day of February, A. D. 1955, and Fifty-Five.

PROCLAMATION

California has been blessed in abundance. Its vast resources are almost without limit and the most precious of these is its splendid human resource. The talents, intelligence and enthusiasm of our people have made this a most favored land.

In our children and youth we have our greatest hope for the future. Upon them depend the strength and security of our Republic in the years to come. Because of this we have a tremendous responsibility to these young people and especially to the thousands who are crippled and incapacitated through the misfortune of illness or accident. Physically handicapped boys and girls should be given every possible opportunity to become useful, constructive citizens capable of leading happy, purposeful lives. They, as well as those more fortunate, will be able to make vital and significant contributions to the continuing progress and development of our State and Nation.

The California Society of Crippled Children and its affiliated organizations are now conducting the annual sale of Easter Seals to secure funds necessary for the rehabilitation and education of California's crippled children. This program depends heavily upon voluntary contributions to carry on its worthwhile work.

To assist in bringing this campaign to public attention, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March 15 to April 11, 1955, as EASTER SEAL MONTH throughout California and I especially designate Saturday, April 2, 1955, as Crippled Children's Day in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to give their generous support to the sale of Easter Seals, thus giving assistance to those who need and deserve their help.

PROCLAMATION

Since its inception baseball has symbolized to the American people the value of friendly competition, fair play, determination to win, and cooperative effort to achieve a worthwhile goal.

The season of the year has arrived which traditionally has been marked by an acceleration of public interest in this sport throughout our Nation. In school yards, in neighborhood sandlots, and in the training camps of professional teams in every section of the country young men are preparing for active participation as players during the months ahead. Americans who are not able to actively participate personally are following with keen interest the progress and development of their favorite teams and players. Parents, teachers and other leaders of youth are working with young people in schools and various organizations to encourage their interest in this splendid character-building national pastime.

California offers outstanding opportunities for the development of outstanding teams and players, as is evidenced by its large number of professional, semi-professional and amateur baseball organizations. Recognizing the value of this sport both as a national institution and for its recreational aspects, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim March 19-26, 1955, as NATIONAL BASEBALL WEEK in our State and urge my fellow Californians to give the fullest possible support to baseball by attending games and encouraging their favorite teams and players.

PROCLAMATION

Assistant Secretary of State

In our children and youth America has its greatest resource for its future preservation and strength. Upon their sound development depends the continuity of the splendid heritage that we enjoy as a free people.

Accidents in their homes, on the playgrounds and at school offer an ever-present threat to our young people. It is a tragic fact that unnecessary and preventable accidents each year kill or maim more children than any disease and even more than traffic accidents. It is imperative that parents, teachers and others responsible for the safety and guidance of the boys and girls of our Nation recognize these dangers and encourage improved safety practices both by instruction and by example.

To emphasize the need for continuing and intensified protection and education of children in matters of personal safety, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim April 17-23, 1955, as CHILD SAFETY WEEK in this State. I urge all Californians to join in an effort to eliminate as many hazards to safety as possible so that the terrible toll among the boys and girls of America will be materially reduced in the future.

PROCLAMATION

Sixty-five years ago, representatives of 18 American nations met at Washington, D.C., for the first International Conference of American States. At that session a permanent organization was established to "collect and distribute commercial and general information among all the republics, and so not only foster the exchange of trade but remove the great ignorance of each other which existed among their respective peoples." Known today as the Organization of American States, this association of nations of the western world is dedicated to peace, freedom and justice.

With the bonds of a common heritage, Californians have a special interest in the preservation of goodwill and friendship with our neighbors to the south. Throughout our State, place names and local customs reflect the Hispanic-American influences upon its progress and development. Our fellow citizens of Latin American ancestry form a vitally important part of our people, making substantial contributions to the continuing progress of our State and Nation.

Recognizing the importance of friendship and understanding between our Republic and our friends in the western hemisphere, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim April 14, 1955, the anniversary of the historic Washington conference, as PAN-AMERICAN DAY in our State and urge that the people of California join with me in conveying our most cordial greetings and best wishes to the people of all American nations.

Statistics reveal that one of every four Americans are present or potential victims of cancer. The American Cancer Society reports that one-fourth of those stricken are being saved through early detection and modern medical techniques. It is estimated that twice that number could be saved if every case of cancer were to be discovered and treated promptly.

There are 49 branches and committees of the American Cancer Society throughout California serving 99 per cent of its population. In addition, cancer research projects are being conducted at a score or more California colleges, universities and hospitals developing new and improved treatments and cures for this dreaded scourge.

Through all these activities, the American Cancer Society is carrying on a determined crusade against cancer. The attack is being pressed on a number of fronts -- research, public and professional education, and service to the patients. The men and women engaged in this great humanitarian effort depend upon voluntary contributions for financial support. At least 40 per cent of all money contributed to the American Cancer Society remains in the locality where it is collected to support community programs of cancer control.

To aid the society in its continuing battle against an uncompromising killer, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim April, 1955, as CANCER CONTROL MONTH throughout our State. I urge all Californians to support this campaign as generously as possible and to take advantage of the life-saving opportunities offered by the programs of the American Cancer Society.

To millions of people throughout a troubled world, the message of Calvary symbolizes a wonderful heritage of hope. The solemn commemoration of the Crucifixion of the Son of Man on Good Friday is a vibrant reminder of the power of faith and hope in the face of seemingly overwhelming discouragement. At no time in the history of humanity has there been greater need for the hope that righteousness, justice and peace must ultimately prevail.

Tyrants and temporal empires have often risen to challenge the gentle authority of the Cross of Christ during the past nineteen and a half centuries. Most of them have perished and many have been forgotten; their brute force, their mundane power and their vain glory today lie buried under the sands of time. In spite of ruthless strength they have not been able to resist the gentle authority personified by Jesus of Nazareth which seeks universal peace based upon the will of God and justice for all men based on mutual respect and good will.

In reverent contemplation of these things, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, urge that all Californians of Christian faith observe the hours between noon and 3:00 p.m. on Good Friday, April 8, 1955, as a time for meditation, prayer and rededication to their belief in peace, brotherhood and hope founded upon the teachings of their acknowledged Saviour through His ministry, death and resurrection.

Throughout our history as a nation, we have been called upon repeatedly to defend our way of life against powerful aggressors and detractors both alien and domestic. Opposed to the basic tenets of our government that the individual has an inherent right to liberty, justice and opportunity with dignity and honor is the international communistic conspiracy.

Ever since the concept of government by force, terror and treachery had its inception, its adherents have sought complete domination of the entire world. While their tactics are subject to momentary changes and complete reversals, their goal has remained firmly fixed. May 1 has long stood as a focal date in the calendar of communism. On that date, its advocates have held demonstrations and celebrations designed to mislead the peoples of the world into surrendering their human birthright.

To help combat this menace to the continued existence of our Republic and all that it stands for, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States have instituted a patriotic observance on May 1 each year. On that occasion it is urged that all Americans strive to acquire broader knowledge and deeper appreciation of the historic greatness of our nation, and that they also become more familiar with the serious threat communism presents to free people.

Recognizing that our most potent weapon against communism is an alert, informed citizenry, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim May 1, 1955, as LOYALTY DAY throughout our State. I urge that my fellow Californians cooperate fully in the spirit of this observance and that they continue to develop an intelligent, participating interest in the civic affairs of their community, state and nation to combat the evil forces which are seeking to engulf our free institutions.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of April, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

PROCLAMATION

A system of competitive free enterprise has enabled the American people to achieve a higher standard of living for the individual and greater wealth for our Republic than has ever been enjoyed by any other nation in human history.

Through savings, insurance, home ownership, ownership of securities, participation in management, and other forms of property ownership we may all share in beneficial results of this abundance. By individual investment in the productive worth of the nation, private property is effectively accumulated.

Originating in California five years ago, Invest in America Week observances have spread throughout the United States. Sponsored by many leading civic groups and business organizations, this program emphasizes the importance of constructive capitalism to the development and security of our nation.

Commending this observance to the attention of the people of California, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week of April 25 through May 1, 1955, as INVEST IN AMERICA WEEK in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to avail themselves of the opportunities offered to gain greater understanding of our free enterprise economy and its place in our national life.

PROCLAMATION

The pressures and tempo of modern living have contributed heavily toward making mental illness one of the greatest health problems our society must deal with. If we bring to the conquest of these problems the same public awareness and dedicated determination that we brought to bear in the fight against infantile paralysis and other physical cripplers of humanity we undoubtedly will be able to substantially reduce the terrible social and economic costs and human suffering attendant to mental and emotional ill health.

In California alone there are more than 50,000 men, women and children under the care of our State Department of Mental Hygiene. It has been authoritatively estimated that a new patient enters a California mental hospital every half-hour, day and night. In spite of the fact that seven of ten leave recovered, this means a steadily increasing number remain in our state facilities.

Government agencies are working in cooperation with private practitioners and research scientists to overcome this tragic problem. Much remains to be done, however, and the assistance of everyone is needed to establish a wholesome, worthwhile pleasant atmosphere for daily living. In our schools, churches and community life as well as in the sanctuary of the home are to be found unlimited opportunities for each of us to help prevent or prevent mental insecurity and emotional strain.

A great mental need in minimizing the incidence of mental illness is to overcome public dread of its manifestations and encourage a more sympathetic understanding of its unfortunate victims and their needs. As an encouragement for greater public participation in the work of improving the mental health of our people, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim May 1-7, 1955, as MENTAL HEALTH WEEK in our State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of April, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

The most glorious heritage a free people can transmit to its posterity is the freedom which they have enjoyed, untarnished and undiminished. Constant vigilance and vigorous determination on the part of its citizens has ever been the price of our nation's honor and security.

The men and women in our Armed Forces constitute a mighty bastion against those who would deprive us of our power for peace and for human dignity. Upon their strength and knowledge depend the preservation of the United States and all that it represents. Along with those who comprise the regular full-time uniformed services of the United States, our friends and neighbors in reserve components and in National Guard units are deserving of appreciative recognition and public respect for their part in the protection and security of our people both in war-time emergency and in peace-time disaster.

Acting upon the invitation of the President of the United States and recognizing our obligations to those who have sworn to protect and defend our sacred liberty and national honor, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim May 21, 1955, as ARMED FORCES DAY throughout our State. I urge my fellow Californians to display the American Flag and to participate in local observances of the occasion to the fullest extent possible on that date.

The selfless sacrifice of the flower of American youth has been the price for our national security and for the precious blessings of human liberty which are our heritage. On widely scattered foreign battlefields and on the high seas, thousands of heroic men and women have given their lives and tens of thousands more have been seriously disabled so that this Republic might continue to live free and strong.

The American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliary organizations annually sponsor the public sale of colorful artificial poppies to insure that the American people will have a recurring reminder of their abiding obligation to our heroic dead. These little flowers eloquently express the reverent dedication of the wearer, indicating the vitality of the spirit of patriotism that is needed in America today just as much as it was in wartime.

Funds derived from the sale of these poppies are used to help to ease the financial problems of invalided veterans and the surviving dependents of our war dead. By giving aid to the living victims of our nation's battles we pay the highest possible honor to those who did not return.

We must never become so engrossed in the affairs of today that the lessons of the past become dim, and with this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim May 27 and May 28, 1955, POPPY DAYS throughout our State. I urge my fellow Californians to buy and wear veterans' poppies as symbols that they are keeping faith by voluntarily helping to lighten the burden of those who are still undergoing suffering and hardship because of their service to our country during periods of peril.

The manifold blessings of liberty and justice which the American people enjoy have been purchased at the cost of thousands of human lives in hundreds of hard-fought battles throughout the generations of our national existence. As a nation, we have a sacred obligation of gratitude to do homage to the memory of the men and women who bravely faced and met death that this Republic, under God, might thrive free and strong.

In the toil and moil of modern life the past often becomes dulled and recollection frequently fades. It is appropriate that at least one day each year be set aside upon which we honor the memory of our heroic dead who have consecrated themselves to their country's greater glory.

It is also fitting that we extend appreciative recognition to those who, wounded in the service of our nation, must live out their span of years helpless or disabled. These men and women, in hospitals and elsewhere, are deserving of our most solicitous attention and sympathetic regard.

Inspired by the spirit of freedom, patriotism and devotion which motivated those who gave the last full measure of devotion to bequeath us all a legacy of freedom, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Monday, May 30, 1955, as MEMORIAL DAY throughout our state. I urge my fellow Californians to join in prayer and praise for our heroic dead on that day, reaffirming a firm determination to faithfully protect and defend the free institutions which they fought so valiantly to preserve.

State of California

History, philosophy and religion all teach us that truth and knowledge are the most formidable weapons of the people in their unceasing struggle to achieve and maintain personal freedom, human dignity and individual responsibility. They are essential to liberty and in their absence oppressive tyranny invariably dominates the minds of men and women.

The consistent progress of education in our Republic has provided us with an excellent basis for the development of an enlightened citizenry, devoted to our free institutions of self-government. Adequate facilities, proper materials and willing students--important as they are to a sound educational system--would be relatively valueless without the services of trained, qualified teachers. In large measure the power and well-being of our nation are monuments to those who have guided its people in the paths of learning, instructing them in the privileges and obligations of American citizenship.

It is vitally important, especially here in California, that the teaching profession be made sufficiently attractive to greater numbers of young people. We are faced with the necessity of providing for the instruction of the youth in a rapidly growing commonwealth in an extremely complex society.

In recognition of the services of our teachers, past and present, and in encouragement to those who will in the future adopt teaching as their life work, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Sunday, June 5, 1955, as TEACHERS DAY in our State. I urge that my fellow Californians observe the occasion by participating the fullest possible extent in public programs honoring the teachers of our State, by personally commending individual teachers for their work and service, and by otherwise giving appropriate demonstration of appreciation for talents of the men and women who teach our young people the American traditions and principles.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 31st day of May, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

PROCLAMATION

One hundred and seventy-nine years ago on July 4 the delegates to the Continental Congress meeting in Philadelphia adopted the Declaration of Independence to thus "proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." With majestic simplicity, giving expression to American dignity and determination, this document was based on neither statute nor precedent but on an appeal to divine justice.

By this act the founders of our nation officiated at the birth of an independent republic, planting a seed which has grown to a great world power. On that historic occasion they set in motion a tireless, relentless force against tyranny and oppression in every form. The rights which they asserted were established under God and have been maintained by eternal vigilance and undeviating willingness on the part of the American people to sacrifice life and comfort if necessary.

During the generations since, this anniversary has been commemorated as a day of deliverance with ceremonies of rejoicing and patriotic devotion. With abiding faith in our nation and in the inherent, inalienable rights which are the basis for its existence, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Monday, July 4th, 1955, as INDEPENDENCE DAY throughout our State. At the conclusion of the first public reading of our Declaration of Independence, a benediction was offered asking the blessings of Almighty God upon the new nation. I urge all Californians to appropriately commemorate this occasion with expressions of thanks for the bounty of our divine endowments and of individual rededication to preserve and protect our splendid national heritage.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 29th day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

PROCLAMATION

Through action by the Continental Congress on January 14, 1777, the basic design for our present National Emblem was brought into being. Since that fateful day during our War for Independence, the dominion of our Flag has been extended westward from the Atlantic to the shores of the mighty Pacific.

The Stars and Stripes have become a vibrant symbol of human dignity and a force for justice throughout the world. The American Flag has brought hope, courage, and determination into the hearts of millions. The mission of our Flag is to champion the cause of justice and to spread liberty, enlightenment, and happiness for all our people. Thousands have given their lives in countless battles to preserve the honor and glory of our Flag and all that it stands for. It has served as an ever present reminder to the American people that freedom so valiantly won can be maintained only with vigor and vigilance.

To assist in the various patriotic programs designed to increase public awareness of the sacred symbolism of our Star Spangled Banner, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Tuesday, June 14, 1955, as FLAG DAY in our State. I urge my fellow citizens to display our National Emblem in an appropriately reverent manner in public buildings, homes, and commercial establishments throughout California. This practice could well be extended to include not only significant patriotic holidays but also to serve as a daily reminder of the power and glory of our Republic and the blessings we all enjoy under its protection. In this manner we will be giving visible demonstration of complete allegiance to our beloved nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 10th day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

Mechanization has brought to agriculture greater efficiency, better production and improved working conditions for farmers and farm families. In addition, it has also increased the dangers from potential accidents and the need for safe working practices on the part of those employed on farms and ranches.

The Red Cross, the Farm Bureau, the Grange, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America, the National Safety Council and other organizations are exerting every possible effort to minimize, with the help of government agencies, the hazards of farm operations through extensive programs of information and cooperative activity. With proper care and observance of safety rules, the annual toll of crippling and killing accidents can be substantially reduced.

Humanity represents California's greatest natural resource and to encourage its conservation in the rural areas of our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week of July 24, 1955, as FARM SAFETY WEEK. I urge all concerned exercise care and diligence in eliminating the inanimate and human causes of accidents to assure the fullest protection of person and property throughout the year as well as during the period of this observance.

P R O C L A M A T I O N

The third anniversary of "Operation Skywatch," the popular term for the function of the United States Air Force's Civilian Ground Observer Corps, will be observed July 14, 1955. This will mark another important milestone in the proud history of this patriotic and unselfish body of men and women who continue to play a key role in our national defense.

Development of long range bombers and devastating aerial weapons has shaken our complacency about the need for an effective air defense. To meet this threat the full might of the Continental Air Defense Command is constantly on the alert against attack, and the Strategic Air Command stands ready to deal crippling blows to the enemy who seeks to destroy us. To give advance warning to these powerful arms of the Air Force we have a vast system of radar outposts. But even this electronic guardian has its limitations. To make air defense effective requires the unflagging services of ground observers to scan the skies in those areas where the radar network functions imperfectly. Theirs is an unheralded and often monotonous task but they proudly carry out their duties knowing that never in the past have American citizens been asked to assume such a vital duty in preserving our national defense.

To give grateful recognition to the thousands of conscientious Americans serving in the Civilian Ground Observer Corps and to direct public attention to the continuing need for additional volunteers, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of July 11-17, 1955, as GROUND OBSERVER CORPS WEEK in our State, and I urge the people of California to join and support this program which is so essential to a well-balanced, effective air defense system.

PROCLAMATION

Since the dawn of the age of flight California has made increasingly important contributions to the air might of our Nation until today it stands in the forefront of all States in this respect.

Climate, availability of skilled manpower and the enterprising spirit of Californians in developing new industries have combined to make our State the principal producing area of the air age. The products of our aircraft plants girdle the globe in commercial and military service and set a standard which the manufacturers of other nations seek to equal.

There is no limit to the future of aviation and its multitude of associated industries. Our highly skilled technicians are pushing onward to new frontiers in their quest to strengthen American security through airpower. Guided missiles, electronic computers and a host of other devices and weapons conceived by California scientists, produced by California plants, and tested at Air Force and Navy research and development facilities in our State are adding new power each day to our air defense.

No single group has done more to stimulate development of military aviation and the United States Air Force than the Air Force Association which will hold its 9th Annual Convention this year in San Francisco. In recognition of the untiring efforts of this patriotic and purposeful body to enhance United States airpower, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period August 8 through August 14, 1955, as AIRPOWER WEEK in California. I urge that during this week all Californians give recognition to the advancement of aviation and the contributions which our State has made to progress in the air age.

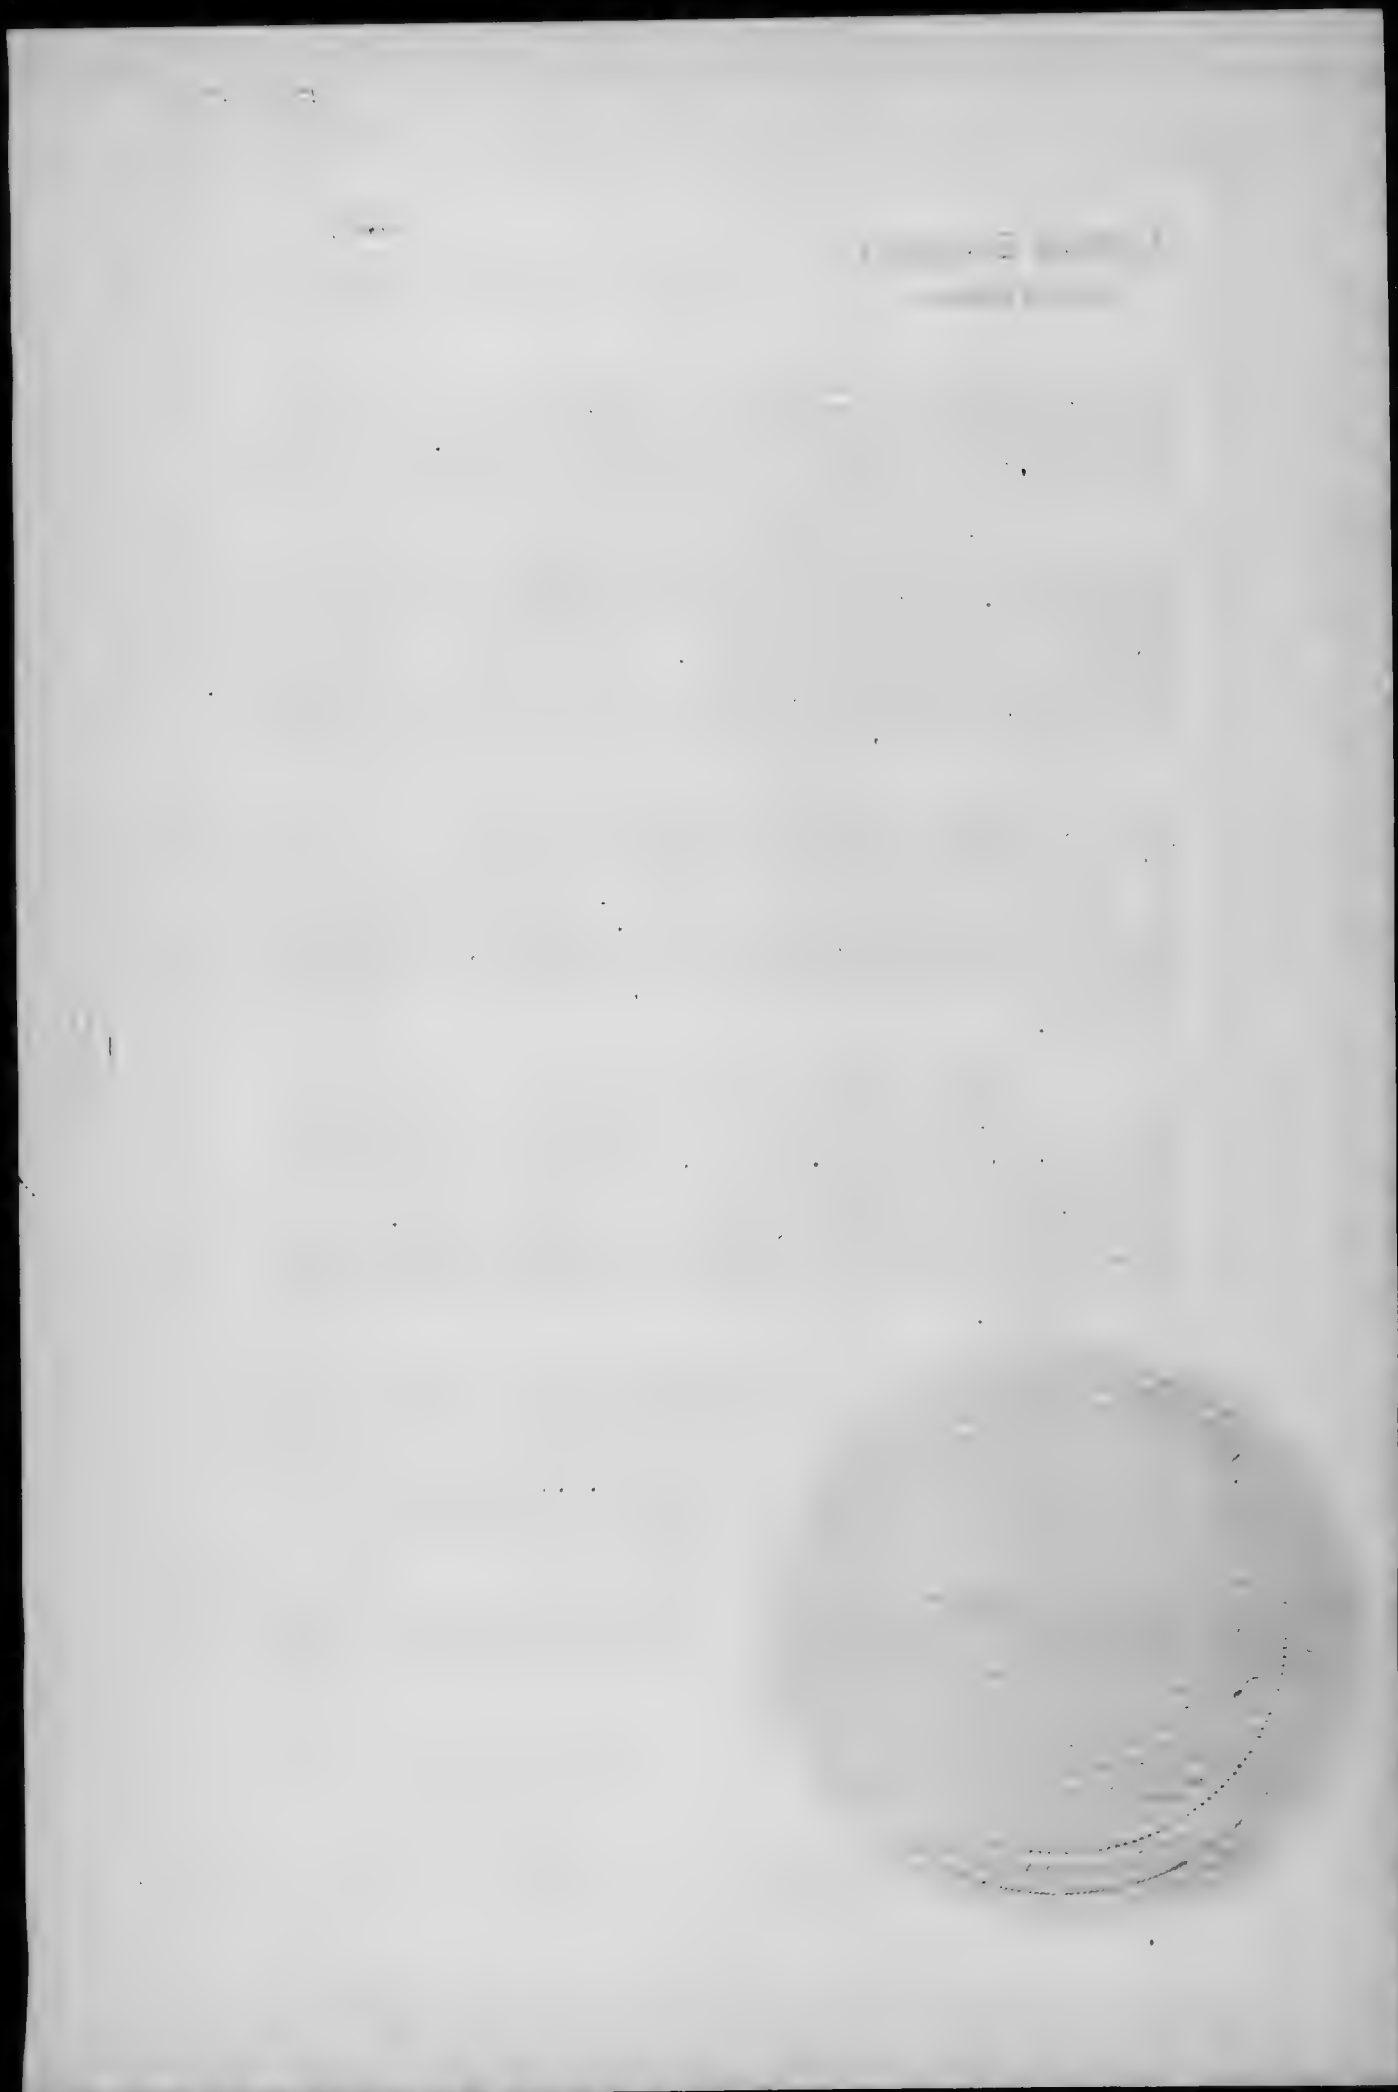

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 27th day of July, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

PROCLAMATION

Since its inception baseball has been closely associated with the multiple and varied facets of what has become recognized as the American way of life. Whether it is a cross-roads hamlet or a teeming metropolis, every community in the nation has its ardent baseball fans.

This sport offers to the youth of our land many excellent opportunities for the development of constructive citizenship. Through participation young people learn the value of cooperative action and the necessity of aggressively meeting determined competition. The positive qualities of success are effectively taught through this popular pastime. The ability to accept discipline, the capacity to meet defeat and try again, the need for being individually alert and patient are all developed on the baseball diamond.

Numerous worthwhile programs to encourage the youth of America to become actively interested in baseball are helping to insure that thousands of youngsters who want to play are given a chance to do so. Notable among these is American Legion Junior Baseball. During the recent session of the California State Legislature, a resolution was passed calling upon the Governor to declare a special observance in honor of the Legion's teen-age baseball competition.

Complying with this legislative action and in recognition of the splendid contribution this program has made toward making the boys of America better and happier citizens, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Saturday, August 6, 1955, as AMERICAN LEGION JUNIOR BASEBALL DAY throughout California. I urge my fellow Californians to give the fullest possible encouragement and active support to the young players and their sponsors throughout the baseball season as well as on that date.

PROCLAMATION

The future strength and security of our Republic depends upon the extent to which its children are given opportunities to develop sound individual and community attitudes consistent with our splendid heritage as a free people. Every adult has a responsibility to be alert to and to participate in determining the educational goals of our schools. To appropriately discharge this obligation, extensive knowledge is needed for individuals to be adequately informed on educational programs and procedures.

For several decades Parents and Teachers Associations have been extremely effective in providing leadership and initiative in developing community consciousness of the manifold complex problems involved in the care, protection, education and guidance of our boys and girls. Firm in principle yet flexible in meeting constantly changing social conditions, the PTA movement has utilized the combined vision, experience and determination of parents, teachers and other friends of youth to form a powerful instrument for positive, progressive public service in thousands of communities throughout our State and Nation.

The Parents and Teachers organization, because it is broadly representative in the scope of its membership, is potentially one of the most influential groups in community development. Its roots are generally deep in the areas where its units are active. The effectiveness of such an organization is heavily contingent upon extensive public support and with this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the week of October 2-8, 1955, as PARENT-TEACHER WEEK in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to become more familiar with the outstanding work of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers and its local affiliates, and that wherever possible they become members, actively participating in the various worthwhile programs on behalf of the boys and girls of California carried on under the auspices of the PTA.

PROCLAMATION

Inspired by the example of California's splendid State Fair and Exposition, county and district fairs throughout our State have consistently reflected the growth and development of California for nearly 100 years. At the approximately four-score local expositions, residents and visitors may view displays of the wealth, beauty and industrial ingenuity of individual communities and of our entire commonwealth.

These fairs--together with the State Fair--have contributed much to improve living conditions and higher standards of production by providing excellent media for the exchange of knowledge, comparison of products and incentive through competition. At our various fairs we are offered a concise, comprehensive review of the past, a picture of the present and a hopeful forecast of the future. By encouraging the active participation of young people, our fairs help to preserve a continuity of responsible citizenship so essential to the continuing strength and security of our Republic.

Considering the value of California's State Fair and of the various county and district fairs throughout our State to our way of life, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 4-10, 1955, as FAIR WEEK in California. I urge my fellow citizens to do everything possible to support these exhibitions of California's progress and culture. In addition, I remind all Californians that their State Fair will be having its annual showing at Sacramento during that time and suggest that its educational and entertainment attractions commend it to the attendance of all our people, regardless of age or economic interests.

It has become customary in communities throughout California for hundreds of public service organizations, dependent upon voluntary public support, to annually conduct joint financial campaigns on behalf of their various programs and projects.

In this manner, many worthwhile health, welfare, recreational and youth organizations derive funds required for operation and expansion. Several of these associations provide for the care and adoption of homeless children while others give aid to needy families in maintaining unity and security in times of stress. Contributions frequently assist the physically handicapped to acquire useful skills and to realize a happier, fuller life. Numerous organizations for young people derive substantial benefit from money raised in this manner and through these groups the youth of our State receive valuable training in becoming well adjusted, self-reliant and responsible citizens.

Extending recognition to the common efforts and interests of these groups, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim September, October and November, 1955, as COMMUNITY CHEST AND UNITED FUND TIME in California. I urge the people of our State to extend all possible assistance to their friends and neighbors who are giving their time and talents to raise the funds so vitally needed to carry on the manifold humanitarian and civic causes represented.

September 24, 1955, will mark the 200th anniversary of the birth of John Marshall of Virginia, fourth Chief Justice of the United States. To assure appropriate public recognition of the life and public services of this great American, a federal commission has been created by Congress to sponsor commemorative programs throughout the nation. The chairman of this commission is the incumbent Chief Justice of the United States and our distinguished fellow Californian, the Honorable Earl Warren.

During his 34 years as presiding justice of our nation's highest court, John Marshall made countless contributions to the integrity of our federal judiciary and to the glorious heritage of our national government. His inherent wisdom, his natural dignity and his undeviating devotion to duty in the formative years of our Republic provided succeeding generations with a rich and perpetual heritage of patriotic pride.

Giving the widest possible encouragement to public observance of the birthday of this exemplary American jurist, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim September, 1955, as JOHN MARSHALL BICENTENNIAL MONTH in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to take advantage of this opportunity to increase their knowledge and appreciation of the life and work of this leader among the architects of our federal union.

PROCLAMATION

Our Federal Constitution, since its inception, has provided guidance and inspiration to all who have faith in the inherent worth and dignity of mankind. In it are enunciated the fundamental doctrines by which the people of the United States have governed themselves for 168 years. Under its protection our Republic was conceived and has grown to become the most powerful nation in the history of humanity. Within it are embodied the guarantees that every citizen who owes allegiance to the United States shall enjoy equal rights to protection under and participation in their own government.

For generations men and women of distant lands in their "yearning to breathe free" have sought hope and haven under the protective might of our Constitution. These people have joined others to whom the privileges of American citizenship constitute a sacred birthright and heritage. Together they have made this land of the free a magnificent, vibrant and vital monument to individual initiative, personal responsibility and human freedom under law.

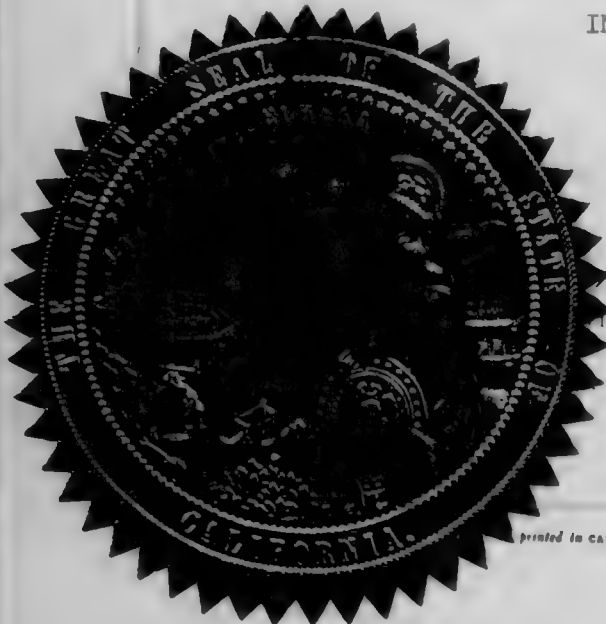

As a tribute to all true, loyal and dedicated Americans, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period of September 11 through September 24, 1955, as AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP WEEKS throughout our State, and I further proclaim Saturday, September 17, 1955, as CONSTITUTION DAY. I urge my fellow Californians to give their fullest cooperation and support to such programs as "I Am An American Day," "Citizenship Days" and similar observances designed to increase and encourage the patriotic devotion of the American people to their wonderful heritage. In addition, I suggest that all Americans, naturalized and native, offer prayers of thanksgiving, each after his or her own faith, for the manifold blessings which we all share, at the same time renewing our determination to maintain this as a sovereign, secure and independent nation.

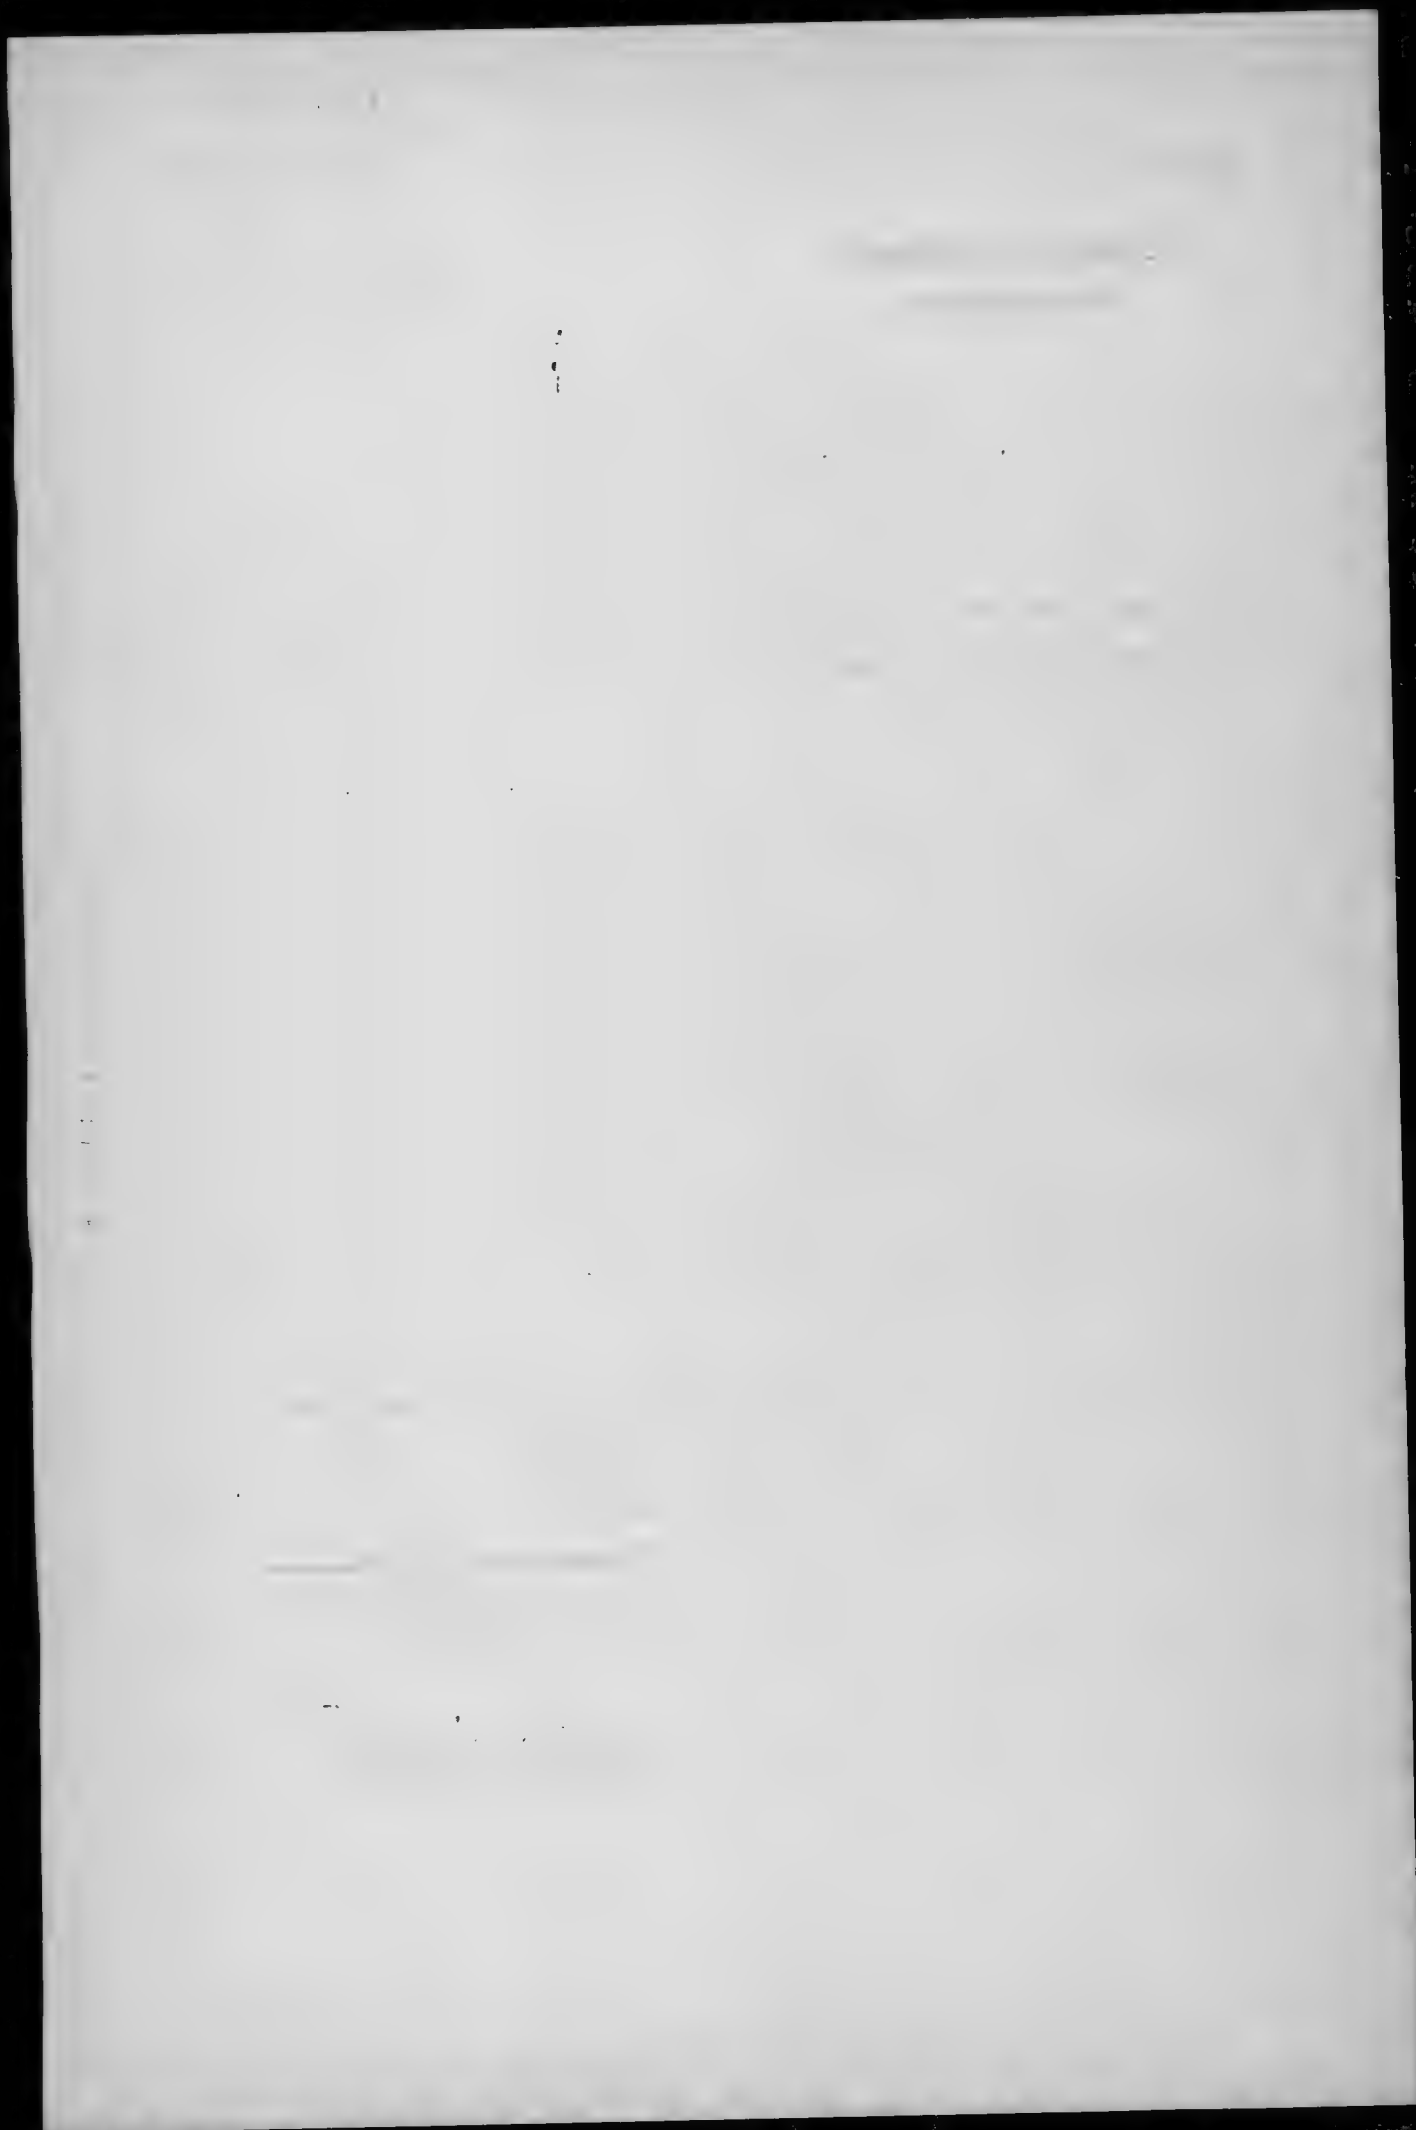

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 1st day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Five.

The zenith of human love is that of a mother for her child. It is a sublime affection which surpasses expression or explanation. Language cannot convey the selfless majesty of maternal love.

At frequent intervals in the history of our Republic, mothers have stood aside and watched the youth of America go forth to defend the life and honor of their beloved nation. Thousands have waited in vain for their children to return from final victory. Their sons and daughters have given the last full measure of devotion that the land which their mothers and fathers made for them might be free and strong.

Saluting the valor of these brave, devoted women, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Sunday, September 25, 1955, GOLD STAR MOTHERS DAY in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to give appreciative recognition to the sacrifices which have been made by the mothers of our heroic dead and to join in prayers that their children have not died in vain.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 14th day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Five.

PROCLAMATION

In our expanding modern economy the vital role of women in the business, industry and government of our nation has become increasingly important. Through such organizations as the California Federation of Business and Professional Women and its affiliates, they are enthusiastically active in the commercial, cultural and civic advancement of our State generally as well as of their home communities.

Both as individuals and in associations they are constantly striving to devise improved business methods, to open new avenues of productive employment and to conserve our precious economic resources for the continuing progress and prosperity of our commonwealth and its people. Both by their example and by their specific programs, these women are making significant contributions toward the development of more active, constructive citizenship among their fellow Californians.

Recognizing the importance of gaining greater public appreciation for the work of women in the business, professional and public affairs of our nation, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week of September 25 to October 1, 1955, as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK throughout our State. I urge that all the people of California extend appropriate recognition to the many worthwhile accomplishments and fine programs of the business and professional women in all sections of the State.

PROCLAMATION

In recent weeks many communities in widely separated areas of California have experienced the frustrating anxiety and devastating economic loss which inexorably accompany a forest fire of major proportions. Beside the property loss, measurable in millions of dollars, our State has suffered the loss of precious and irreplaceable timber stands, essential elements of water and soil conservation, and priceless scenic and recreational attractions.

This loss--terrible as it is--represents only a fraction of the toll, both national and state, which fire exacts from the American people. Scores of homes, churches, businesses, industrial plants, schools--nearly every type of valuable property created or utilized by man--crumble each year before the onslaught of this destructive element. The appalling annual death and personal injury rate, especially among children, resulting from the effects of fire is a cause for deep concern in every section of our Republic.

Extending recognition and support to the manifold programs to increase public awareness of this problem by dramatic presentations of the causes and effects of uncontrolled fires on our society, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the week of October 9-15, 1955, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK throughout our State. The professional and volunteer fire fighters are deserving of the widest public commendation in their untiring efforts to prevent or minimize the wasteful and unnecessary sacrifice of human life and property by fire. I urge my fellow Californians to aid them in their efforts by periodically inspecting their homes and places of employment to eliminate all potential sources of destruction by fire, exercising extreme vigilance and caution in dealing with this menace.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto

California today is enjoying the fruits of an expanding economy and a manifold bounty of natural endowments. Our State's rapid and consistent growth has provided splendid opportunities for men and women with physical disabilities to give practical demonstration of their willingness and capacity to carry their full share of responsibility for our continuing progress.

Numerous business, industrial, agricultural and governmental units throughout the State have availed themselves of the training and natural skills of our physically handicapped fellow citizens. The contributions these people have made and are making to our general economic well-being are deserving of public recognition and consideration.

In furtherance of nation-wide efforts to advance the widest possible utilization of handicapped workers in gainful employment, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim October 2-8, 1955, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in our State and urge that all Californians lend wholehearted support to programs for the training and placement of handicapped individuals.

The travels and explorations of Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo from his native Portugal to the place of his death on California's coastal San Miguel Island were symbolic of the spirit which opened the opportunities of the New World to those who would be free to achieve success through their own individual initiative and industry.

Prior to his discovery of California in 1542, he accompanied Narvaez to Mexico, he was with Cortes at the capture of Mexico City and participated in the conquest of Guatemala. Today the locale of his discovery of San Diego Bay is appropriately marked by a splendid monument to Cabrillo's greatest contribution to history, the scientific and painstaking exploration of California's coastline.

His humane consideration for those who served with him and for the natives he found in the area of his discoveries, his unselfish courage and personal conduct in times of hardship make his life an excellent guide for those of our day who aspire to leadership in any worthwhile field of endeavor.

To lend encouragement to public observances commemorative of this intrepid Portuguese sea captain, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 28, 1955, CABRILLO DAY, throughout our State, that being the anniversary of the first landfall of Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo off the coast of California.

Freedom of the press, explicitly protected by the basic law of both our nation and our state, is one of the most cherished personal liberties of the American people. These constitutional guarantees, in addition to assuring writers and publishers of their right to full expression, also establish the right of all citizens to know the truth, enabling them to intelligently discharge their obligations of citizenship.

In the free press of America, the other liberties of our people have a vigorous and vigilant champion. In newspaper columns freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of peaceable assembly and freedom to voice grievances against authority all have an excellent medium of expression. As a private enterprise, exempt from unreasonable bureaucratic restraint, newspapers are generally responsive to the wishes of their readers and the needs of the community they serve.

Worthwhile civic, patriotic and philanthropic programs have consistently found their strongest, most effective advocates among the newspapers which serve our state and nation. In appreciative recognition of the manifold services of the men and women who produce and circulate the component parts of America's magnificent free press, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 1-8, 1955, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in our state. I urge all Californians to avail themselves of the opportunities being offered by the newspapers in their home communities to become more familiar with the services and problems of their local editors, publishers and others engaged in presenting news and interpretative comment to all their fellow Americans.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Five.

PROCLAMATION

Since the earliest days of colonial America, the people of our nation have been alert to the wisdom and necessity of providing educational training for their children. Upon the intelligence and ability for achievement of our young people depends the continuing progress, independence and security of our Republic.

The establishment and maintenance of the finest possible schools, from primary grades to post-graduate collegiate facilities, in our State is an individual responsibility of every Californian, as well as the collective obligation of the State. The entire subject of education is a matter deserving of the most earnest attention of all citizens.

Sustained support of sound school programs can only be maintained by actively interested and well informed men and women. There is determined competition today between conflicting ideologies for the minds of men and the very survival of our traditional free institutions is at stake. The American school is at least as important a weapon in this struggle as the political and military forces of the United States.

Taking cognizance of the 35th annual observance of the occasion, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim November 6-12, 1955, as AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK in our State. I urge every citizen to maintain active interest and participation in the affairs of our schools to the fullest possible extent, helping as leaders or advisors to young people's organizations, assisting teachers in supervision of recreational and cultural extra-curricular activities, and lending the advantage of specialized knowledge and experience toward the solution of the many problems which confront those charged with the administration and operation of the dynamic educational facilities of our nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 28th day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Five.

PROCLAMATION

Ten years ago in the City of San Francisco most of the sovereign nations of the world entered into a compact, designed to bring about international justice and amity between independent governments. The United Nations has since become an important official instrument in the conduct of the foreign affairs of our Republic and must be given serious regard by all Americans.

Even the most ardent advocates of the United Nations concede that it embodies certain imperfections. The same must be said for any institutions devised by the minds of men and activated by diametrically divergent political and economic forces. With awareness of the extreme tensions in the world today, every avenue that may eventually lead to a better, more peaceful relationship among all peoples should be thoroughly and fairly tested.

California, with its proximity to the channels of world trade, has a vital interest in world peace and goodwill. As citizens of an important part of a member nation of the United Nations, Californians have an obligation to judiciously and dispassionately consider the manifold problems and achievements of this official organ of our foreign policy. We must keep always in mind that this organization of international cooperation is not static but must be constantly adapted to the frequently changing needs of the most accelerated and dynamic era in human history.

Acting upon the leadership of our President, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and with a fervent desire for world peace, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Monday, October 24, 1955, to be UNITED NATIONS DAY in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to become as fully familiar as possible with the accomplishments and objectives of the United Nations, giving earnest and searching appraisal to our nation's membership with a view toward the peace, security and national honor of our Republic.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Five.

Our nation has achieved its present position of international power and prestige as a logical consequence of our long history as a free, energetic and patriotic people. Our leadership among those who believe in the inherent dignity of mankind, the responsibility of the individual and human liberty under law has resulted from the marvelous heritage secured for us by the hopes, efforts and sacrifices of our forebears.

Our republic was created and has been maintained by the virtue, public spirit and intelligence of its citizens. We must keep ever before us the knowledge that our American institutions are vibrant and dynamic. We must never permit them to become stagnant and we must never permit them to be subverted or diluted. Whenever defects are found, whatever they may be, it is in the power of the American people to remedy or remove them.

The hopes of the world for freedom and for peace without fear rest heavily upon the strength of our beloved nation, under the protection of Almighty God. With this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Sunday, October 23, 1955, as UNITED STATES DAY in our state. I urge all Californians to appropriately observe the occasion by offering prayers of gratitude, and by asking Divine Guidance and Protection for themselves as citizens and for those whom they have selected to positions of public trust in the conduct of their government.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 4th day of October, D.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Five.

PROCLAMATION

By Chas. H. Haggerty
Assistant Secretary of State

While science, mathematics and mechanics occupy dominant roles in modern living, we daily encounter provocative evidences that there are truths and values beyond demonstrable proof. The yearning of humanity to give adequate expression to these imponderables finds many outlets. One of the more significant and most widely utilized is the artistic medium of poetry.

Where data and statistics fail to give substance, the majestic rhythm of a poem frequently will most nearly convey the warmth and depth of inner feelings. The poet is often able to find creative incentive in the world around us, as well as in the innermost hopes, dreams and aspirations of humanity. Whether rising methodically from the genius of an individual or spontaneously from the collective spirit of an entire people, poetry has long been a source of patriotic inspiration, of increased religious devotion and of new hope for mankind.

To assist in bringing before the public the importance of the poet as a chronicler of history and as a recorder of culture, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 15, 1955, as POETRY DAY throughout our State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 10th day of October, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Five.

American civilization is deeply rooted in the homes of our nation. The home shares responsibility with the school for the knowledge and intelligence of the people. The home shares with religion responsibility for development of faith and moral consciousness of the individual. In addition, the home is a fundamental source of loyalty, devotion, cooperation and personal confidence. All of these qualities are essential to the development of a strong, progressive Republic.

For the past decade, the Future Homemakers of America has provided worthwhile programs which have helped the young women of our country prepare themselves for the important work ahead of them as wives, mothers and citizens. Through active participation, members have gained valuable insight into the importance of home life to the future of our nation.

Fully cognizant that the home is the basic unit of our way of life, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 30 through November 5, 1955, FUTURE HOMEMAKERS WEEK in our State. I take this occasion to commend the members and advisors of the Future Homemakers of America for their active concern over the development of a vigorous, vibrant home and community life throughout our nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 26th day of October, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

Our Nation has been consistently fortunate in attracting men of vision, intelligence and courage to the highest elective office within the power of the people to bestow. All those who have served as President of the United States have left deep and abiding impress upon their period in our Republic's progress.

A few have been distinguished even in this select and august company. These have exerted influence reaching far beyond their incumbency and, indeed, for decades beyond their own lives. Prominent among the achievements of our great Chief Executives are the philosophy and accomplishments of our twenty-sixth President, Theodore Roosevelt. He was an outstanding administrator, scholar, historian, statesman, soldier, explorer, sportsman--in fact the fields of endeavor in which this versatile man excelled are clearly indicative of his tremendous capacity for leadership.

It has long been a custom for Americans to take appropriate note of the birthdate of this magnificent American and to encourage this practice, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Thursday, October 27, 1955, the ninety-seventh anniversary of his birth, as THEODORE ROOSEVELT DAY in our State. I urge all Californians to familiarize themselves with the life and works of this revered American leader to the end that they may gain inspiration and example for the development of constructive, patriotic citizenship.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of October, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

The yearly toll of death and disfiguration on our streets and highways constitutes a national disaster of major proportions. Traffic accidents annually claim over 37,000 lives and injure approximately 2,000,000 Americans.

Governmental and private agencies are constantly vigilant to find means whereby this appalling, unnecessary loss of life may ultimately be reduced to an absolute minimum. Numerous worth-while, effective programs have been initiated and carried forward. One of the most successful and widely supported of these was the observance last year of Safe Driving Day throughout the United States, under the personal leadership of President Eisenhower.

The President has called for a similar action this year and, firmly believing that this program merits the widest possible public support, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Thursday, December 1, 1955, as S-D DAY in our State. I urge every California driver and pedestrian to obey all traffic regulations, exercise greatest diligence and practice complete courtesy with the goal in view of completely eliminating death or injury from motor vehicle accidents during that 24-hour period. I further urge that this effort be extended into the days and months following so that we may enjoy the recreational and economic value of our splendid transportation networks free from grievous bodily harm to ourselves and to our loved ones.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 31st day of October, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

P R O C L A M A T I O N

Through agreement reached among the powers in conflict, the devastation and carnage of World War I came to a halt on November 11, 1918. The anniversary of that date in succeeding years became symbolic of mankind's hope for international peace with justice for all. In our Republic its significance was also extended to embrace recognition of the heroism and unselfish service of those who responded to the call of duty in our nation's time of peril by serving in its armed forces.

Since then, our national security and honor have required that our young men and women again go forth to defend our way of life against the forces of oppression and destruction. In tribute to those who served -- whether they lost their lives, returned to more peaceful civilian pursuits or remained in our country's defense forces -- Congress last year enacted legislation providing that the anniversary of the Armistice be set aside as a day upon which to extend appreciative recognition to the veterans who served with honor in all the wars which, over the years, have exacted the price for the continuance of our American institutions.

Since one of our best hopes for an honorable peace lies in the patriotism and experience of our war veterans, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Friday, November 11, 1955, VETERANS DAY in our State. On that day, I urge my fellow Californians to recall with gratitude the sacrifices of all those who fought and worked with valor on the seas, in the air and in distant lands to preserve our precious heritage. I further urge they take that occasion to rededicate themselves to the task of seeking an enduring peace in order that these services will not have been rendered in vain.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 3rd day of November, A.D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-five.

It is incumbent upon those who enjoy the blessings of life under the protection of an independent and strong United States of America to recall with humility and gratitude the unselfish sacrifices of the thousands of men and women who have surrendered life and physical well-being in order that our heritage of liberty be preserved undiminished.

While some have given their lives in alien lands and others have returned, capable of resuming familiar careers and former employment, many have suffered grievous disabling injuries. A portion of these young Americans will require hospital care for the rest of their lives. Others are in need of constant medical treatment, while scores require assistance in readjusting their lives and occupations in order to again become productive members of our society.

Symbolic of our obligation to aid those who gave so much on behalf of our safety and national honor, the Disabled American Veterans throughout our state each year offer artificial forget-me-nots for sale to the public. Proceeds of this activity help in financing the many services of the DAV on behalf of our disabled veterans.

This program is worthy of the fullest possible public recognition and with this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim November 7-12, 1955, to be FORGET-ME-NOT WEEK. All Californians are urged to give expression to their appreciation for the services of their war-wounded fellow citizens by giving vigorous support to the Forget-Me-Not sale campaign.

The custom of a national festival of thanksgiving has long been firmly fixed as a truly American tradition. The discoverers and earliest settlers of our continent, facing the rigors of an unknown land and enduring severe hardships, were ever diligent to offer prayers of thanks to Almighty God for the manifold blessings which He had bestowed upon them.

It is altogether fitting that we, who have so very much, should heed their splendid example and give reverent expression to our gratitude. In no other nation has a people enjoyed the abundance that is ours. We are the heirs to a magnificent heritage, conceived in freedom and nurtured in a fruitful land. We have been singularly blessed. As individuals and as a people, we should take cognizance of this and be grateful.

For the bounty which our state and nation have enjoyed and for the magnificent opportunities the future forecasts, I fervently believe we should offer prayers of gratitude to God, and with this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Thursday, November 24, 1955, to be a DAY OF THANKSGIVING throughout our state. I urge my fellow Californians to congregate at their individual places of religious worship to express their gratitude for favor and grace received, and for the hope which the past inspires in us.

PROCLAMATION

Immediately following adoption of our Federal Constitution, the First Congress of the United States proposed to the several states a series of amendments designed to define and protect certain fundamental rights to the people and to the individual states against arbitrary and capricious encroachment by the national government.

The traditional rights and freedoms we enjoy as citizens of this Republic have their foundations in the liberties and responsibilities enumerated in these initial amendments to our Constitution. Popularly accepted as the American "Bill of Rights," these first ten amendments guarantee to each of us our basic rights and impose upon all of us certain obligations to do all within our power to sustain and strengthen our cherished heritage.

Since our nation is engaged in a determined effort to maintain and safeguard the essential liberties of humanity, so seriously threatened by tyranny and oppression, I firmly believe it is important that all Americans emphatically renew their resolution to accept and practice the principles set forth in their Bill of Rights.

In accord with this belief, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period beginning December 9, 1955, and culminating December 15, 1955, the 164th anniversary of the effective date of these amendments, as BILL OF RIGHTS WEEK throughout our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to fully familiarize themselves with the many valued privileges guaranteed to them by these basic laws of our nation. I further suggest that this occasion be observed by appropriate ceremonies and prayers as well as by public display of the Flag of the United States to the fullest extent practicable.

PROCLAMATION

The life and work of George Washington Carver are sources of inspiration to all men and women who strive for brotherhood and service to humanity in a troubled world. Born under the most adverse economic conditions, Dr. Carver lived to become one of the most revered and respected men of his time.

Before his death on January 5, 1943, governments throughout the world had bestowed great honors upon him for his many scientific and humanitarian endeavors. In the midst of this international acclaim, he quietly spurned vast material rewards in his constant and unselfish search to find new ways to increase the prosperity and happiness of mankind. Over forty of his busy years were devoted to providing aid and guidance to young men and women at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama as they prepared for their lifetime careers. His discoveries in chemistry and agriculture have been keys to a better, more abundant life for millions of people throughout the world and for countless generations to come.

Believing that it is appropriate for the people of this nation to periodically extend appreciative recognition to commemorate the manifold contributions of this man to our American way of life, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do proclaim January 5, 1956, as DR. GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY throughout our State. I urge my fellow Californians to make every effort to become more familiar with the service, genius and principles of Dr. Carver inasmuch as he so well personified many of the most inspiring ideals for which our Republic is a symbol among the liberty-loving people of the world.

PROCLAMATION

The year past has brought magnificent progress in our constant struggle against the tragic consequences of infantile paralysis. In California, approximately 414,000 children received at least one injection of Salk vaccine during 1955, and the State Department of Public Health reports that the incidence of paralytic polio among those vaccinated declined 50 per cent, with excellent prospects for even more encouraging results in the future.

However, thousands for whom the vaccine came too late still urgently need help from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in overcoming and alleviating the effects of this crippling malady. While great forward strides have been made, the fact remains that polio has not been completely vanquished yet. The attack must be sustained with vigor and enthusiasm.

During 1956, the March of Dimes campaign must raise $47,600,000 throughout the nation in order to preserve the strength and continuity of the National Foundation. There still remains a vital need for all phases of the anti-polio program--scientific research, public information, professional education and service to those stricken.

With a firm conviction that this fine humanitarian effort must continue until the suffering and sorrow resulting from infantile paralysis are only unpleasant memories, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim January, 1956, as MARCH OF DIMES MONTH throughout our state. I appeal to the traditional generosity of all Californians to contribute to this worthy cause and to contact the March of Dimes campaign directors in their communities in order that they may give every possible assistance toward achievement of the ultimate goal.

PROCLAMATION

The destiny of a republic such as ours depends upon its character; on the principles which govern its policies and rule the lives of its people. These are the sum of the splendid deeds which constitute the birthright of its citizens. The pages of the past provide a clear chart by which we can guide the course of our nation through the times in which we live into the promise of the future.

As we gain appreciative knowledge of the men and women who laid the foundations for, achieved and heroically sustained American independence, we should be inspired to new, greater confidence in our American institutions. The boldness, courage and vision of these earlier Americans have made desert and wilderness to blossom, bud and bear in the development of a magnificent and bountiful land. Our inheritance has been secured for us by their sacrifice, suffering and labor; their bold vision and profound faith. It is altogether fitting that we should honor them by actively seeking to continue the vigorous, safe progress of our nation based upon their wise and glorious experience.

Since it has become traditional to honor the memories of many great Americans during February each year, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim February, 1956, to be AMERICAN HISTORY MONTH throughout our State. I especially urge schools, patriotic societies and civic organizations to undertake appropriate programs and otherwise do everything possible to increase public knowledge and understanding of our historic heritage as a nation, in order that our beloved republic may be preserved and the blessings it secures to us may be perpetuated inviolate and undiminished.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 13th day of January, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

Each year California becomes an increasingly important center for industrial expansion and activity in the economy of our nation. The number of men and women gainfully employed in California industry is constantly increasing and the fruits of their labor are the foundation for the general progress we continue to enjoy as a commonwealth.

There is great and growing concern on the part of management, labor and government over the heavy cost of on-the-job accidents which tend to exact a staggering price from individuals in lost wealth, personal suffering and family tragedy. Each year, millions of dollars are paid out in compensation insurance for death and injury to California working people. Millions more are irretrievably lost to production. Heavy as it is, this cost is minor compared to the pain, personal loss, grief, heartache and deprivation to families--widows and orphans--of those stricken.

All Californians have a direct, vital concern with the safety of themselves, their friends and neighbors. To help focus public attention on the many problems involved, I, Goodwin J. Knight, hereby proclaim January 30-February 4, 1956, as INDUSTRIAL SAFETY WEEK in our state. I commend all those who are working so effectively and tirelessly to reduce the number and severity of industrial accidents, and I take this means to urge them to continue their concerted efforts to that very worth-while end.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 25th day of January, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

During the past few months the American people have had their attention dramatically focused on the toll which disease of the heart and circulatory system takes throughout our nation. Each year, it is estimated that 1 1/2 billion man-hours of productive work are lost to our economy through these causes. This is insignificant when compared with the cost in terms of death, human agony and expenses for treatment borne by individuals and families. In California alone, over half of all deaths in the state are attributed to some form of heart disease.

Through the American Heart Association and its affiliated organizations, we are making significant progress toward conquest of these maladies in programs of research, community service and education. The work of these groups has determined that some forms of heart disease can be cured, that all such cases can be cared for best if diagnosed early and treated properly, and that most heart patients can keep on working, often in their customary occupations. Such progress has restored to us the experience, wisdom and talents of many citizens which would otherwise have been lost to us.

Once each year we are called upon to extend financial support to these programs on behalf of our own improved health and longer life for our children. Acting in the belief that this cause is worthy of the widest possible public support, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim February, 1956, to be HEART MONTH and February 26, 1956, to be HEART SUNDAY throughout our state. During this period, the people of California are urged to respond generously to the 1956 Heart Fund campaign to insure continuing progress in this fine, humanitarian endeavor.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 1st day of February, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

A gracious Providence has endowed our nation with a natural abundance and has drawn to its service the enterprise, initiative and ingenuity of an industrious and inventive people. Our political and social systems of individual responsibility and personal liberty have encouraged the development of the highest standard of living ever enjoyed by any nation at any time in the history of humanity.

Our present well-being and our manifest faith in the future are firmly founded upon the industry and enterprise of our people. So that the greatest number may derive the greatest benefits from the fruits of these labors, it has been necessary that volume production and distribution methods be devised and developed. The advertising profession thus has been a natural, logical outgrowth of the American economic system. Through newspapers, television, radio and other media, our people learn of new services and new products. Public desire and demand is thus increased, making it possible to produce still more at lower cost.

The men and women engaged in advertising have demonstrated a deep sense of patriotic responsibility and have voluntarily undertaken to provide educational and informational services in connection with patriotic, philanthropic and civic advancement programs. For this and for their valuable service to American business, it is appropriate that periodic recognition be extended to these people and to the profession which they so ably represent.

To this end, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim February 13-20, 1956, to be ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK in our state. This period will enable my fellow Californians to become more familiar with the manifold services of the advertising business and its diversified contributions to the traditions of our nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 31st day of January, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

The tyrants who control the policies and activities of international communism through terror and force maintain ruthless dominance over the lives of millions of people who dwell behind the Iron Curtain. Entire nations have fallen victim to the crushing power of communism, being denied their fundamental rights of self government as well as the rights of individuals to personal freedom.

Radio Free Europe and Free Europe Press, during the past five years, have provided, through voluntary support from liberty loving Americans, continuing and expanding encouragement and support to these captive peoples as they strive to regain their birthright of freedom. The President and other leaders of our Republic have given vigorous support to these two outstanding programs of Crusade for Freedom and have encouraged the broadest possible public participation in helping to bring truth, courage and new hope to these enslaved millions.

To those who cherish freedom the world over, the memory of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln has been symbolic of the justice and promise inherent in the American way of life with liberty. It is indeed appropriate that the fund raising efforts of Radio Free Europe and Free Europe Press be focused upon the birthdates of these two great men, and therefore, I, Harold J. Powers, Acting Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of February 12-22, 1956, as FREEDOM WEEK throughout the State. I join in urging the people of California to give generously to aid in the work of Crusade for Freedom to help assure the ultimate and complete liberation of those who have been deprived of their basic rights as human beings through communistic domination of their lives. I further suggest that schools, religious groups, civic, fraternal and service organizations undertake special programs during this observance to express reaffirmation of faith in the principles of human dignity and personal liberty which have made our Nation great and strong.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 10th day of February, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-six.

PROCLAMATION

The traditional celebration of the Birth Anniversary of Jesus of Nazareth each year is an occasion for good cheer, good will and good fellowship in our Nation. It is especially a time for the enjoyment of children and of families, and for devout expressions of faith in the benevolence of Almighty God.

In common with several other California communities, the people of Yuba City and the surrounding area were forced to temporarily abandon their homes, churches and businesses on the Eve of the Christmas holiday because of flood waters which at that time inundated extensive portions of our state. Since that time, most of these Californians have been able to return to their homes and, through industry and courage, have succeeded in substantially restoring their homes and their communities.

In order that the people of Yuba City may enjoy the spiritual and festive advantages of the season, interested individuals, civic organizations, religious groups and fraternal societies have made extensive preparations for a delayed Christmas celebration there. In tribute to the splendid spirit which those in flood ravaged areas of our state have evidenced throughout the emergency, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of February 19-25, 1956, as CHRISTMAS IN FEBRUARY, and I ask all the people of our state to join in earnest prayers that their fellow citizens will never again be compelled to leave their homes and personal possessions under circumstances similar to those prevailing on Christmas, 1955.

PROCLAMATION

In framing the fundamental laws of our Republic, it was one of the stated objectives of the framers of the Constitution to form "a more perfect union" to the end that they might "secure the blessings of liberty" for themselves and for their posterity. As we revere our Federal Constitution and the unique political system which it instituted, it is our patriotic duty to vigorously resist every divisive force and condition which would tend to set groups of our people against one another.

The power and promise of our nation is based upon the skills and worth of the individuals which comprise it, regardless of their ancestry or religious beliefs. America has made one people out of many. The United States is the modern cradle for human freedom and for generations has offered hope to the oppressed and persecuted of every part of the world. Our national honor and security depend upon the extent to which we, as a people, can work together in harmony and unity, in mutual understanding and respect.

Since 1934, the National Conference of Christians and Jews has annually sponsored a program to encourage broader appreciation for the importance of the individual citizen to the American way of life, and to assist this worthwhile endeavor, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim February 19-26, 1956, to be BROTHERHOOD WEEK in our state. I urge my fellow Californians to take this occasion to renew their dedication to the principles of brotherhood by resolving to evaluate their fellow citizens on the basis of individual accomplishment rather than upon ignorant prejudice and unreasoning bigotry.

The focus of public attention on the tragedy of juvenile delinquency frequently obscures the encouraging aspects of society's most effective element in its efforts to eradicate the causes and effects of crime among youthful Americans. That group is the overwhelming majority of our youth. These young men and women are working diligently and vigorously to establish themselves as the natural heirs to the finest traditions of citizenship in our Republic.

Their concern has become most manifest through determined efforts to combat the nefarious traffic in illicit drugs and narcotics, especially as it pertains to the less fortunate and more susceptible members of their own generation. It is in the energy, ability and determination of its young people that the hope for the future of our Republic rests. Their problems are the problems of all the people.

As encouragement to the determination of young people to personally resist and collectively combat the harmful effects of narcotics, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period of April 9-15, 1956, as YOUTH TEMPERANCE EDUCATION WEEK in our State. I strongly urge that the people of California cooperate to the fullest extent possible in helping to impress our younger citizens with the extreme importance of total abstinence from the use of narcotics.

Through the dramatic, tragic events of recent weeks, Californians have learned once again through experience that the American Red Cross stands ready for swift action in providing shelter, raiment, medical care and other assistance to the victims of devastating catastrophies. The magnificent work of the Red Cross during and since California's extensive floods of late December and early January will always be a source of inspiring reassurance of unfailing help in time of extreme need.

To aid the unfortunate victims of the disastrous floods, the Red Cross will have expended nearly $8,000,000 before its flood relief operation is finished. Yet this is only one phase of its splendid program of public service.

Through the Red Cross expert training is given each year in first aid, safety and home nursing, enabling thousands of people to save lives and alleviate suffering. The Red Cross provides aid to American servicemen throughout the world in maintaining vitally important contacts with their homes and loved ones. The Junior Red Cross helps to instill in our boys and girls a humane concern for the welfare of others, so important to their development as constructive citizens. Many of the 128 Red Cross chapters in our state participate in the organization's blood collection program through which plasma, whole blood and blood fractions are supplied to 171 civilian hospitals in California alone.

In order that it may continue to be immediately responsive to the needs of American people for its services, the Red Cross will conduct its annual campaign for members and funds during the month of March. To give the greatest possible encouragement to this splendid humanitarian endeavor, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March, 1956, as RED CROSS MONTH in our state. Giving cognizance to the fact that the work of the American Red Cross depends heavily upon voluntary public contributions of funds, I strongly urge my fellow Californians to support this campaign generously and thus assure continuation of these valuable services whenever and wherever human need and distress may require them.

During the past year, uncontrolled fire and raging flood waters caused tragic devastation throughout vast areas of our state. Reliable estimates indicate that the economic loss due to floods was the greatest in California's history, and destruction of valuable watersheds by fire exceeded that recorded in any recent year.

The natural and economic consequences of these circumstances will long and adversely be felt by all Californians. Recovery from these disasters and reduction of possibility of their repetition require courage and determination. Sound planning and constructive action are vitally needed. Individual citizens, private organizations and public agencies share a mutual responsibility to encourage wise use and systematic replenishment of our basic natural resources in order that we may continue to enjoy our high standard of living and pass on to our children and our children's children the bountiful heritage with which we have been endowed.

To encourage the many worth-while programs with these ends in view, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March 7-14, 1956, CONSERVATION WEEK in our State and designate Wednesday, March 7, the birthday of Luther Burbank, beloved California naturalist, as ARBOR DAY. I urge my fellow Californians to appropriately observe this occasion through the planting of new trees and shrubs to enhance our state's natural beauty and to seek broader appreciation of our ultimate dependence upon the abundant and varied natural resources of California.

The development of the California public library system has been a manifestation of dynamic Americanism in action. Our libraries provide excellent media through which our people are able to continue their education during and far beyond school attendance. These institutions are especially valuable to those who have been unable to complete more formal scholastic training and to those who, through accident or illness, have been forced to seek further knowledge to assist them in adapting their abilities to new occupations.

In addition, American libraries offer appropriate places for preservation and systematic classification of many of the important relics of our American heritage. They will provide excellent sources of information and inspiration for those delving into the records of our historic past in future generations.

In recognition of the manifold services to American thought and culture rendered by librarians and others concerned with the maintenance and administration of local, county and state libraries, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March 11-17, 1956, to be LIBRARY WEEK within our State. I urge my fellow Californians to appropriately commemorate the occasion by becoming more fully acquainted with the educational and recreational advantages to be gained through supporting and utilizing the splendid libraries of California.

The California Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its many local affiliated organizations render magnificent humanitarian service to thousands of Californians afflicted with handicapping physical disabilities. Their work embraces all those who are crippled, regardless of race, religion or cause of crippling.

Their sole concern is in securing a maximum degree of happiness, rehabilitation and individual independence for boys and girls, men and women thus stricken. During 1955 alone, these organizations provided direct medical care for over 2,000 patients. In addition, several times that number received job-building, physical therapy, mechanical aids to compensate for disability, necessary transportation, education, employment placement, recreational guidance and other related help in their efforts to become constructive, self-reliant citizens.

Supplementing this magnificent program, these organizations contributed nearly $14,000 last year to national research projects dealing with the problems of the crippled, and extended scholarships and training facilities to young people preparing for careers in physical therapy and rehabilitation.

Since the largest single source of funds for this work is the proceeds of the annual sale of Easter Seals under the auspices of these societies, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March 10 to April 10, 1956, as EASTER SEAL MONTH throughout our state. I strongly urge my fellow Californians to support this appeal with characteristic generosity so that new hope, new cheer and new abilities may be given to the people of California who otherwise would have to do without them.

During the month of April, thousands of volunteer workers in our state will be conducting the annual Cancer Crusade, under the auspices of the American Cancer Society. This year the goal in California has been set at $1,895,775 to provide financial support for the Society's extensive programs of public education and research. A major portion of the research is being carried out in several of the leading universities and hospitals in California, and it is hoped that in one of these laboratories the eventual conquest of cancer will be achieved.

The vital need for this work is emphasized by the tragic consequences of cancer among our people. Statistically it is estimated that 2,085,600 men, women and children now living in California will perish as victims of this dreaded disease unless dramatic and substantial progress is made toward checking the present high rate of incidence. Throughout the nation last year, more than 3,500 children under the age of 15 died of cancer. In addition, 160,000 youngsters under the age of 18 lost their fathers and 175,000 under 18 lost mothers to cancer.

The humanitarian programs of the American Cancer Society, aimed at eradicating cancer as a cause of human misery and death, are supported entirely by voluntary contributions from the public. In support of this annual campaign on behalf of the health and safety of our people, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim April, 1956, to be CANCER CONTROL MONTH throughout our state. In so doing, I urge the receptive response of all Californians to both the educational and fund-raising appeals of the American Cancer Society.

The annual observance of the anniversary of the Crucifixion of Jesus in joy and hope by millions of Christians throughout the world presents the illusion of being a paradox. Separated from its divine implications, the day of His death on the Cross would hardly seem to be an occasion to inspire happiness, hope and faith in human hearts. However, just as it is not possible to separate this Event from God's Eternal Truth, so it is impossible to contemplate the message of the Cross without feeling joy and assurance in Almighty God's concern for his creatures.

The death of Christ was a necessary antecedent to His Resurrection. His life as a mortal and His return from the grave have given to Christians over the centuries evidence of eternity, demonstrating to them that God was, is and ever will be a powerful, living, near and real presence among us at all times. Granted the tranquility derived from such faith, we are given the capacity to rise above the frustrations of the temporary and temporal because we are able to place our hopes in the eternal.

In accordance with the custom of ages past, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, take this means to urge my fellow Californians of Christian faith to reverently celebrate GOOD FRIDAY, March 30, 1956, and particularly that period between noon of that date and 3:00 o'clock p.m., by meditating upon the mercy, goodness and glory of God and by renewing the personal dedication to the principles of peace, brotherhood and human dignity which constitute the basis for the earthly ministry of Jesus of Nazareth.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 23rd day of March, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

The City of Hope soon will embark upon its 43rd year of continuous service to humanity through helping the afflicted and suffering when such help is needed, without regard for creed or race. Through the facilities of this renowned National Medical Center, the finest care and attention are provided for the victims of such catastrophic diseases as cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis and operable heart ailments.

While diligently maintaining the personal dignity of each patient, City of Hope has never asked any to pay for services rendered. Beginning with a splendid, humanitarian concept, this unique institution has increased in stature and expanded its public service immeasurably over the years. In developing its outstanding scientific research program and patient treatment work, it has met a vital need of our people.

Since the doors of the City of Hope have always been open to all who suffer and stand in need of help, and since its continuing success depends upon the voluntary financial support of men and women in all walks of life, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim June, 1956, to be CITY OF HOPE MONTH in California, and I specifically designate June 3, 1956, as HOPE SUNDAY. I urge my fellow Californians to respond generously to the appeal of this worthy philanthropic endeavor for public support.

PROCLAMATION

The American economic system of competitive free enterprise has been a natural, logical development of our heritage of national independence and individual freedom. Its protection has been the concern of our government for generations and its destruction has been the objective of our enemies, both foreign and domestic, ever since our nation was first "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Through this system, we have evolved a standard of living without parallel among the peoples of the world. This has come about as a result of personal investments by millions of Americans in a widely divergent variety of business enterprises. Participation in savings accounts, insurance policies, home ownership, stocks and bonds, and other ventures, has given a wide popular base to American capitalism. Such activity broadens the opportunities for better living for all our people and gives each of us a responsibility for the general well-being of our Republic and the way of life it represents.

It is becoming increasingly important that all Americans attain the fullest possible understanding of the operation and implications of our free enterprise economy. To aid in achieving this objective, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim April 29 through May 5, 1956, INVEST IN AMERICA WEEK throughout our state, and I urge that my fellow Californians participate to the fullest possible extent in the constructive activities being conducted in connection with this observance.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 27th day of March, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

PROCLAMATION

The Organization of American States and its administrative component, the Pan-American Union, are symbolic of the international accord and amity existing among the nations of the Western Hemisphere. Formalized on April 14, 1890, this organization is a culmination of the vision and policy of patriots in every section of the New World.

This voluntary association of sovereign nations has accepted fundamental obligations to deal with mutual problems and to strive for collective benefits through united action. Such an approach to international relations, based upon the preservation of peace through friendship and respect for the customs and institutions of the other component nations by each, could well serve as a model to nations in other, more troubled areas of the world. President Eisenhower has said that this concept which we in America share can be for nations beyond the seas "a prophetic and inspiring unity." In his words, "It is triumphant testimony....that peace and trust and fellowship can rule the conduct of all nations, large and small, who will respect the life and dignity of each other."

A salutary custom has arisen throughout the member nations of the Organization of American States in which there is common observance of the anniversary of the parent conference for that inter-American association. In keeping with this tradition, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim April 9-14, 1956, to be PAN-AMERICAN WEEK, and simultaneously designate April 14 as PAN-AMERICAN DAY in our state. I urge that my fellow Californians join in appropriate programs being planned during that period to advance public knowledge of dynamic efforts to foster and extend the cooperative cordiality which exists between our nation and our American neighbors.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 29th day of March, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

Modern baseball has evolved as a typically American institution, being regarded throughout the world as indigenous to the United States. The game has been instrumental in creating and expanding good will for our nation with our American neighbors and with friends in other parts of the world.

For participants, baseball encourages the development of sound characteristics of dynamic, constructive citizenship. It provides excellent training for blending physical and mental abilities, for working with others to mutual advantage, and for achieving success against determined competitive effort. For spectators, baseball's infinite variety and flexibility of play provides popular, wholesome and stimulating recreation for thousands of Americans each year.

The Pacific Coast Baseball League season for 1956 will open in California on April 10, and in recognition of the sport's importance in the American way of life, I, Goodwin J. ## PROCLAMATION Problems involving mental health are matters of great and serious concern to every Californian, even beyond individual and humanitarian considerations. Our State Department of Mental Hygiene for the next fiscal year has an operating budget of nearly $80,000,000 with an additional $17,887,000 set aside for capital outlay purposes during the same period.

Nationally, the taxpayers of our nation spend approximately $3,000,000 each day for housing and caring for mentally ill patients. It has been reliably estimated that one in every sixteen Americans is now suffering some form of mental disorder. However, authorities have demonstrated that, with proper care and attention, a very large percentage of those afflicted will improve substantially or recover completely.

In addition to official concern, accurate and adequate public information and education are essential if we are to minimize the devastating effects of mental illness on our society and on our economy. Cooperating with a nation-wide campaign to encourage dynamic community action to combat the underlying causes of mental disturbances, to secure the most modern treatment facilities possible, to provide for proper training of professional personnel and other correlative activities in the mental health field, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim April 29-May 5, 1956, MENTAL HEALTH WEEK in our state. I urge my fellow Californians to participate in the ceaseless efforts on behalf of improved and expanded treatment facilities and on behalf of continued research into improved methods of treatment and prevention of mental illness, so that all of our people may enjoy fuller, happier and more effective lives.

PROCLAMATION

Our country is vast and richly endowed with an abundance of natural resources. Within this land there has grown a mighty nation, conceived in liberty, an eloquent, vibrant expression of the hearts and minds of a devoted people. As Americans, we share a common heritage of freedom and a common destiny of glory founded upon the sacrifice of the life-blood and treasure of generations of brave, dedicated men and women.

We are charged with a sacred trust to preserve and give continuing vitality to principles of individual responsibility and personal liberty which constitute our inheritance. These concepts of government have been boldly challenged by cynical advocates of class conflict and mass tyranny. These champions of alien doctrines recognize in fundamental Americanism a threat to their ambitions, and so they would deprive us of our rights to person and property and to freedom of conscience, in order to insure their own triumph in the struggle for the hearts and minds of humanity.

Preservation of our way of life for ourselves and our posterity depends upon our undeviating fidelity, diligence, self-reliance and energy. In accord with a nationwide reaffirmation of the faith of our fathers in human freedom, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Tuesday, May 1, 1956, as LOYALTY DAY throughout our state. I urge my fellow Californians to observe this occasion by pledging anew their positive, active, dynamic loyalty to the end that our United States, free and secure, shall continue to prevail over all her enemies and detractors, foreign and domestic, whatever their guise.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 25th day of April, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, this year observing its 75th anniversary of service to the people of our nation since its founding in the city of Chicago on August 12, 1881, has consistently been a positive force for the progress of the Republic.

Organized to secure and preserve the economic and human rights of its individual members, the Brotherhood and other similar combinations of working people are logical results of the American free enterprise system which also fosters beneficent voluntary associations based on common property interests.

The members of the Brotherhood and their leaders over the years have constituted a positive, dynamic force for Americanism against every foe and detractor, alien and domestic. While seeking maintenance of favorable working and living conditions for its members, the Brotherhood has also worked diligently to improve the standards of its craft and to develop a comprehensive apprenticeship training program to help build a better America. Its members and their representatives have been assiduous in support of their pledges and in adherence to their contracts.

California particularly has benefited from the skills and industry of the members of the building trades unions in its spectacular growth during recent years. Thousands of new homes, schools, commercial buildings, cultural centers, government structures and industrial plants are enduring monuments to their outstanding work and talents.

In recognition of the manifold contributions made by the members of the organization to our progressive, expanding economy, I, Goodwin J. Knight, hereby proclaim August, 1956, as DIAMOND JUBILEE MONTH throughout California on behalf of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. I join my fellow Californians in extending congratulations through General President Maurice A. Hutcheson to the officers and members of the Brotherhood and in conveying best wishes in their continuing efforts to sustain the strength of free labor in a free nation.

PROCLAMATION

Assistant Secretary of State

As we mark another year during which the American people have been at peace, we are reminded that our way of life, based on liberty and justice, has been won through tremendous sacrifices, and that the price of its preservation is eternal vigilance and preparedness to meet every challenge.

Our Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, National Guard and Reserve components of the National Defense Establishment are united in their determination to maintain peace in the world while preserving with vigor the honor, independence and security of our Republic against all enemies, actual or potential. Through their patriotic devotion to the principles upon which this nation was founded and has grown strong, we are able to enjoy and pass on to our children the blessings of liberty which constitute our heritage.

With the floods of last winter such a poignant memory to so many of us, it is particularly fitting that we in California take appreciative note of the courage, resourcefulness and humanitarian concern of those in uniform in combatting and minimizing the tragic, disastrous effects of these floods which inundated vast areas of our state.

In accord with the proclamation of our President, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Saturday, May 19, 1956, to be ARMED FORCES DAY in our state. I urge that my fellow Californians, to the widest possible extent, visit Armed Forces installations and attend ceremonial programs in observance of the occasion. In addition, I urge the appropriate display of our state and national flags throughout California to remind the people of the importance of our nation's defense system and of their individual responsibilities in providing "Power for Peace" for our nation in keeping with the theme and mission of this year's Armed Forces Day.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of April, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

It has become a national custom each year to honor the memory of our heroic war dead by assisting their surviving disabled comrades through the purchase of artificial flowers, sold to provide aid to the living victims of the battles fought for the honor, independence and security of our Republic.

These flowers, symbols of a grateful people, grow from seeds of courageous hope and determination in the hearts of those benefited by their sale. Each year, immediately prior to observance of Memorial Day, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, and their auxiliary organizations, conduct intensive campaigns to sell colorful artificial poppies, thus providing financial help in their very worth-while programs designed for the comfort and rehabilitation of American veterans in hospitals, in sickbeds, and elsewhere, who so urgently need and have earned such aid. Since the gratitude of a nation cannot be measured, no price is fixed for these emblems of service. Donors are asked to give according to the dictates of their minds and hearts.

Deeming it a privilege to have the opportunity to buy and display these attractive flowers in such a worthy cause, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim May 25-26, 1956, as POPPY DAYS throughout our state. I urge my fellow Californians to refresh their memories of the selfless service of those who sacrificed life, health, happiness and well-being in order that these United States, under God, might continue to flourish free and strong. In so doing, I suggest that the fullest and most generous public support possible be accorded the annual sale of veterans' poppies in our state.

It is entirely fitting that those in the teaching profession should be held in the highest esteem by their fellow Americans. In any nation where the people are sovereign, it is vitally important that the citizens be trained to think and to act with knowledge and with intelligence. The continuing progress and development of our Republic is dependent upon the capacity of this and succeeding generations to meet the dynamic problems which we face in the continuing evolution of our society.

To insure the future of our American institutions we must be diligent in our determination to provide the finest educational facilities obtainable for the training of our youth. However, the most elaborate and advanced buildings and equipment would be totally without value unless there is skilled professional personnel to administer our schools and to train our children. It is essential that constant attention be given to providing economic security and favorable conditions of employment in order to attract increasing numbers of young people into the teaching arts.

With deep appreciation for the manifold services of teachers, active and retired, to the American way of life, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Sunday, June 3, 1956, TEACHERS DAY throughout our state. The men and women responsible for teaching our youth in the finest American traditions are worthy of the widest possible commendation, and I urge my fellow Californians to make demonstrative expressions of approbation through public programs and individual indications of appreciation, not only on the date specified but on every other appropriate occasion throughout the year.

PROCLAMATION

Governor of California

California's diversified and productive agriculture and industry have gained tremendous benefits from world trade and transportation because of their proximity and easy access to one of the finest port facilities in the world. The people of this state have been cognizant of the value of the national seaports. They realize that the present and future economic development is closely linked to the maintenance of our ports for the products of their labor and commerce.

Over the years, the splendid ports of California have been rendezvous points for the pioneers on the oceanic trails of international commerce and economic inter-dependence between remote areas of the world. These ports are gateways through which are channeled the wares of distant lands and through which travel the products of our own industries on their way to serve people beyond the seas.

The vital role of a vigorous Merchant Marine to the present and future prosperity of California and the United States should be better understood by all Americans in order to foster greater participation in two-way trade and travel between our Republic and our friends abroad.

It has become traditional to direct public attention to the value and problems of international trade upon the anniversary of the initial voyage of "The Savannah," the first steamship to sail under American flag to circumnavigate the Atlantic Ocean. To this end, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim May 22, 1956, to be MARITIME DAY throughout the state, and the period of May 22 through June 3, 1956, to be WORLD TRADE WEEK. I urge that civic, commercial, industrial and educational organizations appropriately observe this day and week in order that our people may gain better understanding of the manifold benefits derived from our great seaports and from the commerce, travel and friendly relationships we share with other nations as a consequence of our advantageous geographic situation.

The people of the United States have always had an intense interest in the progress of the modern Olympic Games which are held on a quadrennial cycle to promote international amity through athletic competition. The ideals of sportsmanship and striving to excel in various contests of physical skill and strength have done much to bring about better understanding throughout the world.

In keeping with fundamental American traditions, athletes of our republic competing in these events have contested on a strictly amateur basis without governmental subsidy. When American competitors and teams travel to distant lands, extensive expenses are necessarily incurred. According to established custom, these costs must be borne entirely through voluntary financial support.

It is vitally important that our nation be fully and ably represented in the Olympic Games at Melbourne, Australia. With this thought in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby designate June, 1956, as UNITED STATES OLYMPIC TEAM MONTH in our state. I urge my fellow Californians to do everything possible to give practical, vigorous support toward sending the finest available aggregation of American athletes to participate in these contests.

On June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress, in the midst of our nation's struggle for independence, adopted a resolution setting forth the basic design for the Flag of the Republic. Ever since that historic occasion, the Star Spangled Banner has been the honored symbol of the might and glory of the United States; an emblem of hope to people throughout the world who aspire to personal freedom and human dignity.

The Flag dramatically represents our unity, our sovereignty, our thought and our purpose as a people. In honoring the Stars and Stripes we express gratitude for the freedom which is ours under its protection, and we renew patriotic dedication to preserve its glory and dignity against every detractor.

In a world rife with doubt and pessimism we should take advantage of every opportunity to pledge anew our fealty "to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands," the brightest, best hope of mankind on earth. Acting in accord with the finest in American heritage, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Thursday, June 14, 1956, as FLAG DAY in our state. I urge my fellow Californians to prominently and proudly display our National Colors on every public building and wherever else tradition and courtesy will permit. In addition, I suggest the people of California take advantage of every available opportunity to become more thoroughly familiar with the authentic history, customs and etiquette concerning the Flag of our nation.

The annual celebration of the anniversary of our nation's independence has traditionally been an occasion for jubilation and flamboyance. This is altogether fitting since our heritage as a free people is a source of great happiness and pride to all loyal Americans.

Amid the colorful exhibitions of patriotic fervor which characterize the Fourth of July are to be recognized the historic symbols of our republic and its power for justice to all. This occasion offers us an excellent opportunity to give expression of fidelity to our national union.

In affirmation of the faith of our forebears in the inherent capacity of the individual citizen to participate in his own government, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the statewide observance of INDEPENDENCE DAY on Wednesday, July 4, 1956. I especially urge my fellow Californians to make the fullest appropriate display of our National Emblem and to set aside a brief period during that date to offer prayers of thanksgiving after the manner of their personal religious persuasion for the manifold blessings of freedom under God which we enjoy as Americans.

Accidents result in economic and social loss, impair individual and group productivity, cause inefficiency and retard the advancements of standards of living. This is doubly true of accidents in agricultural pursuits where the loss of one individual's participation during peak seasons can cause tremendous economic losses. Machines have added new life to tired acreage, increased production to dormant lands, and have cut costs of harvests. But machines and the increased speed of agricultural activities have tended to multiply the loss of efficiency through accidents.

Considerable progress has been achieved by interested organizations in eliminating agricultural casualties. New projects aimed towards greater safety continuously are being introduced. The first step is always education as to the causes and preventions of accidents. The programs of indoctrination are being ably undertaken by such organizations as the Red Cross, the Grange, the 4-H Clubs, the Future Farmers of America, the National Safety Council and many others. The second step must be action--action in carrying out safety programs and action aimed towards continued cognizance of causes and preventions.

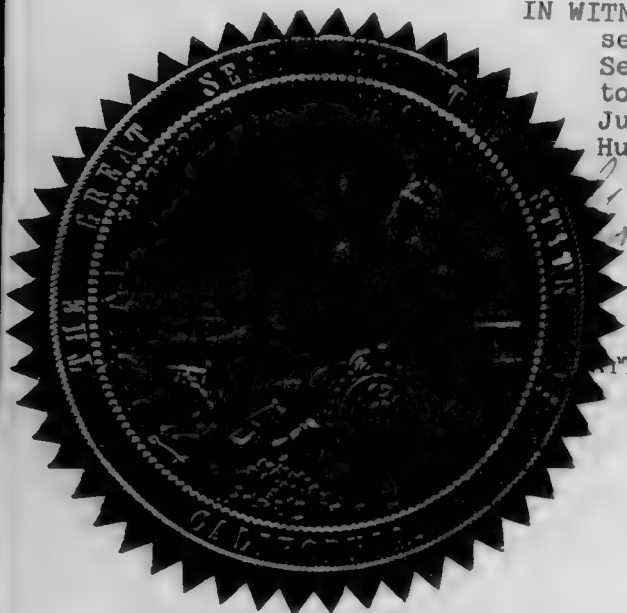

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of the State of California, do hereby invite all Californians to promote a continuous campaign of education and action in agricultural safety by proclaiming the week of July 22-28, 1956, as FARM SAFETY WEEK. I urge that this week be used only to amplify the necessity of daily safety-consciousness throughout the year. By this means this leading agricultural state can grow and prosper without needless casualties. In this way our greatest natural resource--human life--will be conserved, and agricultural production will increase.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 2nd day of July, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-six.

The problems involving the relationship of society to its delinquent and criminal elements have long been of major concern to every civilized nation. While protection of society is the fundamental objective of modern correctional programs, increasing attention is being directed toward the individual offender in order to conserve his talents for the benefit of the entire community, as well as for his own future well-being.

Under the American way of life, the importance of the individual has always been recognized and respected. Our State is nationally recognized as a leader in the field of correctional practices and has consistently demonstrated a humane concern for the rehabilitation of criminal offenders and their restoration as constructive, productive citizens.

The American Correctional Association, dedicated to systematic exploration of the causes and cures of delinquency, will sponsor the 86th Annual Congress of Correction in California, and as an expression of official concern in their deliberations, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby designate August 26 through September 1, 1956, as CORRECTIONS WEEK in California. I urge my fellow Californians to avail themselves of this occasion to gain broader knowledge and deeper understanding of the work of our State Department of Corrections and the many individuals, societies and official agencies cooperating in the various phases of rehabilitation, conservation and reclamation of those who have committed offenses against the public peace and safety.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 17th day of July, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

California has been blessed with many treasures. The aesthetic and economic advantages which we enjoy have attracted to our State thousands upon thousands of new people over the years. By far the greatest of these resources is to be found in the talents, the imagination and the potential value as citizens of our young people.

The California Congress of Parents and Teachers, with its affiliated community units, has from its inception fostered a dynamic concern for the education and character development of California's youth. They have worked consistently and tirelessly to attain sound school building and teacher recruitment programs to meet the expanding educational needs of our State.

The members of the PTA have been equally dedicated in helping to meet other community problems which directly affect our children and youth. Their contributions to general public efforts in such matters are of great importance, bringing a wealth of understanding and enthusiasm, based on long, effective experience in working with the boys and girls of California, into these endeavors.

In appreciation of the tremendous public services of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers and its individual members, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim October 7-13, 1956, as PARENT--TEACHER WEEK throughout California. I urge all the people of our State to acquaint themselves with the fine record established by the PTA and to give the fullest possible support to that organization in their respective communities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 7th day of August, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

PROCLAMATION

Regimentation and repression of working men and women are characteristic of alien doctrines which dominate nations under communistic and totalitarian control. By contrast, American workers have developed and vigorously sustained their right to apply individual ingenuity and initiative as well as physical strength to their productive labor.

In this contrast rests the key to the generally superior quality and wider consumer acceptance of the products of the American economic system in international competition. Poor workmanship is always costly, because of its inefficiency, even though the workers themselves are poorly compensated. It has been repeatedly demonstrated in the marts of trade that good work will command a fair price.

The law of worthy work well done is the law of American success. The very foundation of our way of life is based solidly upon the well-being, the happiness, the intelligence and the dynamic patriotism of the American wage earner.

Recognizing a respected symbol of American productive genius, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim UNION LABEL WEEK throughout our State, commencing on the traditional annual observance of LABOR DAY, Monday, September 3, and extending to September 9, 1956. During that period, I urge my fellow Californians to become more familiar with the place and purpose of the Union Label in the social and economic systems of our Nation.

Thousands of men and women have sacrificed their lives and futures to bring strength, dignity and security to individual citizenship in our Republic. From them all Americans have inherited the sacred privilege of personally participating in the affairs of their own government.

With this heritage we have accepted an inflexible obligation to preserve and defend it. There is no abstract guarantee that the rights we enjoy, having been won so dearly, will endure unless we exercise them with vigor and intelligence. The judicious use of the ballot is a basic responsibility which must be faithfully discharged in the preservation of our way of life.

It is the duty of every citizen, regardless of partisan affiliation or personal interest, to vote whenever the opportunity occurs. In order to qualify to vote, it is required that the electors in our State be officially enrolled prior to an election. Noting that September 13, 1956, is the final date upon which voters in California may qualify to vote in the General Election on November 6, 1956, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 6-13, 1956, as REGISTRATION WEEK in California and I urge my fellow citizens to be especially diligent during that period to determine if they are properly registered and otherwise qualified to exercise their sovereign franchise in November.

"Every citizen may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press."

With these words the Constitution of the State of California defines the fundamental rights of its people. The rights of individual free speech and of a free press are inter-dependent and inseparable.

The American press is free. It must remain untrammelled because it must be able to report on governmental processes and procedures without fear of retaliation. The press is the ultimate representative of the citizen and a responsible citizen should always be well informed in order to be an effective instrument for the preservation and strengthening of our American institutions.

In accordance with custom, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim October 1-8, 1956, NEWSPAPER WEEK throughout our state. During this period I am confident that each community newspaper in California will rededicate itself to the faithful discharge of its tremendous responsibility in evaluating and reporting on government and community affairs. With his constitutional freedom, the editor has an obligation to make sure the news is presented in the public interest honestly, accurately and as fully as possible. Readers, too, have an implied duty to study, analyze and act intelligently upon the facts and opinions presented to them in their newspapers. Writer and reader share equally in the benefits and responsibilities attendant upon a free press in a free nation.

Amid the magnificent bounty with which our nation has been endowed, our greatest resource by far is our youth. Children and young people give value and meaning to all the other treasures which are ours.

We are on the threshold of another school year and it is appropriate that public attention be called to the importance of protecting and conserving the youth of our state. Parents, teachers, public officials and, in fact, all adults have a grave responsibility to instruct and encourage young people in sound personal safety practices in traffic, on the playground, in the classroom and at home. There is also an obligation on all of us to provide favorable impressions in this regard by practicing care and courtesy so essential to effective accident prevention.

Noting the pressing need for stricter adherence to safety rules generally and for greater mindfulness of the security and rights of others, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 2-9, 1956, to be CHILD SAFETY WEEK in our state.

The paramount interest of all loyal Americans is the maintenance of peace with security and honor for our United States. In no respect is the word "united" more significant to us than in this. All of us and each of us have a vital interest in the civil defense of our nation. A significant part of national survival depends upon the individual citizen and the manner in which he or she responds to the need.

Civil defense is a personal thing. It is not something which can be delegated. With a dynamic, vibrant civil defense the result will be, in war or peace, a stronger, more self-reliant America.

It is vital that all Americans be aware of their importance in the preparedness and power of our republic. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 9-15, 1956, as CIVIL DEFENSE WEEK throughout our State. By participating in our Civil Defense programs, my fellow Californians will be given the opportunity to learn how to protect themselves, their families and their communities in any disaster--natural or enemy caused--and thus help to protect America. One of the thoughts which have been put forward in connection with this observance is worthy of consideration, and I take this means to present it to the people of California: "If you never need what you learn in civil defense, you lose nothing; but if you never learn what you need in civil defense, you might lose everything."

PROCLAMATION

In formulating our Federal Constitution, the Fathers of our Republic embarked upon an uncharted sea. They drew upon the experience and wisdom of every age and nation but, in the final analysis, they thought and worked primarily as Americans. In their devoted labors they combined hardy common sense with the loftiest idealism, and wrought a new concept of responsible popular government among men.

A nation's greatness is measured by its potential for achievement in the present, and nothing facilitates its progress more than an appreciative awareness of achievement in the past. It is important that we approach today's challenges with the spirit and example set for us by the courageous men who compiled our basic law. It was their manifest intent, borne out in the practice of succeeding generations, that our Constitution should be a positive, dynamic instrument for human progress; never an antique, static fetish of a dead past.

Firm in the faith that our Constitution is capable of standing the test of today and tomorrow as it has stood the test of yesterday, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim September 17, 1956, the 169th anniversary of the signing of that immortal document, as CONSTITUTION DAY in our State. The period of September 16-23, 1956, is hereby designated as AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP WEEK, during which the people of California are urged to refresh their dedication to the spirit and purpose implicit in Americanism through support of and participation in such programs as "I Am An American Day," "Citizenship Days," and similar patriotic observances. Particularly in this year of national decision it is imperative that all Americans--native and naturalized alike--take careful inventory of their rights and obligations as citizens in order that we may continue, united and strong, a people grateful to God for the bountiful blessings which He has bestowed upon us.

California has long recognized that the broadest possible franchise is essential to the effectiveness of truly representative government. Because of this, our state pioneered in providing processes whereby citizens necessarily absent from their home community or otherwise unable to go to their official precinct polling place on election day could cast their votes as citizens of our state and nation.

It is estimated that 178,000 Californians are on active duty with the Armed Forces of our republic and will be absent from their home precinct areas on the day of the next general election. California election laws provide simple, efficient means whereby its sons and daughters in national military or naval service can exercise their most precious right of citizenship.

I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 23-30, 1956, as SERVICEMEN'S VOTING WEEK throughout our State. I urge all civic, fraternal and political organizations to undertake programs to apprise the men and women from California in the Armed Forces of the method whereby they may secure and cast their ballots for the November 6 election. I further suggest that community-minded citizens personally write to those in the uniforms of our defense establishment, urging them to write their County Clerks, Registrars of Voters or the Secretary of State for California in order that they do not needlessly forfeit their sacred privilege of choice.

According to the State Fire Marshal's office, 385 Californians perished in home fires in our state last year. The national loss of human life due to fire is estimated to be in excess of 12,000 annually and property loss throughout the United States during 1955 exceeded a billion dollars.

At this season of the year, too, we are particularly reminded of the urgent need for vigilant precautions in the protection of our great forests, wild life and watershed areas against the ravages of that dreaded element.

This tragic and dreadful toll must be curtailed. This can be accomplished through the consistent practice of adequate fire prevention and control methods. Fire prevention programs are important to every community and every family. They should be the concern of all our people.

In order that public attention will be directed to the destructive force of uncontrolled fire and to emphasize the importance of eliminating fire hazards in our homes, public buildings and commercial establishments, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 7-13, 1956, FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in our state. I urge public officers; business, labor and farm groups; civic and fraternal organizations; the various public information media; schools and individual citizens to share in actively furthering the purposes of this annual observance.

Around the figure of John Rodrigues Cabrillo, the discoverer of California, has developed a proud tradition of patriotism and service on the part of Americans of Portuguese ancestry whose contributions to the development of our state have been manifold, significant and enduring.

Historians have laid great stress on the noble character of Cabrillo; on his courage, his benevolence, his tremendous talent and his abiding faith. His life was indeed exemplary, well worthy of emulation.

The spirit which carried Cabrillo and his companions into primitive California in 1542 in the face of adverse elements and under circumstances which tested to the utmost the qualities and abilities of these intrepid men is the same spirit which has accounted for so much of the unprecedented growth and development of California since then.

In accordance with Legislative mandate, I, Goodwin J. There are thousands of ambitious, talented, energetic Americans who, either from birth or as the result of accident, have suffered physical handicap. It should be borne in mind that, except for disability in a strictly limited area, these people are perfectly normal in every other way.

They are entitled to the chance of a fair trial to establish themselves as self-reliant, independent and economically productive workers. Handicapped men and women in the main do not seek nor want sympathy from those more favored. All they ask is an opportunity to successfully do a job they are capable of doing.

Exhaustive scientific surveys have established that handicapped workers selected solely on the basis of their ability and qualifications are at least equal, and in some cases superior, to non-handicapped workers in similar employment from a standpoint of efficiency and production. While they frequently need help in finding jobs, once they become adjusted to their employment they are able to hold their jobs and to progress to better ones.

It is fitting that a period be set aside once a year to remind us of the right of every American to an equal opportunity for independence and happiness. To this end, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 7-13, 1956, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in our State. I take this occasion to remind all Californians that rehabilitation and productive employment programs for the handicapped are not only commendable philanthropy, they are sound economics. A rehabilitated disabled person in gainful employment becomes a taxpayer and a constructive citizen, a positive force to his employer and to his community.

Before written history, bards, psalmists and minstrels kept alive in the minds of mankind the feats of the mighty, the wisdom of the sage and the commandments of God to his creatures. Their sagas, their proverbs and their sermons were set to verse and rhythm in order that they could be more readily remembered and understood.

Through the ages, poetry has provided inspiration for the future in the lays of past glory and of sublime, abstract human aspirations. Poetry exalts, delights and adorns our society. The poet Shelley defined it as "the record of the best and happiest moments of the happiest and best minds."

Recognizing the great, subtle influences of the poetic muse upon our society and its culture, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 15, 1956, POETRY DAY in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to lend every possible encouragement to poetic talent among their families, friends and neighbors, with particular attention to the latent abilities of young people, in order that this art form may continue to have vigorous vitality in making its significant contributions to our nation's heritage.

PROCLAMATION

When the federal government of the United States came into being, it marked a climax in humanity's long struggle to curb the corrupt and despotic power of tyrants. Created as a bold experiment in popular sovereignty, it has thrived in a world filled with powerful opponents who begrudged its very existence and who aggressively contended against its progressive development.

Survival for over a century and a half in the face of such determined opposition is an eloquent testimonial to the wisdom and foresight of the founders of our republic. Without sacrificing its original form and intent, our American Union has outlived literally scores of vigorously antagonistic alternative plans which have been tried and found wanting in other parts of the world.

The ultimate responsibility for maintaining the dynamic energy and efficiency of our government is vested in the people, and to give added emphasis to these obligations, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Tuesday, October 23, 1956, as UNITED STATES DAY throughout our state. I remind my fellow Californians that it is their privilege and duty to be informed concerning the conduct of their government and to exemplify its basic principles in their own individual political activities and participation in civic affairs. Only through the patriotic concern of all Americans can we keep our nation strong, united and free, enabling us to extend effective friendship to other peoples and nations dedicated to the cause of human dignity and individual liberty. We should ever be alert to the fact that the alternatives to the basic philosophy underlying our American institutions are chaotic anarchy and repressive despotism.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 1st day of October, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

We all recognize that the world today is divided by deeply rooted differences of philosophy and by conflict of national interests. At the same time, there are wide and substantial areas of thought and action which represent a large measure of harmony upon which may be built a solid foundation for international cooperation and peace on earth.

Realistically, there are many serious obstacles to overcome before peace is secure beyond all threats. The United Nations, a voluntary association of sovereign nations, has undertaken to deal with ancient confusions through united action and to achieve mutual respect for one another's problems among its members.

It is to be hoped that out of the trials and errors, the triumphs and the failures of the United Nations will eventually evolve international respect for the majesty of the law and for the dignity of the individual. Recognizing the official participation of the United States in this world-wide effort for cooperation between nations and peoples, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Wednesday, October 24, 1956, as UNITED NATIONS DAY in our state. I remind my fellow Californians that the problems faced by the United Nations are human problems and are not beyond eventual human control. I urge the people of our state to be tolerant of the imperfections of the United Nations, and to do their part in good faith to make it an effective instrument for the salvation of the world from those who would impose their selfish will upon others through armed force, malicious propaganda or economic pressures.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 3rd day of October, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

As the home of champions and the site of the last Olympic Games held in the United States, California has keen interest in the progress and the participation of American athletes in the Olympic Games at Melbourne, Australia, being held this year between November 22 and December 8.

PROCLAMATION

When Columbus set foot on the soil of the Western Hemisphere, history records his first act was to kneel on the beach and offer fervent thanks to God. When the Pilgrims landed on the stern New England coast, their first act was one of thanksgiving for deliverance from persecution and from a perilous oceanic exodus from the Old World.

In the depths of the trials at Valley Forge, Washington and his command found reason to express prayerful gratitude for divine favor; during the American Civil War, Abraham Lincoln saw beyond the temporary but terrible struggle of brother against brother and called for national thanksgiving.

If these and other great Americans of the past had cause to give thanks for the blessings which were theirs, how much more have we to be grateful for. The energy, devotion and patriotism of our forebears have given us a rich heritage. Their firm faith and their monumental works, developed in liberty under God, have made our nation strong and free.

In keeping with the sacred traditions of the American people, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Thursday, November 22, 1956, to be a day of THANKSGIVING throughout our state. I urge that my fellow Californians mark the day with appropriate offerings of thanks in the manner prescribed by the faith of their individual choice. I remind the people of California that a nation-wide, inter-denominational program has been instituted through which they will have the opportunity to give thanks by giving, sharing our abundance with those less favored, as tangible evidence of our thankfulness for all the good things which we enjoy through the benevolence of Divine Providence in this land of peace and plenty.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of October, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Six.

As individual knowledge and understanding of our heritage as a free people increases, so does appreciation of the blessings we enjoy as Americans. The vivid, inspiring personalities; the dramatic events; the thrilling incidents, and the thousands of triumphs and tragedies of our historic past constitute a firm foundation for fervent patriotism in the hearts of all of us.

Organizations such as the All-American Conference to Combat Communism have adopted a positive, constructive approach to the ideological conflict now going on throughout the world between the governmental philosophies of human freedom and tyrannical absolutism. It is essential that all Americans recognize the divisive tactics of our communistic detractors in pitting group against group and that they actively resist such activity.

Inasmuch as the present and its inevitable consequence, the future, are the cumulative effects of the past, I commend the participants in the All-American Conference to Combat Communism for their patriotic fervor. In accord with their nationwide program, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim November 18-24, 1956, KNOW YOUR AMERICA WEEK in our state, and I urge my fellow Californians to actively cooperate in this observance and to do everything possible to insure the preservation of the precious freedoms guaranteed to every American regardless of race, religion or nativity.

The future strength and security of our beloved republic are dependent upon the development of intelligence, skill and knowledge in our children and youth. Upon the training which they receive in their homes, in their churches and in their schools will be constructed the character of our nation in the years ahead.

Dynamic enlightened public interest in education is essential to the success of our programs for the development of our youth. Broadly speaking, education is of vital personal importance not only to parents, teachers and students, but to every member of the community. The pattern of progress in a community is largely determined by the direction of its educational system and the interest its people take in their schools.

To encourage the fullest public support and cooperation on behalf of the schools in our commonwealth, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim November 11-17, 1956, AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK in our State. I urge my fellow Californians, individually and through their various organizations, to acquaint themselves with the aims, achievements and problems of their schools and to encourage others to do likewise, in order that our boys and girls may have all the advantages of the finest educational methods available.

Our nation's successful resistance to alien dominance and to oppressive tyranny nearly 200 years ago has been an inspiration and a lodestar to men and women throughout the world who dream of freedom with dignity for their own homeland.

The people of Hungary are, at this moment, engaged in a determined struggle to secure for themselves and for their children the blessings of liberty. They face tremendous odds against a ruthless enemy. They need help from all people everywhere who believe in the inherent rights of man.

Organizations within our republic, such as the International Rescue Committee headed by Admiral Richard E. Byrd and many other illustrious Americans, are now engaged in campaigns to provide moral, financial and physical assistance to the embattled Hungarians.

Recalling the course of human events which compelled our forefathers to establish ours as a free nation, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Sunday, November 25, 1956, as FREE HUNGARY DAY in our state. I urge all Californians of every faith to offer commemorative prayers in their respective places of worship on that day or on a day otherwise appropriate in behalf of the thousands of brave, patriotic Hungarians who have given their lives in the sacred cause of human freedom.

One hundred and sixty-five years ago, our forefathers recognized the need for amending the Constitution to offer to the people and states certain rights of freedom for which our nation was founded. These ten amendments were adopted by the First Congress of the United States and were accepted by the people as the "Bill of Rights."

Today, we Americans find many of these amendments incorporated into our everyday life without significance--they are rarely infringed on. However, in this year of 1956 the First and Fourth amendments are continuously before us. The First covers the four freedoms--from want, from fear, of speech and assembly. Today we are building a strong nation against the encroachment of those who would relieve us of these freedoms. The Fourth amendment admonishes illegal search and seizure of one's property. Again there are those in this world who live under a yoke of totalitarianism that disregards this right.

It is therefore significant that we should review our "Bill of Rights" and reassure ourselves that these rights are indivisible and that these freedoms are the most precious possessions in our American Heritage.

In accordance with this belief, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period beginning December 9, 1956, and ending December 15, 1956, the 165th anniversary of the effective date of these amendments, as BILL OF RIGHTS WEEK throughout our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to reacquaint themselves with the inalienable rights that have stood as a bulwark against all tyranny and to dedicate themselves to a program of extending these rights to all mankind; for no peoples can be completely free unless all are free.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of December, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-six.

The establishment of courts during the birth of this nation represented a protection of one of our basic freedoms. Today, as in the past 275 years, we have defended that right of the American people to take their differences before a magistrate of law. There are those in the world today who would like to see that this privilege is taken away from us. It is therefore necessary that we re-appraise the contributions our courts make to our democratic way of life.

Here in California, we have found it necessary during the past decade to reorganize our court structure in order to meet the demands of a rapidly increasing population. Five years ago the Municipal Court went through a complete metamorphosis that increased its efficiency to the citizens of our State. Today there are 57 Municipal Courts with 168 judges in California. These experienced magistrates handle a tremendous calendar of cases that come before them, but their job extends further than findings and sentences. Each is a leader in the community, attempting to further the progress made against infractions of the law. Their task is never ending.

In view of the important part the Municipal Court plays in the communities of this State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of January 1-7, 1957, as MUNICIPAL COURT WEEK in our State, and I urge my fellow citizens to visit the courts and learn of their structure and operation, and I further urge that all Californians become acquainted with their magistrates who sit on these courts, and realize the great responsibilities that they hold in the communities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 12th day of December, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-six.

The first Chamber of Commerce was established in California in 1851 and was responsible for the initiation of a great service to industry, commerce and the communities of our State. Today there are 621 independent city chambers throughout the Golden State that are playing an exemplary part in the progress of the communities. Were these chambers to operate individually, there would exist a bottle-neck in the duties that they perform. With the organization of the State Chamber of Commerce, the efforts of all chambers are being steered into a common project.

It is this type of cooperation between the cities that has given California the reputation of being the most progressive State. National industries are recognizing the potentialities of placing their operations in the State; problems between these industries and the communities in which they settle are being ably handled through the local Chambers of Commerce; local civic leaders are continually called on to aid in guiding the growth of their areas. These civic duties that are being absorbed by the chambers are worthy of our continual recognition.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of February 3 through 9 as CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WEEK, and I urge my fellow Californians to become acquainted with the operation of their local chambers and to take an active part in the noteworthy work that they are doing.

Born in slavery, died in the hearts of his countrymen....this best personifies the life of educator, scientist Dr. George Washington Carver. For his was a life started in the obscurity of bondage, only to develop beyond the heights of most men.

Determined to reach beyond the bonds into which he was born, Dr. Carver toiled tirelessly in order to receive the education needed to attain his ambitions. Through the recognition of his fellow scientists who looked beyond race and color, he was able to gain higher education and further his genius for research and development. At 32 years of age he was called to Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, where for 46 years he was to achieve world recognition in agricultural science. To this great industry he donated numerous discoveries that were to help raise the standards of his fellow men. For these, Dr. Carver accepted no remuneration.

Today, fourteen years after his death, his contributions to the field of agricultural advancement are recognized throughout the world. His achievements are duly honored by those who have profited by them.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 3, 1927, as DR. GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY, and do urge my fellow Californians to recall the contributions this man has made to the American way of life.

PROCLAMATION

Since the introduction of the Salk Polio Vaccine there has been a remarkable decline in the number of paralytic cases throughout the State of California. But the elimination of this dread disease is still to be attained, and it requires the cooperation of every citizen to achieve this end. Armed with such a promising public health weapon as the Vaccine, it would be tragic indeed if we did not do all within our power to assure the immunization of as many Californians as possible at all times.

All residents of this State have been deeply impressed with the cooperation already shown between the State Health Department, local Health Officers and private physicians in immunizing a large segment of the population against polio. To this end the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has given its tireless efforts.

As we feel the satisfaction of victory within our grasp, we must not forget that there are those who are still in iron lungs and who will require long periods of care; those who cannot afford to maintain the necessary yearly immunization against infection; and those who must gain back the muscular strength that has been taken from them. This all requires great expense. It is an obligation to all of us to aid in acquiring proper care for those who have been stricken.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of January, 1957, as MARCH OF DIMES MONTH and do urge my fellow Californians to give generously to this most worthy cause. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has proved the effectiveness of its leadership toward eventual eradication of poliomyelitis as a menace to the health, happiness and independence of our people, and rightfully deserves the support of all citizens.

PROCLAMATION

On January 11, 1757, Alexander Hamilton was born in the British West Indies. Two hundred years later, his teachings and political philosophies represent a major factor in our present day government. During this bicentennial of his birth it is well for us to note his ambitions which were fired by a desire to see that our union was strong. Between the time of the signing of the Constitution of the United States and its adoption, great partisan conflicts arose that might well have doomed our fight for self-government.

Into these conflicts stepped Alexander Hamilton, a man destined to be the mainspring of the Constitutional Convention; a man who carried a vision of a great Federal Republic that would stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico; and a man who worked tirelessly to give a firm foundation to the growth of such a republic.

Engrossed as he was in home affairs, he was nevertheless a deep student of foreign relations, and advocated a position of neutrality on the part of the American government with regard to the difficulties of nations. Of equal importance was the personality of this man of imagination. He was not popular, nor did he strive after popularity, but his memory and achievements are imperishable. He lived for the public good. Eloquent and refined, able and brilliant, the embodiment of integrity, devotion and courage, he left as deep a mark upon political institutions as any other statesman the United States has produced.

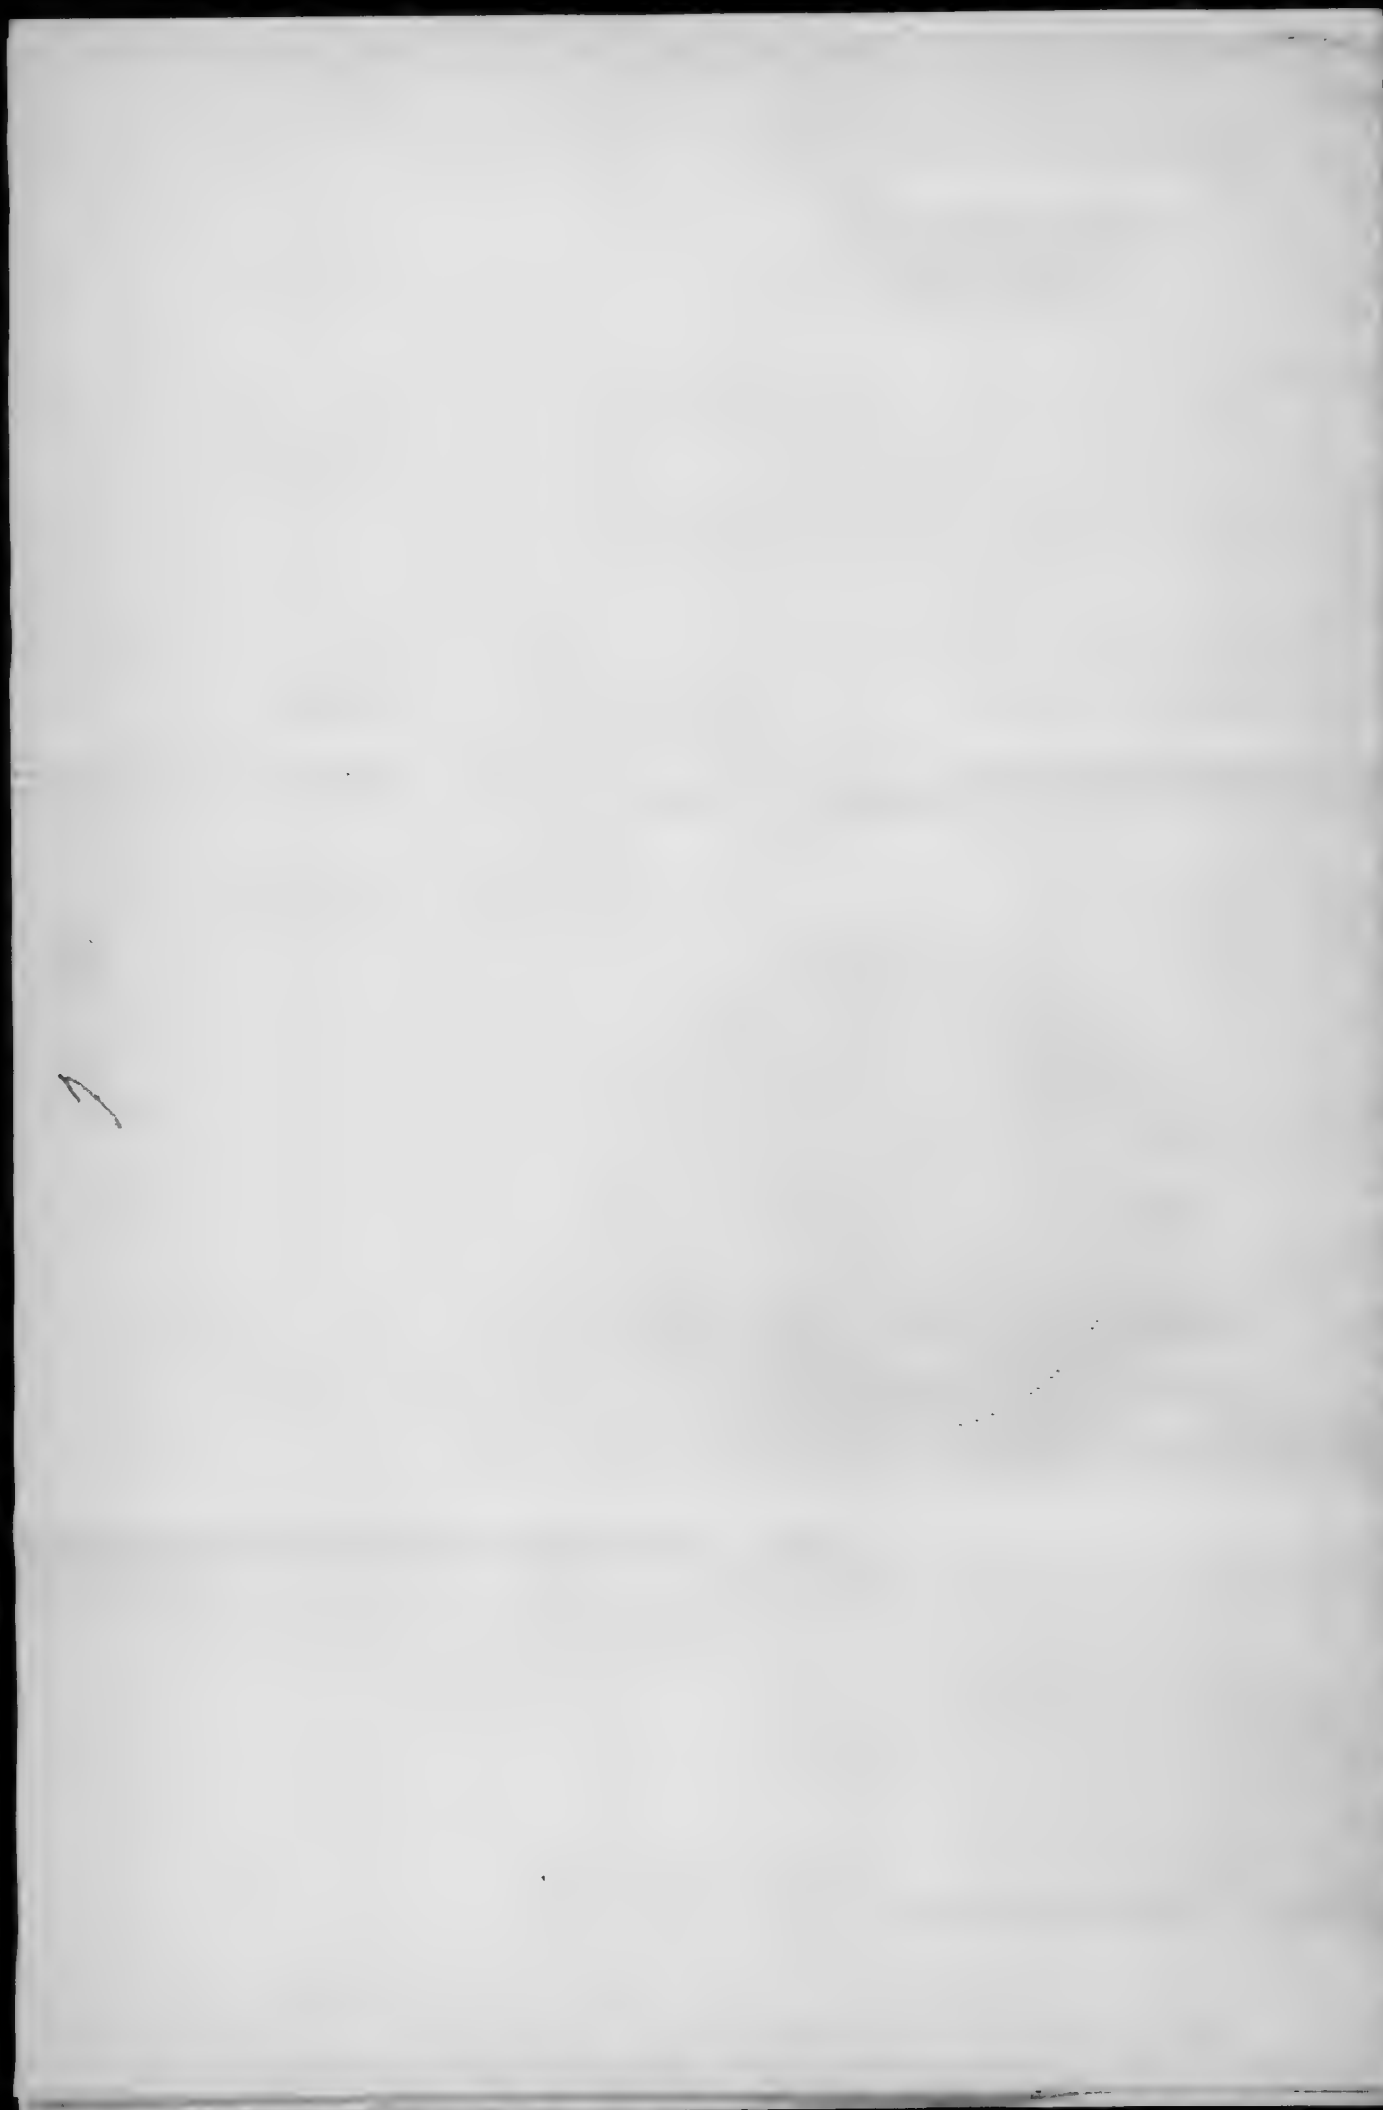

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby designate the year commencing January 11, 1957, as the ALEXANDER HAMILTON BICENTENNIAL, and do urge my fellow Californians to join in observances designated to demonstrate our gratitude and obligation to Alexander Hamilton.

".....that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Since the birth of our great nation, our people have molded themselves into one single ambition... to see that the heritage of America is guarded against all who would lock us into stocks of oppression. To this ideal must be wedded the full realization that our present day democracy is the result of the toil and sweat of those who demanded freedom. The integrity, character, and forthrightness of those who wrote the pages of our history must be a part of our actions today so that progress toward a world of peace shall never end.

It is for us to dedicate our efforts to men of goodwill everywhere, regardless of race, color, creed or origin, and to forever cry the eras of solidarity that have carried this nation through moments of waywardness. It is for us to absorb the full meaning of those moments in order that lessons received shall serve as inspirations for progress. The dedication of those who have steered the course of America represents the consecration of basic principles on which freedom has lived. Those principles must be reviewed and relived by each of us.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of February, 1957, as AMERICAN HISTORY MONTH, and do urge all my fellow citizens to inaugurate, promote and participate in activities that will strengthen devotion to our heritage and will inspire a true desire to assist in strengthening our democratic way of life.

Great Seal of the State of

PROCLAMATION

California's industrial expansion and activity continue their phenomenal growth, so that they play an ever more important part in the economy of our nation. More and more men and women are being employed in California industry, and the number of persons gainfully employed in this State is the highest in history.

Management, labor, government, organizations, and individuals vitally concerned with on-the-job safety are appalled at the toll of on-the-job injuries and deaths, which continue to exact a heavy price in suffering, disruption to families, and burdens to our society. In every aspect, from the financial to the emotional, the cost of work injuries is indeed staggering.

All of us in California have a direct concern with the safety of ourselves and our neighbors. I commend all who, in the spirit of selfless service, are working so unremittingly and effectively to reduce the number and severity of on-the-job injuries, and I urge them to continue their united efforts in a great humanitarian cause.

To reawaken public attention to the many problems of on-the-job safety, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 4-9, 1957, as INDUSTRIAL SAFETY WEEK, and urge my fellow citizens to participate in programs that will bring the need for industrial safety to the attention of every working man and woman throughout our State.

P R O C L A M A T I O N

The welfare and safety of the State of California are the responsibility of the Governor and it is fitting that any effort made by groups in cooperating with law enforcement agencies in solving the problem of crime should be recognized.

Although the year 1955 showed a drop in the number and cost of crimes throughout our State, 1956 brought figures up to a high equal to 1954. That year was California's worst. The direct costs of crime in 1956 are estimated at $220,000,000. This covers the cost of maintaining prisons, police, jails, courts, etc.

The greatest increase in crime last year was in automobile theft which shows an increase of 30%. Other categories of crimes are equal or slightly higher than in 1955.

Although our law enforcement agencies' performance of duty merits high commendation, it is necessary for the public to cooperate in establishing programs that will familiarize all citizens with the problems of crime prevention. The National Exchange Clubs throughout the country have made outstanding contributions toward appealing for civilian help from respective communities.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 10-16, 1957, as CRIME PREVENTION WEEK, and do urge my fellow citizens to participate in civic activities arranged for the prevention of crime in their communities.

PROCLAMATION

....that man unto his fellow man shall be a friend forever."

These few words denote the basic principles which our nation was born. They signify the strength with which our heritage developed. They represent the firm foundation for a future World peace. They are the basis for daily consideration in order that we may contribute to the brotherhood of all men.

California's position in America becomes more prominent day by day as thousands continue to migrate into our State from other parts of the country and from many foreign shores. To list the colors, creeds, races and denominations represented by these people would be an endless task. Yet, the Golden State is proud of the contributions these people are making toward its progress and they are doing it in complete accord....living side by side, sharing similar ideas and ideals, working together for a better community.

Our fears for World peace today are based on the unwillingness of some to respect the rights of all individuals and peoples. As we here in the Golden State join our government in programs promoting better understanding, it is well that we rededicate ourselves to the ideals of respect; that we promote an understanding and realization of these ideals and that we enlist citizens into year-round activities to build brotherhood everywhere.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, in full accord with the National Conference of Christians and Jews, do hereby proclaim February 17-24, 1957, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK, and do urge my fellow citizens to re-evaluate the need for a World based on the brotherhood of man.

PROCLAMATION

We are in the second month of a year that promises to bring to Americans the largest gross income in the history of the nation. As this income grows through the years, so does the ability for people to spend these monies to raise their individual standard of living. These are known steps in the cycle of our economic history.

Along with this ability goes the economic principle of competitive enterprise whereby the products of our State and Nation are perfected in order to meet the demand. This healthy atmosphere of industry and commerce must be brought home to the people through advertising. As the quality of products becomes more refined, the newspapers, television, radio and other media become more vital to our economy.

The men and women engaged in the field of advertising are members of an art that offers them an expression unknown in some parts of the world. Not only is this expression turned toward the economy of our democratic way of life, but in turn is used to carry on philanthropic, patriotic and educational programs that benefit every community. For these contributions, they must be highly commended.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of February 10 through 16, 1957, as ADVERTISING WEEK, and do urge my fellow citizens to recognize the achievements of members of this business and to become familiar with their part in the traditions of our nation.

PROCLAMATION

Californians have been impressed by the manner in which the Boy Scouts of America, its leaders and its well-wishers, have helped to mold youngsters into the type of men who make good American citizens.

Since the inception of this movement less than half a century ago, almost 25 million youngsters have had the benefit of Boy Scout training. Today in the Golden State there are over 250,000 scouts and 23,000 scoutmasters and assistants. As our State grows so rapidly the need for expansion of this program becomes more real.

The work of the Boy Scouts and their adult leaders has had a tremendously beneficial effect on the thinking and the morals of our State. California is a better State because of this movement.

The youth of today...including the members of the Boy Scouts of America...are part of the next generation that will become leaders because of the qualities of Americanism, manliness and character with which they are being inculcated, and which are so essential in the maintenance of our American way of life. They constitute an instrument of freedom that no alien philosophy will ever penetrate.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 6 through 12, 1957, as BOY SCOUT WEEK, and do urge my fellow citizens to support the Boy Scout movement in every possible manner so that this crusade by youth may continue to fulfill destiny as a bulwark of Americanism.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 31st day of January, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

PROCLAMATION

During the past few years the American people have their attention dramatically focused on the toll which disease of the heart and circulatory system takes throughout the nation.

In the United States and in California more than half of all deaths each year are caused by this type of ailment.
In only six months the U. S. toll is 400,000--more than all American battle deaths from 1775 to 1945.

There is a reliable estimate that one in every 16 persons in the United States is a victim of this tragic disease.
This amounts to 10,000,000 people and includes 500,000 children.
Each year 1½ billion man-hours of productive work are lost to our economy.

Through the American Heart Association and its affiliated organizations, we are making significant progress toward conquest of these maladies in programs of research, community service and education.

The work of these groups has determined that some forms of heart disease can be cured, that all such cases can be cared for best if diagnosed early and treated properly, and that most heart patients can keep on working, often in their customary occupations.

Such progress has restored to us the experience, wisdom and talents of many citizens which would otherwise have been lost to us.

Once each year we are called upon to extend financial support to these programs on behalf of our own improved health and longer life for our children.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February, 1957, as HEART MONTH, and February 24, 1957, to be HEART SUNDAY, and urge my fellow citizens to respond generously to the 1957 Heart Fund campaign to insure continuing progress in this fine, humanitarian cause.

PROCLAMATION

The growth of California 4-H Clubs, since their inception in 1913, has contributed greatly to the improvement of agriculture and associated industries throughout our State. With emphasis on constructive citizenship, individual responsibility and family obligations, 4-H Clubs constitute a dynamic force in the lives of the young people of California's rural areas. The people of the Golden State recognize this very worthwhile program through support of the University of California Agricultural Extension Service and its field staff of Farm and Home Advisors.

In the past year, 4-H Clubs have added to their accomplishments by promoting community services and public safety, as well as individual and club projects. In California the Clubs are a part of more than 2,100,000 young men and women in the United States who are "learning by doing." Also to be commended are the 7,731 volunteer local leaders who give unselfishly of their time and energies to guide club members toward their achievements. These volunteers are now working in this State with 30,845 club members who are active in 1,094 communities. These contributions to the industrial and agricultural progress of our State merit high commendation.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of March 2 through 9, 1957, as 4-H CLUB WEEK, and do urge my fellow citizens to take advantage of the opportunities offered to become better acquainted with the efforts of the 4-H Clubs in their goal to become productive citizens, farmers, and homemakers.

Each year the production income of California farmers breaks new records and each year we find a greater trend toward increased efficiency in agriculture. Part of this rise is due to a program conducted throughout the high schools of our State in agricultural education. The young men who are in these courses are members of the Future Farmers of America. This young farm blood offers new ideas and up-to-date methods in farming that increase the production of every acre.

Agriculture today in the Golden State is the source of large income offering more modern homes, equipped with the latest appliances to our rural residents. The young farmer finds good roads, radio and television to keep him in touch with world and local events. Through the facilities and efforts of the Future Farmer organizations the school-age young men are put in touch with scientific advances; are offered training in latest methods; and are encouraged to enter competitive exhibits of their achievements.

All this not only presents a well trained and educated Future Farmer but it places our agriculturalists high on the list of community, county and state leaders; for their contributions merit high commendation.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 18 through 23, 1957, as FUTURE FARMER WEEK, and do urge my fellow citizens to take part in activities and programs that will familiarize each member of the community with the outstanding service this organization is offering.

PROCLAMATION

The young people of California are continuing to take a prominent part in the progress of our State. Their contributions to civic activities, to government and to the welfare of their neighbors merit high commendation.

However, confronting them are still vital social problems and challenges that demand our serious attention. The solution to these lies in acceptance of responsibility by every citizen who desires to uphold the heritage that has made America strong. The proper guidance of our youth toward good citizenship and toward a place of dignity in our society requires our untiring efforts. We, as adults, must prepare the paths which will guarantee a future of brotherhood among all peoples.

Our federal and state governments with the cooperation of welfare organizations are waging continuous war against the importation and peddling of narcotics. But this is not the only solution. A program of education of our youth as to the moral responsibilities they must face will eventually erase the possible avenues of distribution of these drugs. Only through the lack of demand can the supply be completely choked off.

Today we are also fighting a battle against ever increasing numbers of automobile accidents that are caused by those who drive while under the influence of intoxicants. Our youth are not the only ones guilty but never-ending parental and social education will instill in the minds of these young people the dangers of such practices.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 7 through 13, 1957, as YOUTH TEMPERANCE EDUCATION WEEK, and do urge my fellow citizens to cooperate to the fullest extent possible in educational programs that will guide our youth to a full and profitable life.

PROCLAMATION

For more than 75 years, the American Red Cross has acted for the American people in meeting needs in emergencies. Qualities of the heart---sympathy and kindness and a desire to help---are effectively expressed through its splendid program of public service.

In California alone last year, the Red Cross expended nearly $8,614,000 to assist the victims of two floods, a train wreck and six serious conflagrations. More than $8,500,000 of this total went to help the people made homeless by the floods which swept over sections of California just before Christmas, 1955. Red Cross workers assisted 9,916 families to restore their homes and businesses after the waters receded.

Always alert to future emergencies, the American Red Cross works in close cooperation with the State Disaster Office in training thousands of citizens in the fundamentals of first aid and home nursing as measures of self-preservation and in formulating with local Civil Defense organizations preparedness plans for mass feeding, clothing and shelter of the population in event of enemy attack.

In addition to its disaster services both at home and abroad, the American Red Cross provides guidance and counsel, emergency financial assistance and emergency communications to armed service personnel and their families. It helps local communities through educational programs in water safety; its volunteers perform patient services in State mental hospitals, and through its blood collection program nearly 164,000 pints of blood were provided for patients in 192 California hospitals last year.

Resources to carry on this humanitarian program are derived from the annual membership and fund campaign conducted during the month of March each year. To give the greatest possible encouragement to this endeavor, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March, 1957, as RED CROSS MONTH in our State and I strongly urge the people of California to respond generously to this appeal of the American Red Cross in the knowledge that rising population and changing community conditions have increased the need for Red Cross services.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 27th day of February, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Seven.

Each year it is amazing to Californians who visit the State Fair and the many District Fairs to re-evaluate the abundance of natural wealth that our State holds. Nowhere else in the world can one find such versatility in resources and nature's bounties. Yet these are only as valuable as the work we put into preserving and replenishing them.

Nature's beauties and bounties can often turn to devastation and tragedy. We have recently seen one of our most magnificent coastal areas, abundant in trees and shrubs, completely wiped out by fire. Thirty-five thousand acres were destroyed and millions of dollars of damage done. Not long after this holocaust, great rains came that threatened to wipe the topsoil from this burned out area. These events are unpredictable, but conservation and protection of resources can minimize the extent of the damage done. Today this great area is being re-seeded in order to replenish the plant and wildlife.

California's great treasury of natural resources has been harnessed for industry and commerce, but we must dedicate ourselves to the proposition that the sources are not endless and must be conserved for the prosperity of those who come after us.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 7 through 13, 1957, as CONSERVATION WEEK in our State, and designate Thursday, March 7, 1957, as ARBOR DAY; this day representing the anniversary of the birth of our beloved naturalist, Luther Burbank. I urge my fellow citizens to observe this occasion through the planting of new trees and shrubs to enhance the State's natural beauty and to replenish the natural resources of California

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 4th day of March, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

As the population of California continues its tremendous growth, so does the need of crippled children and adults continue to require our help and support in making available to them proper medical attention, in finding outlets for their energies, and in making them feel that they are still an important and productive part of our society.

Each year the California Society for Crippled Children and Adults joins millions of our friends and neighbors in banding together to create a working fund from which services and facilities can be operated and established. During this past year more than 14,000 children and adults were given aid through the Easter Seal program. Now the need is even greater. The California Society estimates that there are 400,000 who must be offered the same opportunities and advantages.

Shortly, more than four million families in the Golden State will receive letters containing the Easter Seals and the return contribution envelopes. In this way, each family will be able to make its donation to this great and worthy cause. Well over half of the funds contributed stays right in the same county, which means that you are giving, in large, to members of your own community.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 15 through Easter Sunday, April 21, 1957, as EASTER SEAL TIME, and do urge my fellow citizens to support the California Society for Crippled Children and Adults in order that they may render the services necessary to emotionally, psychologically, vocationally and physically rehabilitate these handicapped people.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 4th day of March, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

Citizens of our great State donate millions of dollars annually for research into the prevention of many of our killing diseases. Along with this must go the care of those who have been afflicted. For more than four decades, the City of Hope National Medical Center in Duarte, California, has been dedicated to alleviating the suffering of victims of cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis, and heart disease. Their great humanitarian efforts are aimed at joining patient care, treatment, research and post-medical education toward finding new weapons against the catastrophic diseases which afflict mankind.

The City of Hope has welcomed, free of charge, patients from all over our state and nation, without regard to race, creed or national origin. Their outstanding services are financed solely through the generous support of all the people.

It is an honor for our Golden State to be the home of such a truly charitable and scientific organization. Great expansion in its facilities and in its ability to bring hope to more people is needed in order that those who come after us may find a freedom from fear of these afflictions.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby declare the month of June, 1957, as CITY OF HOPE MONTH, and do urge all my fellow citizens to give generously from their hearts so that there may be hope for ourselves and our posterity.

SCRAPIE DISEASE OF SHEEP

I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of the State of California, pursuant to the authority of Section 207.6 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California, do hereby proclaim an animal disease emergency.

A serious infectious disease of sheep, known as scrapie, has been diagnosed as being present among sheep on certain premises in the County of Solano, State of California. If not forthwith eradicated, this disease would prove a serious threat to the sheep industry of the State.

The Director of Agriculture on March 8, 1957, adopted an order and proclamation amending regulations of the Director of Agriculture pertaining to scrapie disease of sheep, declared to be an emergency and effective on date of filing. The boundaries of the quarantine district wherein this disease exists; the maintenance of a quarantine on all animals therein, including restrictions on the movement of animals in said district, as provided in Section 205 of the California Agricultural Code, are set forth in said order and proclamation.

Now, therefore, I proclaim that an animal disease emergency exists, and that those sections of the Agricultural Code pertaining to the prevention of the spread of animal diseases shall be exercised.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and have caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this Eighteenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and fifty-seven.

PROCLAMATION

During the past year there has been encouraging news in the fight against cancer: new statistical studies have shown that whereas our doctors previously have been saving the life of one cancer patient in every four, they now are saving the life of one in every three.

This means that an additional three thousand California men, women, and children are well and happy today who would have been given no statistical chance for recovery even as recently as a year or two ago when their cancers were first diagnosed.

Such progress provides inspiration for scientists and others whose efforts are directed toward the control of cancer in man. Of the estimated sixty thousand Californians who will be under treatment for cancer this year, twenty thousand can now expect to be saved. Yet, as each day draws us nearer to the final conquest of cancer, the hope persists that its toll can be reduced still more. Fulfillment of this hope lies in continued progress of programs of cancer education and research.

The American Cancer Society, through its county branches and committees, long has given leadership to the fight against cancer in this State. Its many thousands of volunteer workers will participate during April in the Society's annual fund raising and educational Cancer Crusade, the purposes of which are to raise funds for cancer research and to spread life-saving information about the disease.

To assist these volunteers in their important work, and to help call attention to the desirability of carrying the fight against cancer to an early and successful conclusion, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of April as CANCER CONTROL MONTH in California, and urge my fellow citizens to support the Cancer Crusade appeal.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 22nd day of March, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

PROCLAMATION

For many years, Americans everywhere have set aside a week as a reminder that the people of North, Central and South America desire to live and work together in peace and good fellowship. This year we Californians have even greater reason to recognize the importance of emphasizing the good will which exists among our Pan American neighbors. During the celebration of this 27th annual week, 21 ambassadors from the Latin American countries will be visiting the Golden State as our guests. This affords us the opportunity to render homage to the ideals of Pan Americanism which are growing in stature and increasing in strength as time goes on. This long-standing unity is particularly noteworthy in view of frequent disputes and conflicts which continue to arise in many other parts of the world.

The cultural ties between Latin and South America and our State have always been the strongest. In the days before the Panama Canal, when shipping was restricted and easier along the Western coast, California was indeed an Athens for many of our southern neighbors. There are today a large number of families in that area whose members are receiving their education in our schools and colleges. With our ever-increasing population and the possibilities for expansion in the industrial and cultural fields, we look forward to even closer relations with members of these countries. For we know that this is not only an ideal but a practical objective.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 8 through 14, 1957, as PAN AMERICAN WEEK, and April 14, 1957, as PAN AMERICAN DAY, and do urge my fellow citizens to extend fullest hospitality to the 21 Pan American Ambassadors and to relive the ideals of Pan Americanism during the entire year.

Through the clouds of today's adversities shines a symbol of strength that serves to press man onward in his quest for spiritual peace. As men sit at the conference table to plot the future of the brotherhood of all peoples, the simple wooden cross signifies the philosophy that man unto his fellow man must strive to be a friend forever. As the multitudes go about their everyday business, the place called Golgotha casts its rays of light along the paths of tolerance, honesty, forthrightness and unselfishness.

Today, so many years after the day of Crucifixion, the ministries of the Son of God must continue to serve as a guide to a brighter future for all mankind. Only in this way may those who are to follow find mutual helpfulness, personal humility and respect for the dignity of others. Through His words, we can find the strength to dedicate our lives to men of good will everywhere and to consecrate our energies to the proposition that freedom to worship in the shadow of the Cross is our most precious right.

In reverent contemplation of these things, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, urge my fellow citizens of Christian faith to observe the hours between noon and 3:00 p.m. on Good Friday, April 19, 1957, as a time for meditation, prayer and rededication to their belief in peace, brotherhood and hope, founded upon the teachings of their acknowledged Saviour through His ministry, death and resurrection.

As the champions of alien doctrines continue to employ terror and treachery against the freedom loving peoples of the world, it behooves all Americans to reaffirm their loyalty to the democratic way of life which serves as an impregnable barrier to oppression.

The fundamental constitutional rights of the individual to free speech, free assemblage, free press, and free choice of religion have provided an invincible weapon against all who would control the hearts and minds of our people.

Today, in a world still struggling to find the path to peace, it is imperative that we declare anew our faith in these God-given birth-rights and re-dedicate our lives to the principles of Americanism. United behind these bulwarks we will stem the selfish ambitions of the totalitarians by frustrating their attempts to oppose the tenets of democratic thinking.

Each year the Veterans of Foreign Wars sponsor a patriotic observance on May 1, when all Americans are urged to take particular note of communism's threat to our liberties and to pledge afresh their support of those ideals which we preserve and defend.

Recognizing that loyalty means liberty, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 1, 1957, as LOYALTY DAY, throughout our State and do urge my fellow citizens to cooperate fully in the spirit of this observance.

Assistant Secretary of State

If we are to preserve the ideals of freedom, the Armed Forces of our great commonwealth....in peace no less than in war....must receive the support of all citizens in carrying out their duty of safeguarding the security of our homeland. As the threat of oppression continues to necessitate a strong Army, Navy and Air Force, it is well for all of us to re-evaluate the contributions that the men and women in uniform are making toward international peace.

The President of the United States has proclaimed Saturday, May 18, 1957, as a day to honor our men and women of the Armed Forces who are teamed for defense and for the building of security with freedom. The theme of this year's observance is "Power for Peace" and represents the manifold energies that the leaders of our country are expending to see that future generations can continue to progress in a free world.

In consideration of these ideals and in full accord with the President's recognition, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 18, 1957, as ARMED FORCES DAY throughout our State. I am sure that my fellow citizens, mindful of their own as well as their country's safety, will find it reassuring to take the fullest possible advantage of the opportunity on this day to visit posts and bases, attend open houses, and take part in ceremonial programs in observance of the occasion. In addition, I urge the appropriate display of our State and National flags throughout California to remind the people of the importance of our defense system.

As a result of today's burgeoning economy, California's ports are teeming with the activity of coastal and international commerce. From our shores, products of agriculture and industry are exported to the far corners of the world and our economy is strengthened by the millions of dollars in wages, dividends, profits and taxes derived from maritime service.

Our close relationship with foreign countries is greatly enhanced by frequent visits by ships from other nations.

A new and even larger horizon of usefulness and opportunity lies ahead for our merchant marine in the early and effective application of atomic energy in merchant ship propulsion. This ambitious and optimistic program entails long-range planning, courageous culling of inefficient operating units, the burden of heavy financing, and an exceptional type of cooperation among all segments of the industry. Members of this industry in California are prepared to face these challenges. Our maritime service is a sound one, its leaders are capable, and possess courage and vision. The outcome cannot be in doubt.

Considering the importance of trans-oceanic commerce to our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 19 through 26, 1957, as WORLD TRADE WEEK, and May 22, 1957, as MARITIME DAY in California. I urge that all my fellow citizens familiarize themselves with the foreign trade and shipping industries which are so essential to the continuing progress and development of California

For thirty-seven years all true Americans have been given the privilege of wearing a bright red crepe paper Poppy, a replica of the Flanders Field Poppy. This is recognized as a tribute to those who have given their lives in battle so that our Nation may remain free. This Poppy does not grow from a seed planted in the earth, but from a seed of hope and achievement in the hands of disabled veterans. These men and women know the price of peace.

In the eight Veterans Administration Hospitals in California and at the California State Veterans Home at Yountville, disabled veterans make this Memorial Poppy under the supervision of members of the American Legion and its Auxiliary. Funds paid these veterans by the Auxiliary are often their only source of income.

On the two days immediately preceding Memorial Day of this year, volunteer workers of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets of every California community asking every person to wear a Memorial Poppy in honor of our war dead and to help the living victims of war. No price is set on the Poppy. The entire contribution received can be spent only for the welfare of disabled and needy veterans and their families. This also includes the rehabilitation, child welfare and educational programs of the Legion Auxiliary.

In full accord with the outstanding contributions the American Legion is making toward the care of our brothers in arms, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 24 and 25, 1957, as POPPY DAYS in California, and do urge that the fullest and most generous public support possible be accorded the annual sale of veterans' Poppies. In this way we may give full recognition to those who unselfishly gave life and limb in the quest for a permanent world peace.

FROM: GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, GOVERNOR

Pursuant to Chapter 1.5 of Division 1 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and in order to provide for the continued operation of the State plans for Aid to Needy Children under the provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code, I do hereby find as facts:

That assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance program is provided for by the Federal Social Security Act; and

That this State has qualified to receive Federal assistance for the above-mentioned Public Assistance program and has not been notified that further payment of such Federal assistance will not be made because of failure of this State to comply with the requirements of the Federal legislation; and

That Federal assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance program for the month of June, 1957 has not been received, and it is improbable that such Federal assistance will be received by this State prior to the usual time for transmitting such Federal assistance to the counties of this State.

In consideration of the above findings, I do hereby proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency and declare that the sum estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare in the amount of Federal assistance payable to this State under Federal law for the month of June, 1957, and appropriated by Section 145.3 of the Welfare and Institutions Code are available for expenditure.

PROCLAMATION

The progress of this Nation may be attributed in large measure to our educational system and the emphasis placed on knowledge as the key to enlightened self-government. The degree to which our educational system has been successful in building better citizens is due to the interest and ability of men and women who have dedicated themselves to the teaching profession. Educators, in the process of transferring knowledge, set standards of character and integrity which remain throughout the years with the students they have counseled, and thus exercise a valuable influence in their lives.

With the extremely rapid growth of our State, it is important that we interest greater numbers of young people in the opportunities offered in the teaching profession. This will serve to offset the national emergency that faces us---that of a shortage of teachers.

In recognition of this fact, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, June 2, 1957, as TEACHERS DAY and urge my fellow citizens to take the opportunity of honoring all teachers both active and retired. In this way, appreciation may be shown for the noble service that they perform in insuring the future of our State and Nation by their training of our young people. I also urge that the Apple Blossom be acknowledged as the symbol of the day and that all Californians become more familiar with the accomplishments of our teachers and the opportunities offered by teaching as a career for our young men and women.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 28th day of May, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

PROCLAMATION

It is in the continuing tradition of our American way of life that we observe days that stand out as milestones in our heritage. Ever since the birth of our country, national holidays have been set aside to celebrate the highlights of our quest for freedom.

This year we again commemorate the birth of the Red, White and Blue. One hundred and eighty years ago, shortly after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the Continental Congress gave to young America the symbol of the freedom its people had won. The Flag of the United States of America has been honored and respected throughout the world as an emblem of national pride. Today, its thirteen stripes depicting the thirteen original states represent the never-ending desire of all free men that the world will one day live in permanent peace. The forty-eight stars can be added to as new states are admitted to the Union, but together they symbolize the unity that is our national boast.

Good citizenship should be a mark and distinction of every American. It is little to ask of each of us that we pay constant homage to the indivisibility of our freedoms and that we pray to Almighty God for peace, happiness and prosperity, and that we thank Him for the liberties that we now enjoy.

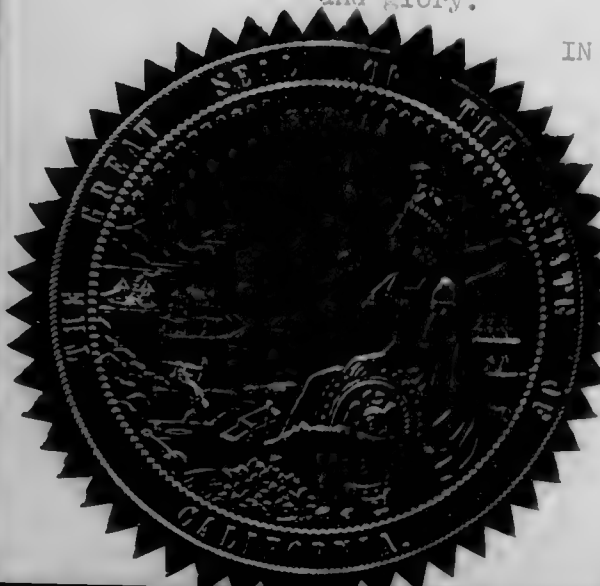

In order that all Californians may be dedicated with a full measure of devotion to America as the land we love and serve, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 14, 1957, as FLAG DAY, and do urge my fellow citizens to participate in appropriate exercises in our communities and schools in order that we may attest to the patriotic devotion of our ancestors and their contributions to our national welfare, prosperity and glory.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 3rd day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

For all our material abundance, the real strength of the United States and the source of its plenty lies in the spiritual and moral force of our ideals. We are involved today in a spiritual war of moral and religious values in which our most potent weapon is to instill the spirit of freedom and faith in the hearts and minds of people everywhere.

Our American creed is based upon the simple belief that each human being is a creature of God and endowed by Him with the dignity of individuality. This was the premise adopted nearly two centuries ago by a group of stalwart, patriotic men who gathered to form a government of the people, by the people and for the people. To them, the supreme function of government was to clear the paths for the enlargement of human personality, the realization of man's dignity and the recognition of individual integrity.

This heritage we have defended with eternal vigilance, often at the sacrifice of lives and comfort of our people. As stewards of the lamp of freedom we bear a heavy responsibility, for should we fail to maintain the shining example of successful deliverance from the forces of oppression and tyranny, the hopes and yearnings of all mankind would be forever lost. With God's help, we shall not fail.

In affirmation of the faith of our forebears that the rights of man stem from the Creator and not from the state, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim July 4, 1957, as INDEPENDENCE DAY throughout the State, and I urge my fellow citizens to observe this day with colorful exhibitions of patriotic fervor and to make the fullest appropriate display of our National Emblem. Furthermore, I urge all Californians to offer prayers of thanksgiving for the manifold blessings of freedom under God which are ours.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 20th day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

Equaling the progress being made by mechanization is the contribution by interested organizations in eliminating the accidents on our farms and ranches. Through education and application the American Red Cross, the Grange, the Farm Bureau, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America and the National Safety Council are inaugurating new projects aimed toward greater safety. With proper care and observance of safety rules the annual toll of crippling and killing accidents can be substantially reduced.

With these thoughts in mind, I join with the President of the United States in encouraging the promotion of agricultural safety by proclaiming July 21-27, 1957, as FARM SAFETY WEEK, and urge all my fellow Californians to exercise care and diligence in eliminating the inanimate and human causes of accidents to assure the fullest protection of person and property and to insure the continuing development of our State. The success of the progress and development of our California communities depends largely on the participation in civic activities of the adults. In planning and accomplishing our preparation for a better tomorrow, it is imperative that there exist a close cooperation between all peoples. Our entire democratic way of life has been built on this fundamental philosophy.

We here in California are blessed with an abundance of wealth that assures future success. Our children and young people can look forward to golden opportunities never before experienced throughout the world. Our responsibility to their education and training is a vital one and cannot be dealt with lightly. Parents and Teachers Associations throughout our State have made outstanding contributions in promoting a fuller understanding of the problems involved in training and educating our citizens of the future. In many of California's rapidly growing communities, these groups have been instrumental in solving the many difficulties arising from the immigration of new families, in combating the causes of delinquency and in focusing attention on the need for a close relationship between the parent, the teacher and the child.

The effectiveness of such an organization is only as great as the support it receives from members of our communities. With this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 7-13, 1957, as PARENT-TEACHER WEEK and urge my fellow citizens to join in the programs and projects that are aimed at developing our young people into good citizens.

PROCLAMATION

Every American has an intimate, personal stake in the dynamic freedom of our press. It is a basic element of our American system. It stands on the same firm footing in law as the clear separation of the three formal branches of our government. It stands between them and a fourth more potent, more expansive governmental power---that of public opinion. Its presence in our law and tradition is assurance that our liberty as individuals and as a people will be maintained.

Without the information and broad circulation of facts and opinion afforded by our newspapers, the high form of democracy which we all cherish would likely soon be dissolved and pass from memory in a generation or two.

In this age when godless leaders of great governments knowingly pervert the public press in order to use its power as an instrument for the furtherance of their pagan policies, it is heartening to pay tribute to free men and free women in a free journalistic world whose minds are not fettered by the manacles of bureaucratic censorship and whose sole intellectual responsibilities are to look into their own hearts and to write in an honest manner what they see there.

A newspaper commands a unique position in our scheme of existence. It is a paradoxical product of our economic system, and one of the most impermanent types of manufactured goods on the market. Its fixed value is never more than a few cents. Yet, our daily routine would become unutterably dull if we were without one, and we would pay any price to regain the pleasure of sharing equally in the benefits and responsibilities attendant upon a free press in a free nation.

Contemplating these basic truths, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 1-8, 1957, as NEWSPAPER WEEK, in our State, and urge my fellow citizens to take advantage of every opportunity to gain appreciative understanding of the important contributions which newspapers make to our "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness."

PROCLAMATION

Citizens in 91 California cities and towns are now organizing in federated voluntary campaigns to support hundreds of health, welfare and recreational services which help to strengthen our homes and safeguard our youth.

These services maintained through United Crusades or Funds and through Community Chests are for the care of dependent children in foster homes, institutions and day nurseries...for the cure and treatment of sick and crippled children and adults...for the rehabilitation of the physically handicapped...for comfort and care of the aged...for assistance to families and individuals in trouble and for youth services which make it possible for tens of thousands of boys and girls to grow up into self-reliant and responsible citizens.

In recognition of the volunteer time and effort of thousands of our citizens and in recognition of the great services performed by these groups, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim September, October and November, 1957, as COMMUNITY CHEST, UNITED CRUSADE, and UNITED FUND TIME in California. I urge the people of our State to give all possible assistance to their friends and neighbors who give their time and talents to the task of raising funds to carry forward these humanitarian and civic causes.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this third day of September, A. D., One thousand Nine hundred and Fifty-seven.

To build a democracy into a strong Nation requires, among other factors, voluntary cooperative efforts of members of management and labor. This cooperation adds to our feeling of security that the forces of oppression cannot break down the bulwark of our way of life.

As the commerce and industry of our State and Nation have progressed and developed, men and women of our labor unions have joined their strength and talents to bring them to a position of eminence in our present day economy. And from this position, the union members have become better employees, better citizens and better Americans.

In order that this close cooperation among manufacturers, merchants and workers might be brought to the constant attention of the public, the Union Label now stands as a sign, identifying goods and services produced by American workers under union working conditions.

In accordance with the traditional observance of Labor Day, and in recognition of the cooperative efforts of union workers and employers of union labor in our free enterprise system, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 2-9, 1957, as UNION LABEL WEEK in California, and do urge my fellow citizens to become more familiar with the use of the Union Label and its significance in our democratic way of life.

By custom and law, the distinctive white cane has become a symbol of the sightless. To those blessed with vision, it is a badge of courage marking an individual ready and willing to be a constructive member of society, despite severe physical handicap.

Education of the seeing populace in its obligations to the blind has long been a project of the Lions Clubs of America. Through the efforts of these groups, legislation making the white cane the official passport for the sightless and partially blind persons has been enacted in many states, including California.

Each year the Lions Clubs of our State designate a period of time during which those who enjoy good sight are asked to consider ways to help those less fortunate to lead happy and productive lives. We are all encouraged to do everything possible to help with programs designed to acquaint the public with the importance of sight conservation and the prevention of blindness.

In full accord with the position that the white cane plays in our society, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California do hereby proclaim September 27 and 28, 1957, as WHITE CANE DAYS in our State, and urge my fellow citizens to support the Lions Clubs in this worthy endeavor by obtaining through contribution a miniature white cane and thereby enhance the outstanding work that the Lions Clubs are doing in sight conservation.

PROCLAMATION

"To understand the Constitution of the United States is the clarion call of the hour, a call as dynamic as when Moses received the Ten Commandments."

This year marks the 170th Anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States and as a result of the emphasis which has been given to this special day, there has been a gradual growth in the importance of this year's anniversary.

Inasmuch as this document has become the broad, legal foundation of our Democratic way of life, its preservation is indispensable to mankind's continued progress toward peace based on individual freedom. It will endure as a living, effective instrument only as long as it is wholly supported by an informed, aroused and inspired citizenry armed with determination to defend its principles.

Today our Nation has become a cross-section of people of all races, creeds, colors and nationalities and it is fitting that these citizens reflect upon the noble precepts of the birth of the Constitution and upon the courage and vision of those who conceived it.

As a tribute to all those in our history who have fought courageously to uphold the dignity of mankind and the fellowship of all people, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 17, 1957, as CONSTITUTION DAY in our State. The period September 17-23, 1957, is hereby designated as AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP WEEK, during which my fellow Californians are urged to take part in programs such as "I am an American Day," "Citizenship Days" and similar patriotic observances. In addition, I urge my fellow citizens to become further acquainted with the blessings of liberty which we enjoy under this great document.

The possibility of great catastrophe has placed upon all Californians a sober obligation to avoid carelessness or indifference in the discharge of our Civil Defense duties.

There can be no question of the continuing need for Civil Defense, any more than there can be about America maintaining its armed might at full power. If great military strength is required, so is a strong Civil Defense, for the two are inseparably welded into the nation's armor against attack.

Civil Defense has a clear cut role to play. It is an organization for emergency action and its effectiveness can be measured by the degree of its preparedness to act at once if an unexpected warning of an impending attack should be received.

California is proud of its Civil Defense accomplishments and of the reputation of Civil Defense for a good sound organization. But regardless of our state of preparedness, we cannot be satisfied. Our goal is to protect the lives of our families and fellow men.

In view of the urgent necessity to review continuously our home defense operations, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 15-21, 1957, as CIVIL DEFENSE WEEK in our State, and I urge my fellow citizens to join in working together closely and in harmony as we proceed with this important work. I also urge all Californians to take an active part in programs designed to call the importance of Civil Defense to the attention of everyone.

The young people of California have earned and do deserve, by reason of their energetic contributions to the welfare of our State, the sincere respect and gratitude of all their fellow citizens.

More and more our young people are seeking a broader understanding of other people in order to assist in solving their own problems. Understanding is a firm basis for friendship--friendship is an invaluable ingredient of happiness--happiness leads to a full life--and a full life should be the major objective of all young men and women of today.

Based on years of official and unofficial association with youth, I am convinced that, given the opportunity to participate in meeting community obligations, our young people will enthusiastically encourage others to become active citizens, which in turn will provide the finest type of program for preventing youthful misdeeds.

In view of the integral part that young people play in the most fundamental unit in a democracy--the family, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby declare October 31, 1957, as YOUTH HONOR DAY in our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to become aware of our youth as earnest, helpful citizens and to credit them with friendly confidence.

During the past half century, the young men and women of our Nation repeatedly have been called upon to leave their homes and loved ones to go forth in defense of our American heritage. Some of their mothers have experienced the supreme sacrifice in the loss of their progeny on the battlefields in order that the freedoms we hold so dear might live for generations to come.

This loss is one which the Nation can never repay but we can in some measure demonstrate our gratitude by saluting those mothers who wear with pride the star of gold which symbolizes her sacrifices. These women are close to the hearts of all Americans, and their influence is vital to the security of our Republic. They have reinforced the moral fiber of our Nation by developing a greater realization of the responsibilities we bear in the World. They are in a position of protecting and perpetuating the traditional values which we prize in our way of life.

Saluting the valor of these brave and devoted women, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 29, 1957, as GOLD STAR MOTHER'S DAY in our State, and urge my fellow Californians to join me in constant prayer that their sons and daughters have not died in vain.

PROCLAMATION Goodwin J. Knight
Assistant Secretary of State

By tradition, the United States and Canada observe the calendar week of the year which includes October 9 as a special period commemorating the terrible fire which destroyed the city of Chicago 86 years ago. For 35 years, this special week has been officially dedicated to emphasize the grave responsibility of every citizen to help in reducing the annual increase in loss of life, property and resources from fire.

Despite advances made in fire prevention and safety, each year more than eleven thousand persons perish from fire in the United States, most of them women, children and elderly persons. Annual property losses from fire total nearly 1½ billion dollars.

After thorough investigation of fires in our State it has been found that in many cases, they could have been prevented through proper care and caution. Today we have more hazardous materials to deal with--our areas are becoming more and more congested--our individual buildings are larger--and our conflagration hazards more serious.

In view of our increasing fire safety problem, I, Goodwin J. Knight, do hereby proclaim the week of October 6-12, 1957, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to recognize the necessity for exercising greater precaution against fire and correcting hazardous conditions which could result in fire.

PROCLAMATION

NATIONAL EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK is observed each year in October. The occasion is a time for reviewing accomplishments through our program of development of employment opportunities for handicapped persons and planning for continuance of that program on a sustained basis.

Full utilization of the handicapped as a primary part of our active labor force has fundamental significance for our national welfare. In California we have enjoyed the benefits of constant growth and high levels of industrial activity. We must, therefore, take full advantage of the contributions that the handicapped can contribute in further strengthening our economy. They have demonstrated beyond doubt that in positions for which they are suited by training, their capabilities are fully equal to those of the able-bodied.

Waste of this great manpower resource is even more deplorable than the waste of our natural resources through fire, flood and other preventable destruction.

Through our program for rehabilitation, thousands of California citizens will be prepared in the year ahead to assume their rightful place alongside their able-bodied neighbors. These handicapped citizens do not seek charity. They ask only that their skills and abilities be recognized and that they be given equal opportunity to contribute to our economic effort. They are ready, willing and able.

With confidence that our citizens will recognize its high purpose, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 6-12, 1957, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California, and I urge that the utmost support be given to the programs of employment and training of the handicapped during that week and throughout the year.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 3rd day of October, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

Poetry is the most primitive of the literary arts, having its origin in emotional utterances in connection with song and dance. Since the beginning of the 20th Century, rhythmical verse has experienced a revival as a vital literary form and it now enjoys a prominent place in the realm of expression.

Through the years the milestones in the history of our civilization have been recorded in metrical and non-metrical verse. Where facts and statistics fail to picture reality, the rhythm of the poem assists in projecting the warmth and feeling of a person, an event or an emotion. From it can be gathered inspiration that turns men's minds to thoughts of peace and tranquility.

To assist in stimulating interest among all members of our present day society in poetry, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 15, 1957, as POETRY DAY throughout our State.

PROCLAMATION

The XVII Olympic Games of the modern era will be held in Rome, Italy, August 25 to September 11, 1960, with Winter Games to be held in Squaw Valley, California, February and March, 1960. These games will afford an opportunity of bringing together young men and women representing more than seventy nations, of many races, creeds, and stations in life and possessing various habits and customs, all bound by the universal appeal of friendly athletic competition, governed by the rules of sportsmanship and dedicated to the principle that the important thing is for each and every participant to do his very best to win in a manner that will reflect credit upon himself or herself, and the country represented.

The peoples of the world in these trying times require above all else occasions for friendship and understanding, and among the most telling things which influence people of other countries are the acts of individuals and not those of governments. Experiences afforded by the Olympic Games make a unique contribution to common understanding and mutual respect among all peoples.

Previous Olympic Games have proved that competitors and spectators alike have been imbued with ideals of friendship, chivalry, and comradeship and impressed with the fact that accomplishment is reward in itself. The United States Olympic Association is presently engaged in assuring maximum support for the teams representing the United States at Rome and Squaw Valley. The State of California has long been a leader and a great contributor in resources and personnel to the Olympic program evidenced by serving as host and staging the Xth Olympic Games in 1932 and the coming Winter Games in 1960.

In view of California's prominent role as host of the 1960 Winter Olympics, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 19-25, 1957, as OLYMPIC WEEK, and I urge the citizens, the communities, the organizations and the institutions of this State to do all in their power to support the XVII Olympic Games and the Winter Games to be held in 1960, so as to indicate to the people of this nation that the great State of California desires to have the United States fully and adequately represented in these Games.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 14th day of October, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

It is profitable for all citizens of the United States of America periodically to pause, reflect, re-appraise and re-evaluate their heritage as members of a free society under the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. Under the stress and strain of modern living with its many distractions, there is a tendency to accept our freedoms and opportunities without due regard to our responsibilities to protect, defend and maintain them for future generations.

As a people, we have often been called upon to protect our Republic, sometimes in the face of tremendous odds. We have shed blood and endured great suffering because we have known that the fate of our way of life with its guarantees of liberty was challenged.

Today the dedicated cadres of Communism constitute a vigilant vanguard to the absolute totalitarianism which seeks to subvert us. To protect our democratic institutions we must dedicate ourselves anew to the principles of our revered founding documents.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 23, 1957, as UNITED STATES DAY in our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to replenish our vigor and reaffirm our devotion to God and country. I also urge everyone to participate in programs designed to rekindle in the hearts of the people their love and enthusiasm for this United States.

PROCLAMATION

Now in its twelfth year as a vital instrument in the preservation of world peace, the United Nations stands as a monument to the desire of people to live together in harmony regardless of their differences in political philosophy. To accomplish this, the citizens of our country must give intelligent thought and study to the work of this international organization whose eighty-two members deliberate some of the most momentous problems ever faced by humanity.

All of us must recognize that the United Nations is more than just a charter. It is more than an inspiring headquarters structure in the midst of New York City. The United Nations is a human instrument, expressing a hope of humanity. It is subject to human frailties and prejudices, but in the final analysis, it has the tremendous human capacity and potential for magnificent achievements.

In the hearts and minds of millions of people throughout the world, this dedicated body is an instrument through which they have reaffirmed their faith in the rights of all nations, large and small; in the dignity and worth of the individual; and in fundamental human rights for all, regardless of nationality or religion.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 24, 1957, as UNITED NATIONS DAY in our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to gather a greater understanding of the purposes, methods and achievements of this organization.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 16th day of October, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

"...this country will never be a very good country for any of us unless it is a good country for all of us."

President Theodore Roosevelt

Theodore Roosevelt, American author, naturalist, explorer, statesman, and soldier was born on October 27, 1858. As a young politician he served in the Legislature of his home state of New York with distinction; as a soldier he formed the "Rough Riders" and with fervent patriotism rode hard against the Spanish at Las Guasimas and San Juan Hill; as a statesman he was counted as a true progressive dedicated to the elimination of bureaucracy in government; as the 25th President of the United States he brought to the White House a stern sense of duty, a lofty purpose and strict morals of puritanism. To relate, even in the barest outline, his achievements, his convictions and his political philosophies would be impossible within the limits of this document.

His strength of character and his deep dedication to democracy is summed up in his statement that "Freedom is not a gift that tarries long in the hands of cowards; nor yet does it tarry long in the hands of the sluggard and the idler, in the hands of the man so much absorbed in the pursuit of pleasure or in the pursuit of gain....as to be unable to take his part in the rough struggle with his fellow man for political supremacy. If freedom is worth having, if the right of self government is a valuable right, then the one and the other must be retained exactly as our forefathers acquired them, by labor, and especially by labor in organization....in combination with our fellows who have the same interests and the same principles."

In view of these truths, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 27, 1957 to October 28, 1958, as THEODORE ROOSEVELT CENTENNIAL, and I urge my fellow Californians to review Theodore Roosevelt's devotion to duty and immense usefulness to his country. I also urge participation in events designed to give full recognition to the achievements of this great American.

It has long been a national custom to commemorate November 11, the anniversary of the end of World War I, by paying tribute to the heroes of that global struggle and by rededicating ourselves to the cause of peace. In the intervening years the United States has been involved in two other great military conflicts, which have added millions of veterans, living and dead, to the honor rolls of our nation.

To expand the significance of this commemoration, the Congress of the United States in 1954, changed the designation of this day to Veterans Day in order that all Americans might take cognizance of the sacrifices that have been made by their fellow citizens during both World Wars and the Korean Conflict.

Today more than 40% of the population of the State of California consists of veterans and their families who are making their mark in every walk of life. Through their organizations they are playing an important role in the progress and development of our communities. As they fought for the preservation of peace, so should they be recognized for their part in our democratic way of life.

In view of these truths, I, Harold J. Powers, Acting Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 11, 1957, as VETERANS DAY, and I urge my fellow Californians to solemnly remember the sacrifices of all those who fought so valiantly, on the seas, in the air, and on foreign shores, to preserve our heritage of freedom and to rededicate ourselves to the task of promoting enduring peace so that their efforts shall not have been in vain.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 6th day of November, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

As individual knowledge and understanding of our heritage as a free people increases, so does appreciation of the blessings we enjoy as Americans. The vivid, inspiring personalities; the dramatic events; the thrilling incidents, and the thousands of triumphs and tragedies of our historic past constitute a firm foundation for fervent patriotism in the hearts of all of us.

Organizations such as the All-American Conference to Combat Communism have adopted a positive, constructive approach to the ideological conflict now going on throughout the world between the governmental philosophies of human freedom and tyrannical absolutism. It is essential that all Americans recognize the divisive tactics of our communistic detractors in pitting group against group and that they actively resist such activity.

Inasmuch as the present and its inevitable consequence, the future, are the cumulative effects of the past, I commend the participants in the All-American Conference to Combat Communism for their patriotic fervor. In accord with their nationwide program, I, Harold J. Powers, Acting Governor of California, hereby proclaim November 18-24, 1957, as KNOW YOUR AMERICA WEEK in our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to actively cooperate in this observance and to do everything possible to insure the preservation of the precious freedoms guaranteed to every American regardless of race, religion or nativity.

The population of the State of California is increasing at the rate of more than one person per minute. This phenomenal growth in the general population is reflected in a comparable tremendous growth in our public school population. It took California ninety years to enroll one million pupils in its public schools, thirteen years to enroll its second million pupils, seven years to enroll its three millionth pupil, and within five years, 1960-1965, California will enroll its four millionth pupil. There appears to be no letup in this tremendous growth in the public school population.

Boys and girls are staying in school longer. For every ten students entering high school, seven graduate. Ten years ago only five graduated for every ten entering.

If we recognize our growth of population as a challenge, it then becomes a stimulant to the maximum utilization of all of our new human resources. This leads to a virile citizenry, a dynamic and expanding economy and a social structure which contributes to the welfare of the individual, the State, and the entire Nation.

One of the major challenges which cannot be met through increased financial support is maintaining the facility of communication between the schools and the parents. As schools become larger, some citizens do not feel the close affinity to the schools that they felt when the population was smaller and the public school, because of its size and proximity, provided a community center. As schools become larger and the demands upon them become more complex, it is necessary that they remain close to the citizens of the community.

In view of these truths, I, therefore urge my fellow Californians to join me in proclaiming the week of November 10 through November 17, 1957, as AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK in our State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 7th day of November, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-seven.

"We gather together to ask the Lord's blessings....."

During these days of prosperity and abundance in our nation, it is well for us to pause during the hectic pursuits of every day life and reflect on the blessings which have been bestowed on us throughout the history of America. From the early days when the Pilgrims gave thanks for their bountiful harvest down to the present when we enjoy a position of world leadership, Americans have expressed their gratitude to Almighty God for the rights and privileges of a free people.

Today our thoughts and prayers extend beyond our borders to include the oppressed people still choked by the yoke of totalitarianism. Many of them have known want and fear and have never experienced the freedoms that we hold so dear. As we review our own blessings during this time of year, it is well to recall that no people can be free unless all are free. It is imperative that our energies be directed toward helping those in foreign lands by actively participating in overseas relief work, in making available to the hungry and cold, food and clothing from our bulging stores. In this way we will add to their strength and thereby fortify the future peace of the world.

Therefore, I, Harold J. Powers, Acting Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 28, 1957, as THANKSGIVING DAY, and urge my fellow Californians to support the aid programs of church, school and community and to give thanks for all we have achieved individually and as a nation.

This year marks the 166th anniversary of the ratification of the first 10 amendments to the Constitution of the United States, known as the Bill of Rights. The traditional rights and freedoms we enjoy as citizens of this Republic have their foundation in the liberties and responsibilities enumerated in these initial amendments. They guarantee to each of us our basic rights and impose upon all of us certain obligations to do all within our power to sustain and strengthen our cherished heritage.

Achieved only through determined struggle, untiring vigilance and great sacrifices, these precious rights can be sustained only through the dedicated efforts of an alert nation. Our Bill of Rights has come to us as a trust to be nurtured and safeguarded for future generations. So long as it remains intact and reflects the fundamental policies of our government, America will grow in strength and dedication of purpose.

Knowing these to be truths, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period December 9 to December 15, 1957, as BILL OF RIGHTS WEEK throughout our State and I urge my fellow Californians to foster maintenance and reinforcement of the Bill of Rights as a bastion of the freedom which is the very core of our national strength. I also urge my fellow citizens to familiarize themselves with the text and spirit of these articles by taking part in programs commemorating their ratification.

All Americans can draw inspiration from the career of George Washington Carver who started life in bondage and rose to eminence achieved by few men. His contributions to the welfare of mankind were manifold and literally millions of persons today enjoy more plentiful lives because this man of lowly birth unlocked the secrets of science to provide greater utilization of the soil and its products.

Before his death 15 years ago honors were heaped upon him for his scientific and humanitarian endeavors. These he accepted in all humility and never deviated from his firm policy of refusing to exploit for personal gain his scientific discoveries.

As an educator, Dr. Carver labored unceasingly to create new educational and economic opportunities for thousands of students at Tuskegee Institute where he achieved his scientific renown. In more than four decades at Tuskegee, he overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles to bring world recognition to this institution of learning.

In admiration for one of the outstanding scientists of our time, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 5, 1958, the anniversary of his death, as GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY, and I urge the people of our State to share in the inspiration which can be gained from a review of the life and work of this truly great man.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has reached its twentieth anniversary of humanitarian service to the Nation and to California.

During these two decades it has aided 325,000 polio patients and has pledged that mere survival is not enough for the many cruelly handicapped victims of this crippling disease who must still be restored to useful and productive lives. With a vast new reservoir of scientific attainment to draw on, polio patients need no longer remain hopeless. Where disability cannot be remedied completely through an integrated program of care, research, teaching and training, even the most severely disabled still may benefit by becoming more mobile, more self-sufficient, more alive.

As a result of widespread inoculation, the polio picture has changed. Millions of children and young adults are now protected by Salk vaccine against paralytic polio but more than two-thirds of those in the susceptible age group under 40 still need one or more of the three shots required for maximum protection.

Need also exists for trained personnel--scientists, doctors, nurses, physical and occupational therapists, medical social workers and others--especially prepared for research and aid to the disabled. By providing grants to medical schools, hospitals and laboratories, and fellowships and scholarships to students and professionals, the March of Dimes is equipping a whole new generation of experts whose knowledge will accrue to the Nation for many years in a wide variety of fields.

Mindful of the multiple need facing the National Foundation on its twentieth anniversary, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the Month of January, 1958, as MARCH OF DIMES MONTH throughout our State and urge every resident of California to respond with their customary generosity to this annual financial campaign.

To those beyond our shores, the United States of America represents the very epitome of liberty, a land of unlimited opportunity where the blessings of independence shower generously upon a carefree people.

We who are more familiar with American History, however, are keenly aware that our national well-being was achieved only through aggressive and dedicated attention to the preservation of the rights of men to worship, speak and assemble in freedom and thereby unite in advancing the cause of democratic principles.

Our educational system provides young people with the link between the past and present through the pages of American History. Thus equipped with a knowledge of the origin, growth and progress of the United States our new generations derive a keen and lasting appreciation of the philosophies and ideals which furnish a firm foundation for our American institutions.

Mindful of the benefits which result from indoctrination of youth in the record of sacrifices, suffering and labor of our forebears, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of February, 1958, as AMERICAN HISTORY MONTH and urge my fellow Californians to initiate appropriate programs in schools, patriotic societies and civic organizations to the end that public knowledge and understanding of our American heritage is increased.

PROCLAMATION

The world is filled with vivid examples of unwise or flagrant squandering of nature's resources. Here in our own State we find mute and ominous warnings of how barren and arid wastes can develop from improper conservation of our many bounties.

The future well-being of our State can be aided through constructive and long range plans for maintenance of a productive soil, proper use of water supplies, protection of our mineral and petroleum resources and the propagation of fish and wild life. Constant and conscientious consideration of these matters will not only assure current needs but will guarantee adequate natural resources for future generations.

In our State we set aside one week each year to give special emphasis to conservation programs and at the same time designate a day devoted to the preservation of our soil and water through planting trees. This day falls on the anniversary of the birth of Luther Burbank, California's beloved naturalist, who spent his life in the scientific development of plant life.

Mindful of the tremendous value of such programs, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 7-14, 1958, as CONSERVATION WEEK, and March 7, 1958, as ARBOR DAY. I strongly urge my fellow Californians to give full support to projects designed to stimulate the planting of shrubs and trees and the conservation and efficient use of the many natural gifts with which we have been so abundantly endowed.

PROCLAMATION

It is recognized that we in California are faced with a unique problem in the enforcement of laws relative to narcotic addiction. Our problem is unusual because of our geography, for we face the Orient where so much of the narcotic product is made, while to the south are the Latin American countries, some of which have a different philosophy about narcotics than do we.

This condition results in greater exposure of our young people to the evils of the traffic in narcotics despite all efforts of State and Federal governments in cooperation with welfare organizations to halt it. The continuing education of youth to the disastrous consequences of addiction to narcotics will one day free us of this scourge upon mankind and remove forever from the social scene those who prey upon the weaknesses of their fellow men and women.

Of equal concern is the ever increasing rate of traffic accidents involving those driving under the influence of intoxicants. This is not exclusively a problem of youth but its solution lies in the proper education of the young to their moral responsibilities.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period April 7 through April 13, 1958, as YOUTH TEMPERANCE EDUCATION WEEK in California, and urge that all emphasis be given to programs of education which guide our young people toward good citizenship and a place of dignity and responsibility in our society.

PROCLAMATION

For more than a century the agricultural, industrial and civic development of California towns and cities has been fostered by the efforts of chambers of commerce. Beginning with the establishment of the first chamber of commerce in California in 1851, this type of endeavor has spread to the far corners of the State until now there are 621 independent city chambers which are providing essential leadership.

The tremendous expansion of population in California in recent years has created many problems and it is substantially to the credit of such voluntary associations of citizens that the assimilation of these additional millions of people has been carried out in an orderly manner.

The immediate past has been stimulating and the immediate future is challenging. The volunteer leaders and those employed by our chambers of commerce in professional capacities will meet this challenge with sound and constructive development programs for our communities.

Mindful of the contributions which these organizations have made to our economic development, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period February 2 to February 8, 1958, as CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WEEK in California, and I urge that our businessmen, our youth and our citizens generally, take proper recognition of chambers of commerce and participate in programs designed to acquaint the public with their functions.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 16th day of January, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of commercial food canning in California, the Nation's largest canned food producing state.

From modest beginnings in 1858, California's canning industries have developed to a point where they now supply nearly one-third of the total United States production with 80 per cent shipped out of California, some to overseas markets. As one of the largest peacetime industries in our State, they have made important and lasting contributions to our economy.

Producing more than 100 different kinds of canned foods, these industries have eliminated seasonal feast or famine in diet and have assisted in raising the American standard of living by making nutritional benefits available throughout the year.

In recognition of the progress and development of our commercial canning industries, growers, container manufacturers and allied activities, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim for observance during 1958 the

and I urge the citizens of our State to acquaint themselves with the facilities which California enjoys for the canning of fruits, vegetables, olives, citrus, seafoods and scores of other products by participating in the various industry-sponsored events which will mark this period.

IN WITNESS WHERE, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 22nd day of January, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

The Boy Scouts of America program which has affected the lives of more than 27,500,000 American boys and men since 1910, now has an active enrollment of 4,700,000, virtually "An Army of Might and Decency for America."

Unusual importance is attached to Boy Scout Week, this year marking the organization's 48th anniversary, which will be observed from Friday, February 7 through Thursday, February 13, by the fact that it also marks the launching of a year-long Safety Good Turn suggested by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America. Cooperating with other organizations giving leadership in safety, the Boy Scouts will devote March, April and May to traffic safety. Home safety projects will be promoted in September, October and November.

In numerous communities the National Safety Good Turn will be launched in ceremonies recognizing all Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer units which have signed participation pledges. It is noted that community leaders and safety organization representatives will have prominent roles in these kickoff ceremonies symbolizing public demonstration of groups involved in the safety program in a community. The importance of such a safety program in relation to our accident toll cannot be overemphasized.

In view of all this, and in salute to the 1,825,000 Cub Scouts, the 1,110,000 Boy Scouts and the 490,000 Explorers, in addition to the 1,271,650 adults active as volunteer leaders and 3,350 professional leaders in the Boy Scouts of America, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 7 to February 13, as BOY SCOUT WEEK in California, and urge our citizens to support the unselfish, patriotic service being rendered our communities by its rank-and-file youngsters and its volunteer leaders who give generously of their time and efforts for the benefit of our youth, and to cooperate in every possible way with their Safety Good Turn in 1958.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of January, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

Each February Californians and their fellow Americans find their attention focused on the significance of heart disease, the toll which diseases of the heart and circulatory system take throughout our nation, and the importance of medical research programs which constantly seek the conquest of these widespread ailments. Large sums of money go into heart research, and important strides are being made in alleviating the suffering and loss of human life, but the toll of this affliction on our population continues serious.

Every year heart and related blood vessel diseases take more than 800,000 lives, causing more than 50 per cent of all deaths in California and the United States--these diseases kill more persons than all other causes of death combined. This death toll is alarming, but there is more on the dark side of the coin. The American Heart Association estimates that more than 10,000,000 living Americans suffer from some type of heart disease, and 500,000 of these are children.

The American Heart Association has channeled more than $25,000,000 into heart disease research in the past 10 years, and this has been supplemented extensively by allocations from the local Heart Chapters. During February, in many communities, volunteer workers will call on their neighbors, starting on National Heart Sunday, February 23, and ask them to join their local Heart Association. In other communities the request will come via newspapers, television and radio.

Once each year we are called upon to extend financial support to these programs in support of our own improved health and longer life for our children. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February, 1958, as HEART MONTH, and February 23, as HEART SUNDAY in California, and urge my fellow citizens to respond generously to the 1958 Heart Fund Campaign by joining their local Heart Associations.

Efforts by groups to cooperate with law enforcement agencies in solving the problem of crime are recognized by the Governor of California, inasmuch as the welfare and safety of the State and its people are his responsibility.

This recognition extends to the efforts of the National Exchange Club which, through the years, has been in the forefront in promoting crime prevention and supporting all local Exchange Clubs in sponsoring a program known as Crime Prevention Week.

The work of our law enforcement agencies merits high commendation, but it is necessary for the public to cooperate in establishing programs which will familiarize citizens with the problems of crime prevention. The National Exchange Club's units throughout the country have made outstanding contributions in appealing for civilian help from local communities. Its Crime Prevention Week program is such an example.

As Governor of the State of California, I do hereby proclaim the week of February 9-15, 1958, as CRIME PREVENTION WEEK in our State. In so doing I request the cooperation of every citizen with our law enforcement agencies in the observance of Crime Prevention Week sponsored by the Exchange Clubs.

The United States has achieved the highest standard of living because of two elements in our ever-increasing economic fabric--the ability to produce goods and services, and to make these goods and services available to every person who needs or desires them. Despite our unprecedented population increase our production and distributive facilities have kept pace.

These two abilities are among the foundations of our national freedom, as well as elements in our continued progress in the future. Without either our survival as a nation could be imperiled, for to produce without using that production would stultify our manufacture of goods and performance of services and distribution channels.

To maintain a healthy economy in which products continue to flow freely to purchasers and users, a gyroscopic force is needed to help keep these elements in balance. Advertising is that balance, and our uninterrupted growth has proved advertising's success in keeping production and distribution equal to our increased demands.

Advertising is a profession, art and business. By their constant effort, people in advertising have given the United States the freest and greatest media of mass communication ever known. Through their efforts, as well as our inventive and productive genius, every sensible demand has been matched with an improved or new product.

The participation of advertising folk in civic, philanthropic and educational endeavors has materially assisted various community achievements in many areas. For such contributions to the common good, they deserve our deepest gratitude.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 9 through February 16, 1958, to be ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK, in our State, and do suggest that my fellow Californians join during that week in giving full honors to advertising and its people for the widespread and valued part they play in making a better way of life a reality for all Americans.

Presidents' Day this year will be observed for the last time on March 4, as Senate Bill 682 which Congress will probably enact, would establish the date as the closest Monday to February 22, Washington's birthday anniversary. Particular significance is attached to this year's observance as 1958 is the 100th anniversary year of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, our 26th, and one of the Nation's great Presidents.

Presidents' Day was established in 1951 to bring about a better understanding of the American Way of Life by revealing the story of America through the lives of our Presidents and their accomplishments.

Last year, Presidents' Day was observed in approximately 100,000 schools throughout the Nation and received substantial support from the press, television and radio networks. This was accomplished mainly through the aid of Chief Executives of the States, their education officers and far-sighted educators.

This year, I would urge that all this be brought into sharp focus, with the thought that free peoples everywhere face the most severe trials for survival of the democratic way of life, making it incumbent upon citizens of the United States to accept their just responsibilities in preserving the general welfare of our land and to resist the aggressions of totalitarianism. One of the polar stars in this program is the study of our Presidents, their viewpoints and the things they accomplished for our country.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, urge my fellow Californians to recognize March 4, 1958, as PRESIDENTS' DAY, and suggest that prayers be said in all churches and places of worship for the President of the United States; and that the opportunity be given our school children to become better acquainted with our way of life through special programs having to do with our Presidents and their lives.

The beginning of the conquest of space, through satellites shot upward by the United States and Soviet Russia, further emphasizes the demarcation between the tyranny of the Communist dictatorship and the principles of freedom as symbolized by the United States. The "Sputniks" were the results of regimented science; our "Explorer" is the fruition of efforts of free men. And it will remain this way until one or the other triumphs or some great cataclysmic upheaval, political or economic, destroys Communism.

In all of this we have the efforts of such organizations as the Crusade for Freedom, Radio Free Europe, Winds of Freedom and Free Europe Press which are carrying messages of truth and courage to those behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains, made possible, to a large extent, through contributions from all parts of the United States. The messages carry the words of freedom to men and women under Communist domination, encouraging them to look forward to and work for the day of their liberation.

In the background of such movements, whether in the Pacific or Atlantic areas, loom the figures of great Americans who have, through their determined efforts and wise leadership, provided the sinews and principles of freedom. Foremost were George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday anniversaries we observe in February, and each symbolic of the justice and freedom inherent in the American Way of Life.

Considering the great efforts for world peace and human liberty being made by all sincere organizations, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 12-22, 1958, as FREEDOM WEEK throughout our State. I urge all Californians to reaffirm their adherence to the ideals of freedom at home, to realize its preciousness, and to afford every possible assistance to the millions behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains in their struggle for freedom from totalitarian bondage.

It is the duty of every man and woman who meets the necessary qualifications, regardless of partisan affiliation or personal interest, to vote when the opportunity presents itself. This has always been true--there is no matter of degree. But the present times, crucial as they are for the welfare of our country, should self-impose mandatorily the exercise of all essential safeguards of our freedoms, of which the right to vote stands predominant.

There should be no drawing back in the use of this basic prerogative to freedom, which ought to be exercised in the serious thought that thousands of Americans have sacrificed their lives for its inception and continuance and that without it we would soon revert to totalitarian bondage.

There is no abstract guarantee that the enfranchisement, which is held so precious after having been won so dearly, will endure unless we exercise it with vigor and intelligence. The judicious use of the ballot is a personal responsibility which must be faithfully discharged in the preservation of our way of life.

Preliminary to the June primary elections and the November elections, registration is a requisite for voting. In view of this and a request from the State Board of the League of Women Voters of California, and in behalf of its 56 local leagues, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March, 1958, as REGISTRATION MONTH in California, and urge all eligible citizens to qualify themselves to participate in this year's elections.

PROCLAMATION

Through the efforts of California's Easter Seal Societies more than 16,000 Californians of all ages were aided during 1957 in their battles against the disabling effects of accidents and disease.

Designed to help people acquire or regain the ability to walk and talk, learn and earn, services of the Easter Seal Societies are the products of the country's most comprehensive non-governmental, single-agency health and rehabilitation program.

In dollars, as in services, the California program continues to be the pacemaker in the Easter Seal network that spans the Nation. Gross income received from all sources in California in 1957 totaled $2,244,928. For the second successive year, California's generous public gave more than one million dollars to the annual Easter Seal fund campaign; another million was received in memorials, bequests and gifts.

This total income represented California's response to the needs of a growing population of handicapped persons, themselves faced with spiraling service costs. Sixty-six per cent of the funds obtained remains in the individual counties and is used for direct services to local crippled children and adults; 23.7 per cent helps to finance the statewide education and service programs of the California Society for Crippled Children and Adults and pays for all campaign materials; 8.3 per cent helps support the nationwide services of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults; and 2 per cent goes to the National Easter Seal Research Foundation for study of causes and treatment of crippling.

There is a continuing need to help the estimated 420,000 physically handicapped persons in California. This year's goal is $1,349,773 in California, and in view of the fine humanitarian service rendered by this organization, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of March 6 to April 6 as EASTER SEAL MONTH in California, and urge all who are able to do so to support generously this campaign.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of February, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

California, bordering on Mexico, and closely tied in with trade and culture of the 20 other American Republics, has a deep interest in observing the 68th anniversary of the founding of a bureau for inter-American cooperation, which, as the Pan American Union, serves as the permanent Organ and General Secretariat of the Organization of American States.

At no time in history has there been a greater need for solidarity among the nations of the Western Hemisphere, and the Pan American Day and Pan American Week observance this year assumes even more significance than formerly.

A notable contribution given the world by the Western Hemisphere is the concept of international organization. Since its inception, the Organization of American States has perfected and strengthened its structure and foundation, serving as an example and inspiration to the rest of the world. This inter-American system symbolizes the principles of peace and solidarity.

Considering the significance of this, and taking into account that 355,000,000 Americans from one tip of the Hemisphere to the other will take part in the observance, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, April 14, as PAN AMERICAN DAY, and the period April 14 to April 20, 1958, as PAN AMERICAN WEEK in California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of February, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

1. That conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property within this State have arisen and exist as a result of storm and flood;
2. During SAVE YOUR VISION WEEK, its sponsor, The California Optometric Association, provides vital information on visual training, eye care and facts pertinent to improving vision, stressing the need and desirability for saving and preserving eyesight.

Proper vision is essential to the welfare of the individual and promotes added interest in government, economic and social activities. Two out of three of our adult citizens depend upon vision care to enjoy full lives. Members of The California Optometric Association command the means to provide proper lighting and periodic vision examinations for all persons who require this attention.

In view of these things and because our increasing large senior population is especially dependent on the aids of modern science to enjoy good vision, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby declare March 2 to March 8, 1958, as SAVE YOUR VISION WEEK in the State of California, and urge its dedication to positive steps which will lead to the enjoyment of good vision.

It is noteworthy that the Library Week observance which started in California in the late 1940's, has this year, for the first time, been extended to become National Library Week. Newspapers, magazines, television and radio are uniting in this first national observance, and Library Week material will be carried in the March issues of our leading magazines, reaching an audience of 80,000,000 persons.

Books are the conservers, transmitters and disseminators of the world's wisdom and knowledge. The magnificent contributions of our Western civilization to human dignity and liberty shine from the pages of books and manuscripts, long the working tools of freedom wherever freedom is loved.

A young Lincoln, reading Blackstone in an Illinois cabin; a school boy, eventually to become a general commanding aircraft fleets, reading Ivanhoe in a pioneer school room; many children reading books from many libraries--all these give sharp proof of the hunger of the human mind to learn. That hunger to learn through books, transmitting their precepts and lessons into actuality, continues today and is a principal fulcrum in the progress of our American civilization.

For these reasons, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do proclaim March 16 through March 22, 1958, as NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK. And I urge our people in California to reflect upon the contribution which our public and private libraries and librarians have made to the preservation of our great cultural heritage of human dignity and freedom.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 27th day of February, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

Through such organizations as the National Secretaries Association, women have become enthusiastically active in the commercial, cultural and civic advancement of their home communities and the State generally.

In the pursuit of higher professional standards for secretaries, the National Secretaries Association engages in educational programs to encourage the advancement and upgrading of secretarial training, as well as the status of the secretary in business, industry and the professions.

These activities include two annual seminars, one in the north and one in the south--a career program designed to encourage secretarial students to become proficient in their chosen field of endeavor through proper education and training; cooperation with schools and colleges in preparing courses of study for secretarial students; and numerous courses of study aimed at self-improvement.

I wish to emphasize the importance of these seminars and other educational programs for secretaries and secretarial students.

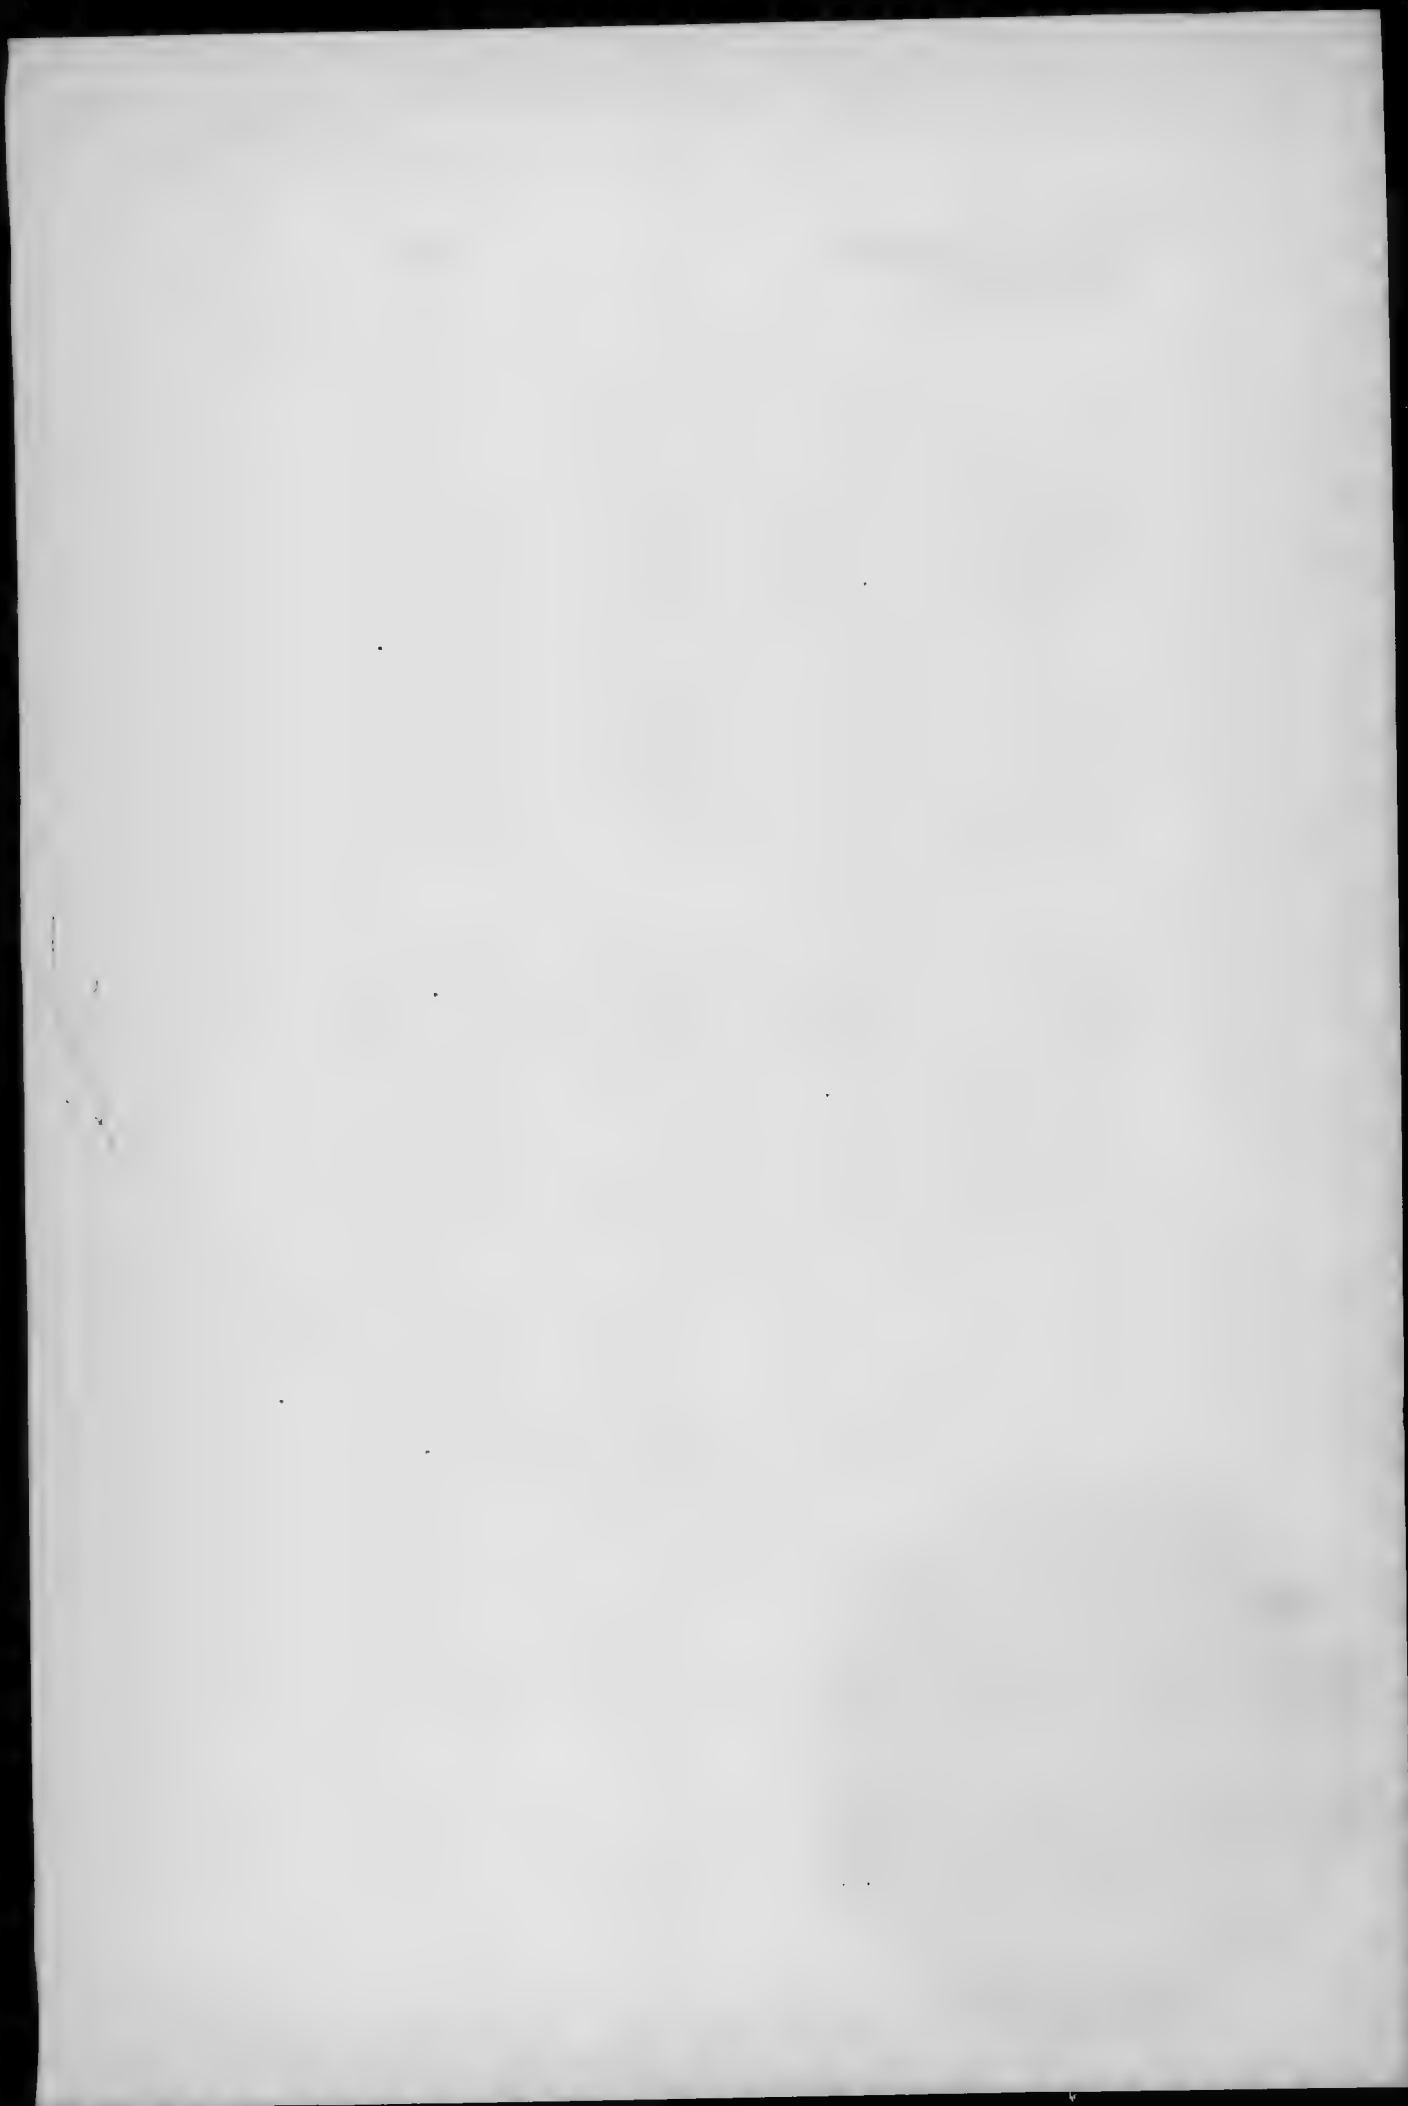

Secretaries occupy a prominent place in the business world of today. They are continually growing in stature in the organizations they represent and are indispensable to modern business.

There is an ever-increasing public appreciation of the work of women in the business, professional and public affairs of our communities, states and Nation. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 20 through April 26, 1958, as SECRETARIES WEEK in California, and April 23 as SECRETARIES DAY.

Indelibly etched into the civic consciousness of our State and Nation are the Girl Scouts of America, an organization of which we are all proud, and which has rendered a continuous service since its founding on March 12, 1912. Californians generally are aware of the important contribution to community welfare being made by the Girl Scout leaders.

The Girl Scout organization has grown to more than 2,500,000 members and more than 700,000 adult leaders who live up to their promise of "Do Their Duty to God and Country, to Help Other People at All Times and to Live by the Girl Scout Laws of Loyalty, Honesty, Courtesy, Cheerfulness, Usefulness, Kindness and Helpfulness to Others."

Mindful of the benefits which this organization of young people and their leaders provide for our communities, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim March 9 through March 15, 1958, as GIRL SCOUT WEEK, with March 12 marking the 46th anniversary of Girl Scouting in the United States. I urge all Californians to give the Girl Scouts now and in the coming years the fullest cooperation and support so that increasing numbers of girls may benefit from the splendid program of training in citizenship which the Girl Scout organization offers.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 3rd day of March, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

PROCLAMATION

Now in its eighth year of community observance, Loyalty Day, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has met with nationwide approval from fraternal, civic and youth groups, all willing to speak up for America. "Loyalty Means Liberty" is the VFW slogan for Loyalty Day, and to it will rally those loyal citizens who are devoted to American ideals and a democratic form of government. The VFW is justly proud of this nationwide event which has been honored by seven consecutive awards from Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, and is annually proclaimed by the President of the United States.

Our common heritage of freedom, and a common destiny of glory founded upon the sacrifices of brave and dedicated men and women, continue to be boldly challenged by the cynical, atheistic advocates of class conflict and mass tyranny, with the destruction of the United States, as we know it, their chief objective. The reason for this is that these totalitarian champions of alien doctrines recognize that fundamental Americanism is the main threat to their selfish ambitions. So they would do away with the rights to person and property, and to freedom of conscience, the right of free speech and assemblage and religious liberty.

Preservation of our God-given birthright for ourselves and our posterity depends upon an undeviating fidelity, diligence, self-reliance and energy, all spelling loyalty to positive, unfailing Americanism. In accordance with the need for reaffirming these doctrines of freedom, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim May 1, 1958, as LOYALTY DAY, and join with the Veterans of Foreign Wars in urging my fellow Californians to cooperate fully in the spirit of its observance.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of March, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

Our increased defense activities of the past two decades have served to strengthen the relationship between the military and civilian segments of our population. Civilian America today looks upon the military as its strong right arm, but withal a part of our body politic.

The men and women of our Armed Forces constitute a mighty bastion against those who would deprive us of our power for peace and for human dignity. Upon their strength and knowledge depends the preservation of the United States and all that it represents.

Equal credit for protective services also is due our friends and neighbors who serve in reserve components and in National Guard units. Without the manpower reserve they represent, our Nation and our State would be unable to meet the challenge of wartime emergency or peacetime disaster.

The Armed Forces of the United States will be honored throughout the Nation on May 17, designated by the President as Armed Forces Day. It is fitting that we pay homage to the men and women serving in our military components for their contribution to the preservation of the principles and ideals of our American heritage.

Mindful of these considerations, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 17, 1958, as ARMED FORCES DAY in California, and I urge my fellow Californians to display the American Flag and to participate in local observances of the occasion to the fullest extent possible on that date.

PROCLAMATION

That there can be victory over cancer is attested by the fact that although some 20,000 Californians died of this malady last year, another 10,000 residents of our State fought and won personal battles against the disease. Their victories over an ailment once considered hopeless were achieved partly as a result of improved medical techniques arising from productive research, and partly due to their awareness of cancer's early warning signs.

During April, the California Division of the American Cancer Society will conduct its annual Cancer Crusade. Its dual purposes will be to raise $2,526,900 in this State to support the Society's programs of research, education and service to cancer patients, and to help impress upon the public the importance of periodic health checkups as an aid to early detection of the disease. I believe that the nearly 100,000 workers in this crusade should receive every possible encouragement in their efforts.

Mindful of the 20,000 who died last year, but hopeful that the saving of 10,000 others through research and modern techniques can be maintained, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim April, 1958 as CANCER CONTROL MONTH. In so doing, I urge public receptiveness to the message which these volunteer workers will carry into millions of California homes, and the most generous public support possible.

Today, centuries after the Crucifixion, the Eternal Cross of the Son of God stands forth in undiminished glory and splendor above the ruins of empires whose progenitors sought to place themselves above the Creator. Their brute force, their mundane power and their vainglory lie buried under the sands of time.

Through the clouds of today's adversities, reminding us spiritually of the Dark Ages--totalitarian tyranny, the machinations of those who would impose on us an atheistic philosophy, and the heels of ruthless, boot-stomping aggressors--the gentle teachings personified by Jesus Christ of Nazareth, based on the will and justice of God, shine forth steadily and brightly as the pillar of light. If we will but heed, they will bring us our sought-after era of peace and good will.

His precepts of humility, helpfulness, tolerance, honesty, forthrightness and unselfishness provide the strength by which we defend the freedom to worship in the shadow of the Cross as our most precious right.

The death of Christ and his resurrection, clad in the habiliments of immortality, have given to Christians over the centuries evidences of eternity. They demonstrate that God was, is and ever will be a powerful, living, and real Presence at all times. Only through His mercy, granted by the intercession of His son, can we rise above the frustrations of the temporary and temporal.

Only through the development of His spirituality within us can we gain the world peace we so earnestly desire. God grant each of us the ability to attain that degree of His spirituality necessary for the achievement of such a peace.

Reverently contemplating these things, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim April 4 as Good Friday throughout our state, and I urge my fellow Californians of Christian faith to solemnly observe this day as a time for quiet meditation, devout prayer and consecrated dedication to the principles of peace and brotherhood, used and taught by Jesus of Nazareth.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 26th day of March, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

Through savings, insurance, home ownership, investment in securities, and participation in management, the American people have built a competitive free enterprise system providing a higher standard of living for the individual and more wealth for the Republic than have ever been enjoyed by any other nation in world history. At the same time we have maintained and perpetuated the freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Originating in California, INVEST IN AMERICA WEEK observances have spread throughout the United States. With leading civic groups and business organizations as sponsors, the program emphasizes that the American capitalistic system has produced widespread benefits for our citizens, and its continuation has been a substantial factor in the growth and progress of California.

Commending this observance to the people of California, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 27 through May 3, 1958, as INVEST IN AMERICA WEEK in our State, and urge its support by all Californians.

Assistant Secretary of State

WHEREAS, the laws of the State of California empower the Governor to proclaim a State of Disaster in an area or region of this State affected or likely to be affected by certain conditions of extreme peril to persons and property within the State, which proclamation shall be in writing and shall take effect immediately upon its issuance; and

WHEREAS, it is provided by law that during a State of Disaster the Director of the California Disaster Office shall act as the coordinator of all state disaster activities in connection with such emergency, and every state agency and officer shall cooperate with the Director in rendering all possible assistance; and

WHEREAS, it is further provided by law that during a State of Disaster when the need arises for outside aid in any county, city and county, or city within the region, such aid shall be rendered in accordance with the mutual aid plans developed on a regional or other basis; and that it shall be the duty of local public officials to comply with such plans; and

WHEREAS, I, as Governor of the State of California, found, on February 26th, 1958, that conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property existed in northern California from the southern boundaries of the counties of Santa Cruz, Santa Clara, Stanislaus, Tuolumne and Alpine, to the border of the State of Oregon, and did then proclaim a State of Disaster existing throughout that area; and

WHEREAS, I, as Governor of the State of California, have found, and do hereby find:

1. That conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property within this State have arisen and exist within the balance of this State as a result of storm and flood;
2. That local authority in directly affected areas is inadequate to cope with the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril by reason of their magnitude, which places them beyond the control of the protective services, personnel, equipment and facilities of any single county, city and county, or city, and requires the combined forces of a Mutual Aid Region or Regions to combat;
3. That the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril warrant and necessitate the proclamation of the existence of a State of Disaster;
4. That strict compliance with the laws of this State which do or may require advertisement for bids for the purchase of supplies or the employment of services would prevent, hinder, or delay the mitigation of the disaster.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State, do hereby proclaim the existence of a State of Disaster throughout the entire State of California; and

I DO FURTHER PROCLAIM that all the laws of the State of California which do or may require advertisement for bids for the purchase of supplies or the employment of services necessary in connection with the mitigation of this disaster are suspended as of this date; and

I DIRECT that this proclamation shall take effect immediately, and that as soon hereafter as possible this proclamation be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of California; and that widespread publicity and notice be given to this proclamation.

Done at the City of Sacramento, this 2nd day of April, 1958.

step in advance of actual disaster or catastrophe, and as part of the civil defense and disaster program of the State of California, to become effective immediately:

A. Each department, independent division, bureau, board, commission, and independent institution of the State Government (hereinafter referred to as agencies) shall make appropriate plans for:

1. The protection of its personnel, equipment, and supplies (including records and documents) against the effects of enemy attack or natural disaster. Such plans shall include the following:

a. Provisions for the possibility of attack without warning, attack under circumstances not permitting prior evacuation, natural disaster, and radioactive fallout.

b. Provisions for the possibility of attack of which there may be sufficient warning to permit pre-attack evacuation. Plans shall be made for pre-attack evacuation of personnel and dispersal of equipment and supplies from installations located in target areas and from such other areas as may be determined by the California Disaster Office.

c. Provisions for the protection and maintenance of vital public records and documents. To the maximum extent practicable, the original or a copy of each record or document requiring protection, in the public interest, against the effects of enemy attack or natural disaster shall be stored or kept outside target areas and such other areas as may be determined by the California Disaster Office.

d. To the maximum extent practicable, each agency shall store its supplies and equipment at sites located outside the aforementioned target areas and other designated areas.

2. Carrying on such of its normal services as may continue to be needed, on an emergency basis, in event of enemy attack or natural disaster.

a. Each agency shall survey its normal functions and determine which of such functions must be continued notwithstanding enemy attack, and the extent to which its resources, including personnel, equipment, supplies, and facilities, must be devoted to carrying out such functions. An agency which has functions which must be continued notwithstanding enemy attack, and having its principal headquarters in a target area, shall establish and equip an auxiliary headquarters at a site located in a non-target area, to which the agency head (except as may otherwise be provided) and appropriate personnel of the agency shall report in the event of enemy attack.

b. All resources, including personnel, of the agency not required in the performance of the functions which must be continued in the event of an enemy attack shall be available for the performance of civil defense and disaster functions and shall be reported to the California Disaster Office as soon as determined, in order that such resources may be assigned to the performance of a civil defense and disaster function by the Director, California Disaster Office, if such assignment is deemed necessary.

B. The responsibility for such planning shall rest with the head of each agency, provided that such official may designate a competent person in the service of the agency to be and act as Civil Defense and Disaster Officer of the agency. It shall be the function of such Civil Defense and Disaster Officer to supervise and coordinate such planning by the agency, subject to the direction and control of the head of the agency.

C. In addition to the responsibilities imposed above, each agency may be assigned additional specific civil defense and/or disaster responsibilities by the Director of the California Disaster Office, with the approval of the Governor. Such responsibilities shall be as mutually agreed upon by the head of each agency concerned and the Director of the California Disaster Office, and shall include the assignment of one or more competent persons of the agency to serve as the staff of the Director, California Disaster Office, during periods of a state of extreme emergency. During a state of disaster, the director of such agency shall assign appropriate liaison officers to serve at the California Disaster

Office headquarters and/or at its regional or sector headquarters. Each agency shall provide the necessary training for persons assigned a disaster function, and shall make such persons available for test exercises.

D. Authority is hereby granted that employees from State agencies assigned for duty during authorized exercises at State, regional, or sector control centers be allowed compensating time off for services rendered outside regular working hours, or compensated for such services, as the director of the agency may direct.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed.

Respect for law and its administration to provide justice for all the people is vital to the welfare of our Nation. Therefore, it is fitting for the State of California to join with other states in observing May 1, 1958, as Law Day, as proclaimed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It is our duty as free men and women, particularly in these times when we face an atheistic tyranny with respect only for force and dedicated to complete nullification of our freedoms, to keep and make strong our heritage of liberty, in order that we and other nations may take courage and have faith that the rule of law may some day soon make possible a just and enduring peace.

In thus dedicating this day to the law which our Founding Fathers wisely decreed as a prerequisite to the republican form of government, we should not only take pride in the law and our courts, but we should also take stock of their shortcomings, so that through criticisms and appreciation they may become better able to serve us now and in the future.

With this as a background, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, May 1, 1958, as LAW DAY in California. I urge the people of our State to observe this day with appropriate ceremonies and activities, and I especially suggest that the legal profession, press, radio, television and motion picture industries promote and participate in this observance.

PROCLAMATION

For 45 years, the City of Hope National Medical Center has been dedicated to alleviating the suffering of those afflicted with cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis and heart disease. The great and admirable efforts of this splendid and widely known institution are aimed at discovering and developing new weapons against catastrophic diseases which plague mankind, and to care for their present victims.

The causes and cures of these maladies which reap the heaviest toll of human lives constitute a mystery and challenge to medicine and science. The City of Hope National Medical Center has devoted its resources to the battle to free humanity from the inroads of these dread afflictions, combating them through a three-fold program of patient care, research and post-graduate medical education.

In so doing, the City of Hope has provided treatment without charge for victims of these diseases throughout our State, regardless of race, creed or national origin, and its accomplishments have inspired renewed hope for ultimate victory. This truly humanitarian center which has helped to bring distinction to our State and has performed an outstanding service for its people, needs our support so that it may perpetuate its specialized work and expand its facilities to meet the constantly growing demands.

It is an honor for our Golden State to be the home of such a truly charitable and scientific institution. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the Month of June, 1958, as CITY OF HOPE MONTH, and I urge all my fellow Californians once again to assist in every way possible this most worthy endeavor whose existence depends solely upon our good will and generous contributions.

PROCLAMATION

As Chief Executive of a State that is keenly interested in the welfare of the working men and women whose hands and minds fashion the tools and operate the equipment on which the production, manufacturing, processing and assembly lines of our American way of life are dependent, I extend my warm greetings to the members of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO on the occasion of its 70th anniversary.

This organization, dating back to 1888, has grown to 2,100 local lodges, with nearly 1,000,000 members in the United States, Canada, Hawaii, the Panama Canal Zone and Alaska, has agreements with more than 14,000 employers, and is in itself an integral part of our American economy. As such it is deserving of our recognition on having reached the Biblical age of three-score and ten. It is venerable and deserving of our respect, but it is ever enterprising, and in its aims, modes of procedure and accomplishments it is worthy of emulation in labor circles generally.

Workers in no other country in the world have enjoyed the advantages that Americans have because under our economic philosophy all people share in the general prosperity. On the other side of the coin, if there is a recession, all people are asked to gird themselves for whatever sacrifices may be necessary. The International Association of Machinists has always been ready and eager to assume its responsibilities in this regard whether in prosperity or adversity.

International Association of Machinists can take pride in its pioneer work in California in the negotiation of a health and welfare plan for its membership. Negotiated with the California Metal Trades Association in 1949, the plan was one of the first of its kind instituted in California. Now, nine years later, more than 85 per cent of all workers in California who are employed under a union contract have health and welfare benefits as a right under their contracts.

Mindful of these facts, it is an honor and a privilege for me, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, to proclaim May 5, 1958, as MACHINISTS DAY, and to urge my fellow Californians to join in honoring an organization which has become a great institution.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 17th day of April, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

There is a symbol of freedom in the bright red crepe paper Poppy, replica of the Flanders Field Poppy, which Americans generously purchase in the period immediately preceding Memorial Day--symbol of a freedom assured by those who gave of their own full measure--their lives--for America.

In the eight Veterans Administration Hospitals in California and at the California State Veterans Home in Yountville, disabled veterans make these red crepe paper Memorial Poppies for the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary. Funds paid these veterans by the American Legion Auxiliary are often their only source of income.

On May 23 and 24 this year, the Friday and Saturday before Memorial Day, volunteer workers of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets of every city and town in California asking every person to purchase and wear a Memorial Day Poppy in honor of our war dead and to assist the living victims of war. No price is set on the Poppy--the entire contribution received, aside from production costs, can be spent only for the welfare of disabled and needy veterans and their families. This also includes the rehabilitation, child welfare and education programs of the Legion Auxiliary.

Cognizant of the outstanding contributions which the American Legion is making toward the care of our brothers-in-arms, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim May 23 and 24, 1958, as POPPY DAYS IN CALIFORNIA, and urge that the fullest and most generous support possible be accorded this annual sale of Veterans' Poppies. In so doing we give full recognition to those who unselfishly gave life and limb for the defense of our country and the quest for a permanent world peace.

PROCLAMATION

By making available adequate information and uniformly fine entertainment, radio stations provide a genuine service to families and individuals in California. They continually prove themselves dependable communications links with our citizens on the move, serving as sentinel, advisor and friendly companions.

In times of disaster and emergency they are invaluable in disseminating needed news and directions and in placing their facilities at public disposal. Our radio stations take an active role in State affairs, always ready to assist in civic and philanthropic projects.

Inasmuch as radio broadcasting as a means of mass communication contributes much to the economic, technological and cultural development of the United States, and occupies a vital position in the maintenance of our Nation's welfare and security, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, am pleased to proclaim the month of May, 1958, as NATIONAL RADIO MONTH, and urge all Californians to take note of the achievements of our radio stations and to salute the men and women associated with them.

Baseball is as American as corn on the cob, ham on rye, Boston-baked beans and pumpkin or apple pie. Boys move directly from the make-believe world of Wyatt Earp, "Cheyenne," or "Gunsmoke" into the wonderful outdoor land of baseball and there they stay--boys and men--first as players and then as fans.

It is one of the first real outside interests that little Johnny shares with Dad. They play catch behind the house; then off they go together to the Big League Park, and even more important, to the Little League lot where participation and activity replaces visualization and vicariousness.

The Third National Congress of Little Leagues has set Saturday, June 14, 1958, as Little League Foundation Day. On this occasion, nearly 5,000 leagues in the United States and other lands, encompassing approximately one million youngsters, together with their volunteer adult leaders, will gather in appropriate ceremonies and observe the anniversary of the Little League Foundation.

The purpose of the Foundation is to insure, in reasonable substance, that the program may continue through the foreseeable future. The Foundation will make permanent the public benefits which accrue to countless communities enriched by Little League baseball. Leagues all over the world will donate the proceeds of the day to the Foundation. In California, 514 leagues will participate in the Little League Foundation Day observance.

It is indeed fitting that the establishment of the Foundation be observed officially on June 14, Flag Day, on which the Stars and Stripes will fly above the hundreds of Little League parks and sandlots, and where thousands of Americans will congregate as players, officials and spectators. It is in honor and encouragement of the 514 Little Leagues in California that I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim June 14, 1958, as LITTLE LEAGUE FOUNDATION DAY.

PROCLAMATION

Hospitals in the United States today employ almost 1,500,000 persons, making them one of the country's largest employers. But they likewise are among the largest and most important dispensers of mercy--and hope--in our American institutions.

Our hospitals today provide an ever higher standard of care to an ever increasing number of patients, this in the face of ever increasing costs and employment problems. For instance, there are more than 200 job classifications to be found within large hospitals, and most of these can be filled only after exhaustive personal investigation and detailed and careful training.

Hospitals are able to maintain a high standard of care only when their constant supply of personnel is assured through the community's continued support and understanding of the vital role which they undertake.

Highlighting all this and focusing attention on the hospitals' "Missions of Mercy," communities throughout the United States and Canada are joining in the annual observance of National Hospital Week, May 11-17. Saluting this observance for the intrinsic worth of our hospitals and the worthiness of the project, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim NATIONAL HOSPITAL WEEK in California and urge my fellow citizens to join in supporting our hospitals, so vital to all of us.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 23rd day of April, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

California, facing the sea and its harvest of trade in lands across the Pacific, has reason to be thankful for steam navigation which was the foundation for its oceanic prosperity. Our close relationships with foreign countries have been appreciably enhanced by Trans-Pacific commerce.

Now a new and even larger vision of usefulness and opportunity lies ahead for our Merchant Marine in the early and effective application of atomic energy in merchant ship propulsion. This ambitious and optimistic program entails long-range planning, courageous culling of inefficient operating units, the burden of financing and an exceptional type of cooperation among all segments of the maritime industry, East and West. Members of the industry in California are prepared to face this challenge.

Our maritime service is a sound one, its leaders are capable and possess courage and vision. The outcome cannot be in doubt. But we are not forgetful of our heritage of steam and the sailing from Savannah, Georgia, in 1819 of the SS SAVANNAH, marking the first successful crossing of the Atlantic under steam propulsion.

With this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, am pleased to proclaim May 22 as MARITIME DAY in our State. I know that Californians, bordering on the Pacific as we do, will wholeheartedly join in this observance.

PROCLAMATION

There is remembrance in the hearts of most Californians for many of their teachers--those who through kindness or discipline, or both, have helped to mold their characters and guide their footsteps into a usefulness to State and Nation.

The foundation which our teachers establish has much to do with determining the kind of citizens our rising generations will become when they reach maturity. The teacher provides initial inspiration needed for the protection and advancement of American ideals, and the continuation of this from grade to grade. Assuredly, no other profession yields the personal satisfaction that a teacher derives from developing the human personality and in helping boys and girls to acquire the standard of values by which they live in later years.

It is important, therefore, that we interest larger numbers of young people in the opportunities offered in the teaching field if we are to meet the needs arising from California's rapid growth and our constantly increasing school population, for otherwise we cannot adequately staff our thousands of new classrooms or provide suitable teacher replacements.

In consideration of the role which the teachers play in our civilization, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 1 as TEACHER REMEMBRANCE DAY, and June 1-8 as TEACHER CAREER WEEK. During this week I urge all citizens to become more familiar with the accomplishments of our teachers and the opportunities offered by the teaching profession.

PROCLAMATION

In pursuance of national tradition, Americans observe days which constitute milestones in our history. Ever since the birth of our Nation in 1776, national holidays have been set aside to commemorate the highlights in our quest for freedom and its perpetuation.

This year, on June 14, Flag Day, we again observe the birth of the Red, White and Blue. One hundred and eighty-one years ago, shortly after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the Continental Congress gave to the people of young America this symbol of the freedom they were to win, and since then our Flag has been honored and respected the world over. Today, its 13 stripes depicting the 13 original states, represent the never-ending desire of all free men that the world, despite the clouds now dimming the horizon, will one day live in permanent peace. The 48 stars symbolize our national unity.

In this year's Flag Day observance in California, we are happy to honor the name of Francis Bellamy, officially recognized by our State Legislature as the author of the Pledge of Allegiance. Entwined with the Flag Day observance is our rededication to this immortal and inspiring document.

The Flag dramatically represents our unity, our sovereignty, our thoughts and purposes as a people. In honoring the Stars and Stripes we express gratitude for the freedom which is ours under its protection and we renew patriotic dedication to the cause of freedom throughout the world.

Acting in accord with the finest in American tradition and in pledging anew our fealty "to the Flag of the United States and to the Republic for which it stands," the brightest, best hope of mankind on earth, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, June 14, as FLAG DAY in our State. I urge my fellow Californians to display Old Glory prominently and proudly on every public building and wherever tradition and courtesy will permit, and to consider soberly the impact which American freedom has made and which, with God's help, can continue to make upon the world.

PROCLAMATION

The physical fitness of American youth is one of the fundamental cornerstones for the success of our nation's future; indeed, a safeguard for our freedom brought to us by our hardy and clear-thinking pioneers.

In recent years, there has been much comment that the physical strength of our youth has been impaired through the easy living of modern civilization. As proof the large number of recruit physical rejections in our Armed Forces is cited.

The California Committee on Fitness which has worked closely with President Eisenhower's Council on Youth Fitness, and with our State authorities, seeks means of remedying this situation.

President Eisenhower has recommended that the week beginning June 1, 1958, be observed as National Youth Fitness Week, and I am pleased to endorse the President's proclamation in this respect. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning June 1, 1958, as National Youth Fitness Week in California, and urge for it the support of health, business, labor, agricultural, educational, recreational, religious, fraternal, service, veterans, civic and other organizations and groups, as well as parents and our citizens generally.

There was romance and danger, history and progress in the Overland Mail, the first definite linking of the Missouri River states with the Pacific Coast--the result of an Act of Congress dated March 3, 1857, and in which the postmaster general of the United States was authorized to contract for the conveyance of mail overland from the Missouri River to San Francisco. There is particular significance to California in the first transcontinental Overland Mail contract awarded to the Overland Mail Company of which John Butterfield was organizer and president, because 664 miles, or one-fourth of the route, was within California's boundaries.

More than one-third of the sites of the stage stops or stands are all within the State of California--situated at San Francisco, Clark's, San Mateo, Redwood City, Mountain View, San Jose, 17-Mile House, Gilroy, Pacheco Pass, San Luis Ranch, Lone Willow, Temple's, Firebaugh Ferry, Fresno City, Elk Horn Spring, King's River Canyon, Cross Creek, Visalia, Packwood, Tule River, Fountain Spring, Mountain Home, Poso Creek, Gordon's Ferry, Kern River Slough, Sink of Tejon, Port Tejon, Reed's, French John's, Widow Smith's, King's, San Fernando, Cahuenga, Los Angeles, El Monte, Chino Ranch, Temescal, Laguna Grande, Temecula, Aguanga, Oak Grove, Warner's Ranch, San Felipe, Vallecito, Palm Spring, Carrizo Creek, Indian Wells, Alamo Mocho, Cook's Wells, Pilot Knob and Fort Yuma.

The first stages departed simultaneously from San Francisco and from Tipton, Missouri, on September 16, 1858, and the west bound stage reached Fort Yuma, California, on October 6, 1858, going on to Los Angeles and to San Francisco where it arrived on October 10 of that year.

It is well recognized that establishment of the Overland Mail Service was a contribution of incalculable merit in linking the East and the West and the melding of our states into one great Union stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The trace and weathered ruts of the trail as it traverses California, although eroded by the elements and now dim and obscure, remain ever sharp and distinct on the pages of California history.

Gazing back at this vista of our yesterday and its then portents of our present, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim that it is in the interests of all California citizens that we recognize and pay tribute to the Overland Mail Service and the Butterfield Trail, and the Centennial of the days when the first Westbound Overland Mail Company stage was traversing California, October 6 to October 10, 1858, and that this corresponding period in 1958, 100 years later, be designated as OVERLAND MAIL DAYS.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

It is a pleasure to endorse wholeheartedly the period of September 1-7 as Union Label Week, and to urge my fellow Californians to join with members of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations in its observance.

The union label symbolizes the making of an intrinsically worth while product by employees who work under the most advantageous and safe circumstances. ## PROCLAMATION

June 21 and June 22 are two important days in civil aviation, and for two distinctive reasons. One is the 20th anniversary of civil aviation marking a like period of existence of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, primarily a federal agency now served by 23,600 employees. The other is the 10th anniversary of the California Aeronautics Commission, a State agency.

The California Aeronautics Commission became operative in 1948, the year following its creation by the Legislature. One of its prime objectives is cooperation and coordination with the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the federal regulation agency. Equally important, this State agency was assigned the tasks of promoting and fostering California's interest in aviation and creating California's system of airports to serve its communities and the people of our State.

It has performed remarkably in effecting cooperation and coordination with the federal agency. Airport safety for the 530 airports in California is divided between the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the California Aeronautics Commission. The CAA maintains safety inspection of all airports served by the scheduled airlines which number 39 in California. The CAC maintains or requires safety maintenance of the remaining 491 airports.

California and the California Aeronautics Commission recognized the possible conflict of interest and safety between airports and our public schools. This resulted in Legislative action which provided for the CAC to study the relative safety and noise levels and make recommendations for all school sites within two miles of airports. A 1957 Senate Interim Committee report stated that the State has saved more than $15,000,000 by conducting these pre-acquisition inspections.

These are only two of the many efforts by CAC which have brought changed and improved safety standards that have saved many lives and millions of dollars in property.

In consideration of this, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 21 and 22 as CIVIL AERONAUTICS ADMINISTRATION AND CALIFORNIA AERONAUTICS COMMISSION DAYS in our State, and urge all Californians to join in the observance of years of epic achievement by these invaluable and history-making agencies.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 12th day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

PROCLAMATION

Throughout our history farming has been a naturally hazardous occupation. Mechanization has brought to agriculture more efficiency, better production and improved working conditions for farmers and their families. It has also increased the danger from potential accidents and the need for safe working practices by those employed on farms and ranches.

The California State Grange, Red Cross, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America, and the National Safety Council, cooperating with governmental agencies, undertake to reduce the danger of farm mishaps through extensive programs of education and action. In the van of this effort urging proper care and observance of safety rules so as to substantially reduce the annual toll of crippling and killing accidents is the California State Grange.

It has been said that "The measure of civilization is our concern for human life." We should recognize that accidents do not just "happen," but rather that they are caused, and with proper care and precaution they can be avoided. With proper maintenance and safety devices, danger arising from use of farm machinery can be minimized. With proper diligence and recognition of the rules of personal safety accidents arising from human carelessness can be appreciably eliminated.

Humanity represents California's greatest natural resource, and to encourage its conservation in the rural areas of our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the week of July 26, 1958, as FARM SAFETY WEEK in our State. I urge that all concerned exercise care and diligence, not only during this period, but in the weeks to come, to help eliminate accidents on our farms and ranches and to assure the fullest protection of persons on farm property.

PROCLAMATION

"Join Today For Their Tomorrow" is an apt slogan for "Parent-Teacher Week" in California.

The success of the educational program and development of our State's communities depends largely on the participation of adults in civic affairs, including our schools. In planning and accomplishing our preparation for a better tomorrow, close cooperation among all peoples is imperative. Our entire democratic way of life is based on this fundamental philosophy and nowhere is this more true than in our schools.

Our children and young people are blessed in that they can look forward to golden opportunities never before experienced throughout the world, but in this the responsibilities of our elders to their education is vital. Members of Parent-Teacher Associations throughout California have made outstanding contributions in promoting a better and fuller understanding of the problems involved in training and educating our citizens of the future. In many of our State's growing communities these groups have been instrumental in solving the many difficulties arising from immigration of new families, in combating delinquency and in focusing attention on the need for a close relationship between parents, teachers and children.

The roots of the Parent-Teacher Associations--because they are broadly representative in the scope of their memberships--are potentially most influential in community development. These roots are deep when the units are active. It must be remembered, however, that the effectiveness of such an organization is heavily contingent upon extensive and wholehearted public support.

With this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the week of October 6 as Parent-Teacher Week throughout California. I urge my fellow citizens to join in the programs and projects that are aimed at developing our young people into good American citizens.

There is no valid reason why every member of our Armed Forces, especially those from California, if eligible, should not vote in this election year.

The Department of Defense, cooperating with the states, and in accordance with state laws, administers a world-wide absentee voting program for persons in Federal Service. I take this opportunity to remind parents and wives to write to their sons and husbands overseas, explaining to them the local and state issues, listing the candidates and providing the information as to how and when they may vote. Parents of Service families overseas also can provide the same service. Through uniformity and diligence in this effort, we can promote wider participation in the coming elections. Registration must be made by September 11.

Anxious to promote public interest in providing every facility so that members of our Armed Forces and others serving our country overseas may have the opportunity to vote, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period of September 15-22 as ARMED FORCES VOTERS WEEK, and urge that relatives and friends make every effort to acquaint Service people, and others employed by our Government who serve abroad, with the methods and procedures by which they can and should vote.

Every time we vote we discover America anew, this America in which every citizen should feel himself a partner, and which, beribboned with historical glory and adorned with the crown of freedom, must be perpetuated by us if our Nation, as we know it, is to persist.

If this Republic of the People, the greatest adventure in popular democracy, is to continue the ascendancy which world leadership demands--if we are to be assured of clean, honest government at home through our cities, counties and states--it is the duty of every man and woman who meet the necessary qualifications to vote when the opportunity presents itself. This year, 1958, the opportunity is presented in the November 4 elections.

Storm clouds from atheistic, Communist lands are about us, bringing crucial times so dangerous that the people of our State should self-impose the exercise of all the essential safeguards of our freedoms, in which the right and the privilege to vote stands forth predominant.

There should be no drawing back in the exercise of this basic prerogative to freedom. We should flock to the polls and cast our ballots in the serious thought that thousands of Americans have sacrificed their lives for freedom's inception and continuance, and that without it we would soon revert to a totalitarian bondage. If they could give their lives, surely we can walk safely to the polls to mark our ballots.

The ballot box is our greatest symbol of freedom--the rectifier of past mistakes and the hope of the future. It is the well-spring of social progress and the promise of better tomorrows.

With these thoughts in mind and with September 11 as the deadline for registration, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of August 18-22, 1958, as CALIFORNIA REGISTRATION WEEK, and I urge all Californians who do not now qualify to vote on November 4 to register during this period. This is the exercise of the eternal vigilance essential to safeguard our lives and our freedom.

State of California

The United States Congress approved a resolution on February 29, 1952, designating September 17 of each year as "Citizenship Day," in commemoration of the signing of the Constitution on September 17, 1787, and in recognition of all citizens who have become of voting age or have been naturalized during the year.

The Congress also enacted a second and collateral resolution on August 2, 1956, designating the week beginning September 17 of each year as "Constitution Week," as a time for contemplation and observance of the historic acts resulting from the formation of our Constitution.

Inasmuch as our Constitution has become the broad, legal foundation of our democratic way of life, its preservation is indispensable to mankind's continued progress toward a peace based on individual freedom. We Americans believe that the Constitution will endure as a living, effective instrument only as long as it is wholly supported by an informed, aroused and inspired citizenry armed with determination to defend its principles. At no time in our Nation's history is this more true than today when innumerable dangers confront not only our country physically but everything which the Constitution delegates to us as individuals with the love of freedom in our hearts.

As a tribute to all those in our history who have fought courageously to uphold the tenets of the Constitution, and in response to a request of the National Conference on Citizenship, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim September 17, 1958, as CITIZENSHIP DAY, and the week beginning September 17, as CONSTITUTION WEEK. In so doing, I urge my fellow citizens to become thoroughly acquainted with the blessings of freedom which we enjoy under the Constitution.

One of the important tasks which California faces daily is that of reducing the highway traffic toll, especially as it relates to our children. It is a tragic paradox that Americans allow traffic accidents to kill more children from one to fourteen years old than any of the five most dreaded childhood diseases.

As Governor, I have directed the State's traffic officials to develop and conduct an all-out program which utilizes all the resources of every department in State Government involved in this vital mission. The job of alerting the public to traffic safety is, however, a big one, too formidable for any single agency. In order to meet their goal of safe streets for children, the American Safety League enlists close liaison among parents, school and public officials, and most important, "The Man Behind the Wheel."

Cooperating with this worthwhile and paramount effort, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 2-9, 1958, as CHILD SAFETY WEEK in California. During the critical opening-of-school season, I urge my fellow California motorists to practice extreme caution. Drivers must adhere strictly to the rules of the road and conduct themselves with courtesy to others. I urge also that the children themselves be made constantly aware of the dangers inherent in motor traffic on our streets.

caused the Great Seal of Fire prevention is something which the people of California know intimately and are vastly concerned about because of the constant effort necessary to quell or prevent forest fires. Besides the property damage, measurable in millions of dollars, our State has suffered the loss or impairment of precious and almost irreplaceable stands of timber, essential elements of water and soil conservation, priceless scenic and recreational assets and the subsequent results of erosion.

We have suffered also in property damage and loss of life in other than forest fires. It is gratifying, therefore, that the number of deaths by fire in California decreased in 1957 as compared with other years. This, however, is no cause for complacency for there is one dark blot on the record. Thirty-two children, left unattended in their homes, died last year because of fire. In many cases, these lives and those of others who died in fires, could have been spared through proper precautions. Today, with increased population, more congestion, more hazardous materials and larger buildings, we must exercise even more care against the ravages of fire.

By tradition, the United States and Canada observe the calendar week of the year which includes October 9 as a special period commemorative of the terrible fire which destroyed the City of Chicago eighty-seven years ago. For thirty-six years, this special week has been officially dedicated to emphasize the grave responsibility of every citizen to help reduce the annual increase in the loss of life, property and resources from fire.

In view of these circumstances, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week of October 5-11, 1958, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California, and urge all of my fellow citizens to take every possible precaution, not only during the week but throughout the year, to prevent fire, thus guarding more vigorously our natural resources, our property and our lives.

Each year, through act of Congress, the first week of October is designated as NATIONAL EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK, having for its purpose the increase of employment opportunities for disabled persons.

Since becoming Governor of California it has been my pleasure to support the Advisory Committee for Employment of the Handicapped, which I appointed, in their efforts to create a more universal acceptance of the fact that ability counts, not disability. As a result, fifty-three California communities have organized Employ the Handicapped Committees to promote a better understanding of the contributions which handicapped persons can make to our State's ever-growing economy.

I am informed by the Director of Employment and the Director of the Vocational Rehabilitation Service that through the promotional efforts of the State and Community Committees, more handicapped workers are now able to compete for jobs on an equal basis with other workers.

In accordance with the national program, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 5-11, 1958, as NATIONAL EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California, and urge that all employers give maximum attention to the achievements and capabilities of handicapped citizens, not only during this week but throughout the year.

Nationally, more than 2,100 communities with millions of volunteers will conduct United Community Campaigns this fall. California, with thousands of public spirited citizens participating, will have its share of these campaigns.

These United Community Campaigns, be they called United Crusades, United Funds or Community Chests, raised more than $412,000,000 last year for the financial support of more than 27,000 national, state and local voluntary health and welfare agencies.

California citizens will be called upon for their contributions in support of voluntary health and welfare agencies engaged in federated funds appeals in the State. These agencies will serve more than 14,000,000 citizens without regard to race, creed, national origin or economic status, in their voluntary social, welfare and health services.

Considering this necessity if helpless and distressed persons are to receive proper assistance, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the months of September, October and November, 1958, as UNITED COMMUNITY CAMPAIGNS TIME in our State, and I appeal to all citizens to devote their time, energy and money to assure the success of these campaigns.

Since the inception of White Cane Day in 1951, the Lions Clubs in California have turned over more than $500,000 to aid the blind, and for sight conservation programs.

Lions Clubs everywhere, more than 300 last year, have used White Cane Day as a source of raising funds for this desirable purpose. The project involves sale by Lions Clubs members and assistants of miniature red-tipped, white plastic canes, in stores, on the streets or by mail. There is no price set on the canes, each of which bears the Lions Club insignia and the message "White Cane Day is Sight Conservation Day."

White Cane Day is a symbol of hope for those living in a world without light, and should inspire us to do everything possible in acquainting the public with sight conservation and prevention of blindness programs. In full accord with the position that the White Cane plays in our society, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim September 26-27, 1958, as WHITE CANE DAYS in our State, and I urge my fellow citizens to support the Lions Clubs in this worthy endeavor by obtaining through their contributions a miniature white cane, thereby enhancing the work being done in sight conservation.

Character building is a prime requisite for youth's upbuilding into worthwhile adulthood, and the American Youth Enrollment is one such, and a leading agency, in guiding our youth into the proper channels of maturity and decent living.

The month of September is being observed as Youth Month, and the period of September 17 through September 30 as a time for National Enrollment of California youth. Each Friday night in September will be "Party Night," with parties, dinners and other social functions in homes, schools and churches, to help reinstate these most important and vital American institutions to their rightful place of supreme importance in American life, especially in their relation to our young people.

In behalf of this effort, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the month of September to be YOUTH MONTH throughout California, and I urge every citizen to participate in events being planned to help improve and perpetuate our American ideals, our institutions and our way of life, especially as they concern American youth.

At intervals in the history of our Republic, mothers have stood aside and watched their sons go forth to defend the life and honor of our beloved Republic. Thousands of these mothers have experienced the loss of their sons in battle on land, sea, and in the air so that the freedom which we hold so dear may persist and be perpetuated.

This loss of their offspring who gave the last full measure of devotion so that the land which their mothers and fathers made for them might continue free and strong, is one which our Nation can never repay. But we can demonstrate our gratitude by saluting these mothers who wear with pride the Star of Gold which symbolizes their sacrifices.

These women have reinforced and strengthened the moral fibre of our people by developing a greater realization of the responsibilities which we today bear in a troubled world. They help to protect and carry on traditional values to which we accord devotion in our way of life.

In saluting the valor of these brave, devoted women, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, deem it fitting to proclaim Sunday, September 28, 1958, as GOLD STAR MOTHERS DAY in California, and urge my fellow Californians to appreciate and appropriately recognize the sacrifices which these women have made and to join in the prayers that those whom they gave to our country have not died in vain.

The vital role of women in business, industry, and government of our State and Nation has become increasingly important. Through such organizations as the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, women are enthusiastically active in the commercial, cultural and civic advancement of our State generally as well as in their home communities.

The annual week sponsored throughout the United States by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., is set aside to pay tribute to women in business and the professions, and the contributions which they make to the Nation. The theme of the 1958 National Business Women's Week, "More Power With Womanpower," is singularly appropos.

In view of the record of achievements by and appreciation for the efforts of the members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., I, Goodwin J. PROCLAMATION

"Your Newspaper Guards your Freedom," the theme for the 1958 National Newspaper Week, is something which all Americans, especially we Californians, should consider most soberly. More than ever before, the preservation of our freedoms and those of the nations of democratic form or intent, are in jeopardy, shadowed by an alien and atheistic philosophy of government that is the antithesis of freedom, especially of the individual.

In this breach one of the most formidable weapons which we have are the daily and weekly newspapers, for not only do they combat Communism and all that it entails, but they also stand for freedom of information in government so that the people may know and be guided accordingly. "Government of the people, by the people, and for the people," is not simply a "Madison Avenue," catch phrase but a fundamental deeply embedded in the minds of most Americans, and its perpetuation has as one of its imperatives, the fact that government and those in charge shall let the people know.

Here the American press has a tremendous responsibility. As said in "The Journalist's Creed," a public journal is a public trust.....I believe that clear thinking, and clear statement, accuracy and fairness are fundamentals to good journalism.....I believe that a journalist should write only what he holds in his heart to be true.....I believe that journalism that succeeds best--and best deserves success--fears God and honors man; is stoutly independent.

In proclaiming Newspaper Week for October 1-8, 1958, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, pay tribute to the power both present and potential of our press in California, and add that vigilance is still and always will be the price of freedom. Let every newspaper guard our freedom.

PROCLAMATION

California continues to glory in its golden age of remarkable progress and growth. One of the graphic and monumental evidences of this is completion and opening of the magnificent new 12-story, $15,000,000 Los Angeles Furniture Mart at 1933 South Broadway, the only institution of its kind in the United States completely owned and operated for and by members of the furniture industry. This is the world's most extensive showcase for furniture, floor coverings, lamps and decorative home fashions and is participated in by 900 manufacturers, fully one-half of whom have their factories and businesses in Los Angeles County.

The Los Angeles furniture manufacturing industry is the third largest in the country and accounts for more than 75 per cent of all furniture produced in California. Furthermore, the new Furniture Mart will perform a significant service in the field of international public relations and good will by not only recognizing the high creativity of other nations in the field of furniture, design, construction and manufacture, but by opening the display facilities of the new Mart to such nations.

Completion of the new Mart is being marked by a nine-day, open-to-the-public Home Furnishings Show from September 27 through October 5, 1958, to coincide with the National Furniture Fashion Festival, and this will be the only time during which the public will be admitted to the new Mart.

Considering these facts and that all net proceeds of the opening will be turned over to the City of Hope in Duarte to further the work of this humanitarian organization in its battle against "catastrophic disease," including cancer, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim September 27 through October 5, 1958, as HOME FURNISHINGS WEEK throughout California.

PROCLAMATION

The foundation of the United States was laid by men and women who believed in God and His influence in human affairs. At no time in our history is there more need for Americans to rely on Divine Guidance than now, and it is for this reason that I am pleased to proclaim November as Religion In American Life Month, calling upon the people of California to join their prayers of thanksgiving at Thanksgiving time with pleas for our guidance in these troubled days.

This year marks the 10th annual observance of the nonsectarian Religion In American Life program, and it is its fundamental objective that all Americans should have a firm faith in the Creator of all things. We have proved that it is possible for people of many different faiths to live together amicably and with understanding.

November has been designated by the Religion In American Life movement as a special time in which we should stress the importance of an active spiritual life. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim November, 1958 as RELIGION IN AMERICAN LIFE MONTH, and urge that all Californians, young and old, attend services regularly in their churches and synagogues. Indeed, I urge that they do this the year around.

PROCLAMATION

The United Nations, in its 13th year as a vital instrument in preserving world peace, has achieved monumental proportions in welding the desires of people to live together in harmony regardless of their different political philosophies.

That the citizens of our country are giving intelligent thought and serious study to the work of this international organization is attested by the fact that during 1957 the activities of the United States Committee for the United Nations on state and local levels were the most extensive in its history.

Naturally, in a project so extensive, there remain many obstacles to be overcome before peace is secure beyond all threats, and in this much wished-for attainment the United Nations, a voluntary association of sovereign nations, undertakes to deal with ancient confusions through united and sometimes protective action, and to achieve mutual respect for one another's problems among its members.

The way toward world peace is long and tortuous, beset with many difficulties, some of them extremely formidable, and the clearing away of numerous misunderstandings. But it is hoped that out of the trials and errors, the triumphs and the failures of the United Nations, there will eventually come international respect for the majesty of the law and for the dignity and freedom of the individual the world over.

In the hearts and minds of millions of people in all lands, this dedicated body is an instrument through which they have reaffirmed their faith and hope in the ultimacy of world peace and security for all. With these vital necessities in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Friday, October 24, 1958, as UNITED NATIONS DAY, and urge my fellow Californians to a greater understanding of the problems which we face and which must be solved by the United Nations if we are to have a universality of peace in today's world--a hope in which we all sincerely join.

of persons and property within this State have arisen and now exist as a result of major and widespread fires which have occurred and which are still burning in a large area within Los Angeles County;

3. That the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril warrant and necessitate the proclamation of the existence of a State of Disaster;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State, do hereby proclaim that a State of Disaster exists in the County of Los Angeles; and

The 38th annual observance of American Education Week this year occurs in an era when public interest in schools, stimulated by the launching of "Sputnik" and revelations of the Soviet Russian educational achievements, is at an all-time high.

This year's theme, "Report Card, U.S.A.," is designated to encourage thoughtful parents and citizens to take a long and searching look at our school problems and progress in the space age which has burst so suddenly upon us. Judging from the heated debate which accompanies almost every school question today, our American Education Week visiting lists this year should top the 26 million mark set last year.

Dynamic, enlightened public interest in education is essential to the success of our program of developing our youth. Education is of vital importance, not only to parents, teachers and students, but to every member of the community. The pattern of progress in a community is largely determined by the direction of its educational system and the interests its people take in their schools.

To encourage the fullest public support and cooperation on behalf of the schools, and with the knowledge that the schools are the very lifeblood of the government as well as the cornerstone on which we build for the future, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the week of November 9-15, 1958, as AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK in California, and urge all citizens and organizations to acquaint themselves with the achievements and problems of their schools toward the ends that the schools will receive the support and cooperation they require.

America's history, its men and events, have been colorful, always a memorable foreground for our steady march forward toward the attainment and security of our freedom. The vivid, inspiring personalities, dramatic events, thrilling incidents and thousands of triumphs, many against severe adversity, constitute a firm foundation for the fervent patriotism inherent in the hearts of most of us.

Such organizations as the All-American Conference to Combat Communism have adopted a positive, constructive approach to the ideological conflict now going on throughout the world between the governmental philosophies of Human Freedom and Tyrannical Absolutism. It is essential that all Americans recognize the divisive tactics of the Communistic dictators in pitting group against group, and that we should actively resist such subversive activities.

As an individual knowledge and understanding of our heritage as a free people increases daily, so does an appreciation for the blessings we enjoy as Americans. I commend the participants in the All-American Conference to Combat Communism for their patriotic fervor. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim November 23-29 as KNOW YOUR AMERICA WEEK in our State, and urge my fellow Californians to actively cooperate in its observance and to do everything possible to insure the preservation of the precious freedom guaranteed to every American, regardless of race, religion or nativity.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 14th day of October, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

Throughout the generations, predating the American Revolution, this land of freedom has been singularly and constantly blessed with men of vision, intelligence and courage in serving the highest elective offices bestowed upon them by the people.

But even in this select company, a few have stood out, emblazoned by the excellence and historic significance of the service they rendered our country and our people. One of these few was our 26th President, Theodore Roosevelt, outstanding administrator, scholar, historian, statesman, soldier, explorer, and sportsman. The many fields of endeavor in which this remarkable man excelled indicate the tremendous capacity for leadership and humanitarianism that was his.

Small wonder it is that when Rudyard Kipling heard of President Theodore Roosevelt's death he wrote, "Great heart has gone."

In grateful memory of his important contributions to our Nation's progress, character and tradition, and his vast love for our West, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim October 21-27, 1958, as THEODORE ROOSEVELT CENTENNIAL COMMEMORATION WEEK in California, calling attention to the fact that October 27 is the 100th anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birthday. During this time I urge all Californians to become familiar with the words and deeds of this truly great American.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 20th day of October, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

In these troubled times all of us should be All-American in standing upright and outright for the principles of freedom on which our government and the way we live are predicated.

As Governor, I know that the 100 All-Americans of the sports world who make California their home stand forthright in that category, and it is in this spirit of All-Americanism that I praise their efforts in behalf of youth and sportsmanship.

"All-American" connotes a right way of personal living, of being a guide for the younger generation who aspire to sports world brilliance, and of setting an example of decency and uprightness which all who see and read may follow.

In recognition of the contributions of our All-Americans to the world of sports, and more important, to our State and Nation as a whole, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, am pleased to proclaim Thursday, October 30, 1958, as ALL-AMERICAN DAY in California, and I urge all our citizens, especially those of sports persuasion, to join in its observance.

PROCLAMATION

The anniversary of Veterans Day on November 11, formerly known as Armistice Day, is symbolic of mankind's inherent hope for peace and justice for all; for freedom for imprisoned peoples the world over yoked under Communist tyranny; and a tribute to our honored dead and those living who have served our Flag in the wars of our generations.

In California, 40 per cent of our population comprises veterans and their families, people who make their way in every walk of life. Through their organizations they play an important role in the progress and development of our communities. Just as they fought for the preservation of peace and the existence of our Nation, so should they be recognized for the part they play in our democratic way of life.

In these troubled times when the shadows of a vast Communist atheism endanger us and the Christianity which we profess, the ever-old, ever-present cry of "God and Country" assumes a new and additional significance. We need every strength and every wholehearted loyalty that, as a people, we can gather, if this Republic of the People is to persist and lead a harassed people of the world to the freedoms they are entitled to.

In view of these truths, which with God, are our strengths, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Tuesday, November 11, 1958, as VETERANS DAY in California. I urge my fellow Californians to recall with gratitude the sacrifices of all those who fought and worked with valor on land, in the sky, and on the seas to maintain our precious heritage. I especially urge that each of us pause for five minutes at 11:00 a.m. that day, to quietly, humbly and prayerfully rededicate ourselves to Americanism, the hope of a strife-torn world.

PROCLAMATION

The defense of our country depends to an appreciable degree on the preparedness of our Air Force Reserve and Air Force National Guard, members of which are trained under the supervision of the Continental Air Command. The Continental Air Command will celebrate its tenth anniversary on December 7, 1958, this also marking Pearl Harbor Day, a reminder of the ever-urgent need for adequate air defense and powerful air offense.

There are 10,069 Air Force Reservists and 4,398 Air Guardsmen in California who demonstrate their belief in a strong, ready Reserve by donating thousands of hours of their own lives--evenings, weekends, and vacations--training with their units. There is close and harmonious relationship between the active Air Force, the State Adjutant General and the Air Reserve, continually providing security for our way of life. The Air Reserve contributes to this security at a fraction of what it would cost to maintain a comparable active force, thereby benefitting the taxpaying public.

It is planned to celebrate Air Reserve Week in the eight Western States, December 1-7, with all units of the Air Force Reserve throughout California and the rest of the country holding open house on Sunday, December 7. Air Force Reserve flying units have scheduled regular training periods for the day and virtually every community in California will be saluted by formations of C-119 troop carrier aircraft being flown by Volunteer Reservists.

Mindful of all this and its portents, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the week commencing December 1, 1958, and terminating on Sunday, December 7, 1958, (Pearl Harbor Day) as AIR RESERVE WEEK, and I urge all Californians to join with me in congratulating these patriotic men and women on "OPERATION TENTH BIRTHDAY."

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of October, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-eight.

"Human rights" are those in which every American is concerned--they are vital keystones of our freedom, our prosperity and our growth as a nation of free men. It will be remembered that after the Constitution was adopted in 1783, Thomas Jefferson and others of our founding fathers were concerned that it did not go far enough in outlining and guaranteeing human rights. The result was the Bill of Rights which clarifies the freedoms to which we are all entitled as American citizens.

Turning to California, our position in the United States becomes more prominent day by day as thousands continue to migrate into our State from other parts of the country and from many foreign ports. To list the colors, creeds, rights and denominations represented by these people would prove an endless task. Yet, the Golden State is proud of the contribution these people are making toward its progress and they are doing it in complete accord, living side by side, sharing similar ideas and ideals, working together for the benefit of humanity.

Into all this is embedded those freedoms which were outlined in our Bill of Rights more than a century ago and which are emphasized in many ways by the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted ten years ago. It is my privilege, therefore, to proclaim December 10, 1958, as HUMAN RIGHTS DAY, and December 15, 1958, as BILL OF RIGHTS DAY, and to urge my fellow Californians to give sober consideration to the rights guaranteed us by these declarations and which we wish to share with peoples of other lands.

Thanksgiving has been and is particularly an American institution dating back to the days following the first bountiful harvest in the Plymouth Bay Colony when the Governor of the hardy and virtuous Pilgrims first proclaimed:

"And therefore, I William Bradford, (by the grace of God today, and the franchise of the good people), Governor of Plymouth, say--through virtue of vested powers--ye shall gather with one accord, and once hold in the Month of November Thanksgiving unto the Lord."

Thus was born our American Thanksgiving Day which has come down to us through more than three hundred years. There are vast blessings which we as Californians can well be thankful for on this Thanksgiving Day of 1958. It has been a momentous year, one in which we have lived in peace, precarious though it has been. We in California and throughout America have been fortunate in having harvested record-breaking crops; we have seen definite breaks in the shadows of a recession that at the year's beginning had overshadowed us threateningly; and we have been able to continue sharing more bounty with less fortunate peoples in other countries.

Through the specific religious appeals (1) Protestant--"The Share and Surplus Appeal;" (2) Catholic--"The Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Collection;" (3) Jewish--"The United Jewish Appeal;" through such organizations as Care's Food Crusade campaign, and through our Government's foreign aid to which all American taxpayers contribute, we have, through God's good grace, been able to minister to millions of homeless, hungry and destitute in overseas lands.

When the Revolutionary War was over and American independence assured, George Washington was not unmindful in his spirit of Thanksgiving and at Newburg, New York, on June 8, 1783, wrote and signed this following prayer to the Governors of the 13 states:

"Almighty God: We make our earnest prayer that thou wilt keep the United States in entire Holy protection; that thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to the Government; and entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large. And finally that thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humanity and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the divine author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

The health of any nation, so vital to our welfare and security, is endangered by any disease such as muscular dystrophy, whose cause and cure are not determined as yet and whose victims number more than 200,000 a year. Hope for these victims, two-thirds of them children, lies in research, clinical diagnosis and treatment, the urgent mission of Muscular Dystrophy Associations which seek the cause and cure of this malady.

November marks the start of the annual appeal of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., in behalf of its fight to conquer this dreaded affliction. With this in mind and in view of the possible and hoped-for benefits to be derived, I, Goodwin J. PROCLAMATION

The Civil Air Patrol is the official civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force and is charged with a major role in air search and rescue activities. The CAP is also chartered by Congress as a non-profit corporation dedicated to the advancement of aviation and space education.

In California the Civil Air Patrol has over 2,800 senior members who are pilots, observers, radio operators, first aid specialists, technical experts and specialists in allied professional fields. More than 2,900 cadets are enrolled in courses of aviation training under the CAP Cadet Program. The 103 squadrons and 15 groups of the Patrol cover all parts of the State.

Most of the aircraft used in search and rescue activities are privately owned by individual Civil Air Patrol members. Not only do members receive no pay, but on the contrary, each pays a fee for belonging to the organization.

December 1, 1958, marks the 17th anniversary of the founding of the Civil Air Patrol. In recognition of the valiant services of this organization, and the self-sacrificing public spirit of its members whose duties are often performed under conditions of great hazard, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period December 1 through 7, 1958, as CIVIL AIR PATROL WEEK in California, and I urge all citizens of our State to join me in this tribute.

There is an all-humanitarian backdrop to The National Foundation, widening its beneficial aspects and in the midst of its forthcoming 21st year of devoted service to the Nation and to California, it has reached a majority memorable to all of us. Its March of Dimes has been and is an inspiration to all Americans.

It has aided thousands upon thousands of polio patients and it has pledged its resources so that the many cruelly handicapped victims of this crippling disease can be restored to useful and productive lives. Polio patients need no longer remain hopeless. There is, of course, the preventive in the most effective Salk Polio Vaccine, and now The National Foundation seeks the treatment and conquest of other maladies plaguing mankind.

Billions of children and young adults are now protected by the Salk Vaccine against paralytic polio, but more than two-thirds of those in the susceptible age group under 40 still need one or more of the three shots required for maximum protection. Also, treatment is necessary for those who suffered their attacks before the Salk Vaccine was perfected. All this and the new fields which the organization is entering require funds.

Mindful of all this, as well as the need for scientists, doctors, nurses, physical and occupational therapists, medical social workers and others, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim January, 1959, as MARCH OF DIMES MONTH throughout our State and urge generous financial support for this most worthy cause.

Despite expanded radar belts the fact remains that a determined enemy could get through to level an airplane or missile attack on the United States. This danger lends particular emphasis to the observance of National Civil Defense Day on December 7, coming as it does on the 17th anniversary of the American disaster at Pearl Harbor when we became "sitting ducks" for an unexpected and deadly Japanese sea-air attack.

Californians are especially interested in this first observance of National Civil Defense Day because it will mark the carrying out of evacuation "Operation Chico," calling for movement by private automobiles of approximately 500 families from Solano County communities to Chico, a distance of 140 miles. This evacuation test should spotlight some of the problems in connection with the evacuation of residents under simulated conditions of wartime. It will be the first time in the United States that a large-scale evacuation has been held in which participants have remained away from home overnight.

It is well for Californians to realize that civil defense is personal, not just something that can be delegated to someone else. It is vital that all Californians make themselves aware of its pertinency to themselves. As Governor, I would repeat my urging that every California family on this National Civil Defense Day take the time to prepare a family shelter and equip it with a 2-day supply of food and water, plus essentials such as a first-aid kit and battery radio. Learn warning signals and what they mean, study the community plan for emergency action and protection from radioactive fallout, make emergency preparations and determine how to obtain emergency radio information.

It is necessary to keep in mind that our total defense depends on a powerful military force to defend our shores and strike back at any aggressor who attacks

PROCLAMATION

Our American blessings gained through generations of our national existence, often have been purchased at the cost of thousands of human lives. There was Valley Forge, with the imprint of bloody feet on the windswept snows; there was Gettysburg where men died by the thousands that the solidarity of the American Republic might be perpetuated; and there was Pearl Harbor which on Sunday, December 7, 1941, left its imperishable imprint on the souls of every loyal and conscientious American.

I believe that we of the West are most acutely conscious of this and the fact that we have a sacred obligation of gratitude to do homage to the memory of the 1,102 men, 220 of them from California, who bravely met, faced and embraced death aboard the USS Arizona on that unforgettable December day in Pearl Harbor and the many others they have come to symbolize.

Governor Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona and his associates of the USS Arizona Memorial Committee have set in motion a project to raise funds with which to build a fitting memorial over the rusted hulk of the battleship Arizona and to make it a living memorial to the sailors and Marines still entombed within her battered hull and all the others who fought at Pearl Harbor who are ever enshrined in our hearts.

This national fund drive begins on December 7, and in the spirit of freedom, patriotism and devotion which motivated those who gave their last full measure that historic day in 1941, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, deem it my privilege to proclaim Sunday, December 7, as USS ARIZONA DAY in our State, and urge all Californians to lend their support to this epic endeavor.

A

WHEREAS, the laws of the State of California empower the Governor to proclaim a State of Disaster in an area or region of this State affected or likely to be affected by certain conditions of extreme peril to persons and property within the State, which proclamation shall be in writing and shall take effect immediately upon its issuance; and

WHEREAS, it is provided by law that during a State of Disaster the Director of the California Disaster Office shall act as the coordinator of all state disaster activities in connection with such emergency, and every state agency and officer shall cooperate with the Director in rendering all possible assistance; and

WHEREAS, it is further provided by law that during a State of Disaster when the need arises for outside aid in any county, city and county, or city within the region, such aid shall be rendered in accordance with the mutual aid plans developed on a regional or other basis; and that it shall be the duty of local public officials to comply with such plans; and

WHEREAS, I, As Governor of the State of California, have found, and do hereby find:

1. That a threat of conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property within the County of Los Angeles has arisen and exists as a result of recent fires in that county creating a serious potential of flood damage in the affected areas, in view of the imminence of heavy rainfall;

2. That the Governor has been requested to proclaim a State of Disaster therein by the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles.
3. That local authority in directly affected areas is inadequate to cope with the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril by reason of their magnitude, which places them beyond the control of the protective services, personnel, equipment and facilities of the county and requires the combined forces of a mutual aid region or regions to combat.
4. That the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril warrant and necessitate the proclamation of the existence of a State of Disaster;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State, do hereby proclaim that a State of Disaster exists in the County of Los Angeles;

I DIRECT that this proclamation shall take effect immediately, and that as soon hereafter as possible this proclamation be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of California, and that widespread publicity and notice be given to this proclamation.

The week of January 12-18 is being observed as National Civil Service Week throughout the country, and January 16 will mark the 76th anniversary of the Federal Civil Service Act.

There are 233,000 Federal civil servants in California alone, men and women whose efficiency and dedication to their work deserves continuing recognition from a grateful government and public.

State and local governments, as well as the Federal government, have come to rely upon the civil service system to provide employees on a merit basis, and civil service is now an integral part of our governmental system at every level.

At the request of the American Federation of Government Employees, which has traditionally sponsored observances of the anniversary of the Civil Service Act, I therefore proclaim the week of January 12-18, 1959 to be CIVIL SERVICE WEEK in California.

We look to the past for guidance for the future.

Both our triumphs and our failures have taught us that it is only through devoted adherence to the principles on which this nation was founded that we may build a better world for people everywhere.

Those principles go far beyond material things. They are, indeed, rooted in the basic belief that men are created equal, that they are free to develop their talents and personalities in a society which will not raise against them any artificial barriers of race, creed or place of origin.

Hundreds of thousands of our citizens have made the supreme sacrifice in defense of these principles. Their dedication inspires all of us, and it is fitting that we honor them by pledging ourselves to the same selfless devotion to our great heritage.

Mindful of the advantages that accrue to our State and Nation from an awareness of this tremendous heritage in the minds of our youth, therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February, 1959, American History Month in our State, and ask all my fellow citizens, our schools, patriotic groups and civic organizations to join in undertaking and participating in such activities as will promote public understanding of our rich heritage and thereby strengthen our democratic way of life.

The right of every man to choose freely his way of life and to pursue it in freedom is fundamental to the American way. Discrimination for reasons of race, religion or national origin is foreign to the principles on which this country is founded.

The fullest realization of our highest aspirations to achieve the brotherhood of man under the Fatherhood of God depends on building better human relations, religiously and racially, day by day; and each of us must bear a solemn obligation to fulfill this mission regardless of our religion, race, or national origin.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, in full accord with the National Conference of Christians and Jews, do hereby proclaim the week of February 15-22, 1959, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California, and I invite all our citizens to join with me in observing the tenets of this week.

California's pride in its growth is tempered by its acknowledgment that growth is accompanied by the emergence of new problems and the aggravation of many others.

The California Society for Crippled Children and Adults has alerted the State to a "grim corollary" of our population expansion: an increase in the number of California residents handicapped by physical disabilities. This increase, in 1958, necessitated the extension of the Society's services to 21,047 crippled Californians, more than 18,000 of whom were children. The total figure represented a rise of more than 5,000 over the previous year's service load.

Since the founding of the California Society for Crippled Children in 1926, its value to the general welfare has become greater with each succeeding year. Its local county affiliates in every part of the State are assurance that every handicapped Californian, without regard to age, race, creed or cause of crippling, can receive care and can hope that he may ultimately achieve health and self-sufficiency.

California's response to the annual Easter Seal appeal for funds to finance this work has been the greatest among all the states in which the appeal is made. This year, the Easter Seal goal in California is $1,300,000, the amount needed to continue an effective program of converting disabilities into abilities, dependency to independence, for our physically crippled.

In full cognizance of what Easter Seal services have accomplished and with full confidence in what they can contribute in the coming year, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of February 24 to March 29 as EASTER SEAL MONTH in California, and urge all to contribute to the fullest extent of their abilities toward the attainment of this year's Easter Seal campaign goal.

For almost fifty years, the Boy Scouts of America has helped mold our youngsters into outstanding American citizens.

Today there are 317,735 scouts in the movement in California alone. In the entire United States, membership is at an all-time high of 3,615,073. They are being served by 1,335,812 adult leaders.

During 1958, in California, these youngsters devoted 1,338,839 hours of their time to the promotion of traffic, outdoor and home safety projects under their Safety Good Turn Program in cooperation with community safety organizations and public officials.

All of these activities have proved to be of tremendous benefit to all the citizens of our State and Nation by strengthening our moral fiber and by assuring all of us of a better future.

Our war veterans have served our country loyally, courageously and unhesitatingly in time of grave peril, giving up valuable years of their lives, foregoing the comforts and solace of homes and loved ones, and, when occasion demanded, even sacrificing their lives, to help preserve our great heritage.... the American way of life.

These men and women have earned an opportunity to engage in gainful employment and pursue a livelihood in accordance with their ability, training and choice and have established exemplary and enviable records of civilian employment, proving that the experience and training acquired in the service of their country help to qualify them as excellent employees.

Despite recent improvements in the economic situation there are still many of these veterans unemployed. And whether in time of prosperity or adversity, I believe wholeheartedly that the situation of any veteran who is unemployed should be called to the attention of the business and industrial sections of our State.

Therefore I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of the State of California, hereby proclaim the week of May 3-9, 1959, HIRE A VETERAN WEEK in our State so that the attention of all employers can and will be directed to the situation.

The increasing rate of traffic accidents caused by those driving under the influence of alcohol is a cause for ever-increasing concern in the enforcement of our laws.

This problem, of course, is not exclusively one of our youth. Yet the solution of this problem rests directly upon the education of our youth in the dangers of alcohol.

We must bring to the attention of future generations in California the need for temperance in all things, for upon them lies the burden of assuring a better tomorrow for all our citizens.

Now, therefore, I, Edmund G. PROCLAMATION

Throughout the world today we see the mark of the aggressor attempting to impose his totalitarian tyranny and his atheistic philosophy on free people.

Yet still shining like a beacon to guide us to salvation is the gentle teaching of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, inspiring us with God's Eternal Truth.

Christ's humility, helpfulness, tolerance, honesty, forthrightness and unselfishness, give us the strength to defend our most precious right to worship in freedom at the foot of the Cross.

His death and resurrection have provided us through the centuries with evidences of eternity, demonstrating that only by cloaking ourselves in His spirituality may we achieve the peace we seek.

Now, therefore, in accordance with custom, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 27, 1959, GOOD FRIDAY throughout our State and urge all our citizens of Christian faith to observe this day with reverence and faith and particularly to spend the three hours between noon and 3 p.m. of that day in meditation, devout prayer and consecrated dedication to the principles of peace and brotherhood as taught by Jesus Christ of Nazareth.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 19th day of March, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-nine.

In eight Veterans Administration Hospitals in California and at the California State Veterans Home in Yountville, disabled veterans spend long hours making red crepe paper Memorial Poppies for the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary.

The funds received by these veterans for these poppies are often their only income.

On May 22 and 23 of this year, volunteer workers of the Legion Auxiliary will be on the street corners of every city and town in California selling these poppies to assist the living victims of this nation's wars--and to help their families through the Auxiliary's rehabilitation, child welfare and education programs.

This annual sale of poppies just before Memorial Day is a most worthy cause, and I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, therefore proclaim May 22 and 23, 1959, as POPPY DAYS IN CALIFORNIA, and urge full and generous public support in recognition of the sacrifices of those who helped defend their country.

Rapid development of transportation and communication has placed every area of the nation and world within easy traveling distance of California.

Technological advances have also provided an ever-increasing amount of leisure time and stimulated interest in the West as a place in which to travel, take vacations and participate in a wide variety of sports and recreational activities.

In recognition of the widespread public interest in these activities, a great International Sports and Vacation Show will be held in the Los Angeles Sports Arena, the adjacent Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum and the Olympic Swim Stadium from March 11 to 20, 1960, under the sponsorship of the Los Angeles Examiner, and with the support of an honorary committee of civic, industrial and recreational leaders from throughout the State.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, proclaim March 11 to 20, 1960, INTERNATIONAL SPORTS AND VACATION WEEK, and invite participation and attendance at this superb exposition from all over the world.

This year marks the one hundred and eighty-third anniversary of the independence of our nation. It comes at the time of a series of post-war crises and thus affords a singularly appropriate occasion for reflection upon the principles upon which our great nation was founded.

So long as this country continues to be engaged in a struggle with an atheistic and totalitarian foe who would deny the validity of the truths set forth in the Preamble of the Declaration of Independence, it is appropriate that the officers and employees of the State of California, who are daily engaged in demonstrating the vitality and strength of democracy, set aside additional time for the re-affirmation of their faith in God and belief in the dignity of man. The opportunity to demonstrate this continuing faith not only aids in maintaining our institutions but fortifies our people for the tasks which must be accomplished to ensure the survival of these institutions long after Communism will have disappeared from the earth.

With these thoughts in mind, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, Governor of California, pursuant to Section 6705 of the Government Code, do hereby proclaim July 3, 1959, to be a special or limited holiday applying to State officers and employees only, and not appointed to be generally observed throughout the State by all classes of business and all classes of persons. All courts and public offices of the

I further urge that on these days the flag of the United States of America be flown from homes, public buildings and places of business, and that the officers and employees of the State of California join in patriotic observances in honor of the anniversary of the independence of our nation.

In 1960, the Boy Scouts of America will celebrate its golden anniversary, marking 50 years of service to the boys of the nation. The program of Scouting has steadily grown until it now reaches 5,000,000 boys and leaders. Since 1910 more than 33,500,000 different persons of every race, color and creed have been affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America.

The Boy Scout program of character development, citizenship training, and physical fitness is recognized by the American people as being a distinct asset in the training of youth. It is organized in every part of the United States. The Boy Scouts of America has given fifty continuous years of vital service to the communities of the nation, in floods, tornadoes, hurricanes, and other times of public emergencies, and has rendered service to America in the "Get-Out-the-Vote" campaigns incident to the national elections of 1952 and 1956. Its contributions in the field of conservation have also been manifest.

The people of the State of California also recognize the important contributions to the nation being made by the hundreds of thousands of volunteer adult leaders of Scouting who give of their time and resources to the leadership of Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops, and Explorer units, assuring the community a high grade and dedicated leadership of the various Scouting units.

It is indeed a pleasure and privilege that I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim that the year 1960 be known as BOY SCOUT GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY YEAR, and I call upon all citizens to give the Boy Scouts of America their fullest cooperation and support so that more and more boys and young men between eight and eighteen years of age may be enrolled in the Boy Scouts of America.

The people of our nation are observing October 15-21 as National Newspaper Week. The theme for this 20th annual observance is "Your Newspaper--Freedom's Textbook."

It is most appropriate for Californians to join in honoring the people of the newspaper world, inasmuch as the founder of National Newspaper Week is a Californian, John B. Long, general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

From the beginning of this great nation, Americans have turned to their newspapers for truth. In newspaper columns, too, they have found space for their own opinions and those of others.

In a world threatened as never before with the loss of freedom, newspapers stand guard over the rights of free people. The freedom of the press, of course, is so basic in our way of life that it stands forever guaranteed in our Constitution.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 15-21, 1959, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in California. I suggest that Californians acquaint themselves anew with the freedom of the press and the other guarantees which our nation's founders wrote as the first ten amendments to our Constitution.

The Congress of the United States, the Legislature of California, and the legislatures of 38 other states have established sesquicentennial commissions to commemorate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary year of Abraham Lincoln's birth on February 12, 1809.

The Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission of the State of California, created by act of the 1959 Legislature, was directed to promote statewide programs for celebrating events as the anniversary year progressed. It is cooperating with other groups intent on inspiring national devotion to the Lincolnian principles which in his own words have made this nation "the last best hope on earth."

These principles of honesty, justice, and democracy are urgently needed today as a bulwark in the character of American citizens against the complex challenges of domestic and foreign problems. For Lincoln's struggle for human rights and liberty still continues, as it did when he wrote from his heart to dedicate, on that nineteenth day of November, four score and sixteen years ago, not just a cemetery at Gettysburg but himself and his people to the proposition that all men are created equal.

The great task he defined still remains before us. We must continue to seek for ourselves and our fellow humans that essence of equality which he defined as "an unfettered start, an equal chance in the race of life."

It is fitting that plans, exhibits, publications, celebrations and appropriate programs should emphasize the greatness and value of the life and character of Abraham Lincoln. His historical stature never stops growing.

As Governor of California, I, Edmund G. Brown, do proclaim and declare that the years 1959 and 1960 shall be a period of appropriate observance and celebration of the sesquicentennial anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. I call upon and recommend to all community governments, all civic groups, all educational institutions, all service organizations, and all newspapers, radio and television channels to take such steps as they may deem appropriate to carry out the spirit and purpose of this proclamation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 19th day of November, A.D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-nine.

Californians are a tree-loving people, proud of their giant redwoods and fine mountain forests. On the bare hills and in the vast sunny valleys, every tree planted is precious and highly prized.

For the most part our citizens are well aware of the importance of conservation programs, the need to preserve and expand our wooded areas, and the beauty of tree-lined streets and shaded areas in residential developments. Tree planting continues throughout the year.

Since 1947, under a requesting resolution of the State Legislature, Arbor Day has been proclaimed annually on March 7, as a fitting memorial to the great naturalist, Luther Burbank.

Therefore, as Governor of California, I, Edmund G. Brown, do hereby proclaim March 7, 1960, as ARBOR DAY in this State. I urge the day be observed by appropriate, planned planting of trees and shrubbery.

P R O C L A M A T I O N

Once again we approach that holy week of greatest meaning in all the Christian world. The crucifixion and resurrection of our Savior, Jesus Christ, touches every heart with its story of supreme tragedy succumbing to shining spiritual triumph.

The message and its promise buoy eternal hope for all mankind. Never has it been needed more than in our strife-torn world of today.

Now, therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 15, 1960, GOOD FRIDAY throughout our State. I urge all citizens of the Christian faith to observe this day reverently, and particularly to devote the three hours between noon and three o'clock to prayer and meditation, dedicated to the principles of brotherly love on which depend the peace of the spirit and of the world.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I

WHEREAS, it is further provided by law that during a State of Disaster when the need arises for outside aid in any county, city and county, or city within the region, such aid shall be rendered in accordance with the mutual aid plans developed on a regional or other basis; and that it shall be the duty of local public officials to comply with such plans; and

WHEREAS, I, as Governor of the State of California, have found and do hereby find:

1. That conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property within this State have arisen and now exist as a result of major and widespread fires which have occurred and are still burning over large areas of Lassen, Plumas, Shasta, Sierra, and Tehama Counties;
2. That the local authority in directly affected areas is inadequate to cope with the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril by reason of their magnitude, which places them beyond the control of the protective services, personnel, equipment and facilities of any single county, city and county, or city, and requires the combined forces of a mutual aid region or regions to combat;
3. That the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril warrant and necessitate the proclamation of the existence of a State of Disaster;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDWARD G. BROWN, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State, do hereby proclaim that a State of Disaster exists in the Counties of Lassen, Plumas, Shasta, Sierra, and Tehama; and

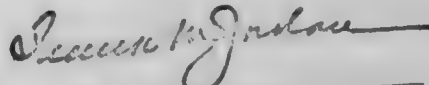

I DIRECT that this proclamation shall take effect immediately, and that as soon hereafter as possible this proclamation be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of California, and that widespread publicity and notice be given to this proclamation.

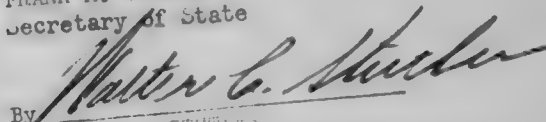

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed.

PROCLAMATION

It is appropriate each year to set aside time in which to reflect on the contributions labor has made to the growth of California.

We have all watched our cities grow, our industries prosper, great bridges and majestic dams span and harness the water of our State. In each of these we see the hand of labor. No plan, no investment can bear fruit except as it is tended by the worker.

To match our growth, made possible by labor, we need constantly to expand the horizon. Over the next fifteen years California must prepare for more than a quarter of a million new jobs each year. We will be ready, with the help of all, to accept the challenge and be ready.

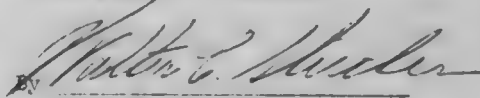

In recognition of the magnificent contributions made by labor in California, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, proclaim Monday, September 5, 1960, as LABOR DAY in California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of August, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty.

Down through the ages poets have helped man see the beauty and understand the deeper meanings of life and the world about him. They have sung of his exploits, solaced his defeats and sharpened his senses to attain the peaks of all emotions.

With its rhythms and imagery, poetry touches chords in each one of us, transforming the gray prose of commonplace events into color and drama.

To perpetuate the creative art of poetry in the public regard, and to honor those who engage in it, the California Legislature by resolution last Spring set aside October 15 to be celebrated each year as POETRY DAY in California. I join in this designation and in inviting all patriotic, religious, educational and cultural organizations to hold suitable observance of this day each year.

PROCLAMATION

The trees of California are the pride and glory of the state and the symbol of its progress. It is the duty of every citizen to plant and care for them. The State of California is hereby proclaimed as Arbor Day.

It is not enough for Californians to rely on these trees provided for us by nature. As our cities spread and our highways system grows we must take positive steps to plant new trees to assure that their verdant beauty will always be a part of the California scene.

To further this effort, and as a tribute to our great naturalist, Luther Burbank, the Legislature in 1947 declared that March 7 annually should be proclaimed Arbor Day.

Therefore, I, the Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 7, 1951, as ARBOR DAY in this state.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 15th day of March, 1951.

The giant Redwoods, the handsome Oaks and the stately Pines are carried in the minds of all our visitors.

P R O C L A M A T I O N

The Christian World is now entering the holy week with its eternal message of hope for a world still torn by conflict.

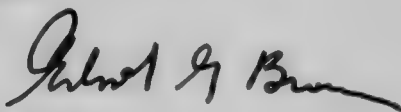

The crucifixion and resurrection of our Savior, Jesus Christ, give us courage and comfort. It tells us of the triumph of life over death and of the certainty of peace to follow storm.

Once again, it is a message to renew faith and restore strength for all mankind.

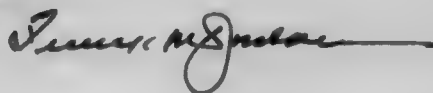

Now, therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 31, 1961, GOOD FRIDAY, throughout our State.

I urge all citizens of the Christian faith to observe this day reverently and particularly to devote the three hours between noon and three o'clock to prayer and meditation, dedicated to the principles of brotherly love upon which depend the peace of our spirit and of our world.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, Governor of the State of California, do hereby find that:

1. Such construction will cause a sudden influx of people into the impact area.

In a world clouded with fear and uncertainty, I join with other Californians in a plea for a re-dedication to the principles of Thanksgiving Day as expressed by our Plymouth Colony forefathers 340 years ago.

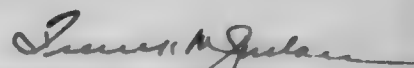

On that day, colonists and Indians joined in thanksgiving and celebration of God's gifts. There was an end to the fighting; there was peace and freedom and charity in the hearts of men.

In recognition of those American ideals of thanksgiving on which this nation was founded, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 23, 1961, as THANKSGIVING DAY in California.

PROCLAMATION

The study of history is more than the study of the past. What has gone before in the life of a nation and in the lives of a people shapes the present and the future.

Past failures are the roots of present problems. Previous successes and the willingness of present generations to stand for their true dimensions are shared and understood clearly only within the context of history.

As we gather ourselves to meet the massive challenges of tyranny today, all of us must know and recognize those great sources of national strength which will enable us to withstand this test.

The more fully we understand and appreciate our history and heritage the more we will be able to draw on them to preserve our inherited freedoms and to pursue a dynamic, progressive future.

In recognition of that fact, the Legislature has declared that each year the month of February be designated as American History Month in California.

WHEREFORE, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February, 1962, American History Month in our State, and ask all my fellow citizens, our schools, patriotic groups and civic organizations to join in undertaking and participating in such activities as will promote public understanding of our rich heritage and thereby strengthen our democratic way of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of January, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-two.

California's trees, in their variety and beauty, are a source of pride to the people of this State and one of the many aspects of natural beauty which have brought fame to California.

Californians know that it is not enough to rely on nature to protect and increase our stands of beautiful trees in the face of progress and growth. They know that for every giant Redwood, handsome Oak or stately pine removed to make room for a highway or an expanding city, another tree must be planted and nurtured.

To further this effort, and as a tribute to our great horticulturist, Luther Burbank, the Legislature has declared that March 7 annually be proclaimed ARBOR DAY.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 7, 1962, as ARBOR DAY in this State.

The trees of California are the crowning touches of beauty which Nature has laid on our bright lands. From the aged Redwood to the young saplings, from the dense forest and our water sources and offer solace and inspiration to our people.

Every year the results of growth and progress remove numbers of trees from the land. As custodians of California's great inheritance of natural beauty, we are bound to replace that loss and provide for the continuing beauty of our State.

To that purpose, the Legislature has declared that each year the period from February 12, the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, to February 22, the birthday of George Washington, be proclaimed Tree Planting Time in California. During this period, the people of California, individually and through their educational, political, civic, fraternal and other organizations, are urged to participate in planting trees to the benefit of the State and as perpetual memorials to those two great Americans.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period from February 12 to February 22, 1933, TREE PLANTING TIME in California.

The greatness of California, its vast accomplishments and contributions to American life, are not solely the results of good fortune and the blessings of nature.

The greatest single force in propelling California to its present stature is the dedication and hard work of the people of our State. In that great effort of building and refinement, the Californians who are now our older citizens have had a large and significant part.

It is their due to share in the abundance and the progress which they helped to create and to continue contributing to the forward movement of California.

The elders of our community are enjoying the blessings of longer life and better health through the advances of science. Thus, the years are lengthened in which they can share with us the fruits of their age: wisdom and experience.

In the face of this increased life span, our rapidly advancing technology is shortening the average working life of the Californian and lessening the toil required to earn a living.

This development means earlier retirement for our elder citizens. It also can mean causing them increased difficulty in achieving the physical necessities for enjoying that retirement and increased isolation from active participation in the life of the community, an isolation harmful both to the individual elder citizen and to his community.

California has been a leader among the states in efforts to assure our retired citizens continued benefits from our increasing prosperity and opportunities for continued involvement in the affairs of our State.

PROCLAMATION

To sustain and reinforce these achievements, California must continue to plan and work through private citizens, local governments and state government.

In recognition of this need, and in the hope that each citizen will rededicate himself to this vital aim, I hereby proclaim the month of May as Senior Citizens Month and urge all citizens to join in its observance.

PROCLAMATION

Almost since man first fashioned words to communicate, he has expressed himself in poetry.

If man has used prose more than poetry through the centuries, it is probably because prose is more the language man uses to express himself in his daily affairs. For poetry, man must choose and fit his words into a form which calls for the greatest artistry, and this requires much contemplation.

To emphasize the place of poetry among our arts, and to encourage the people of California to recognize it, I proclaim October 15 as Poetry Day, as provided by a resolution enacted by the State Legislature.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I

THOMAS M. JORDAN, Secretary of State

By Robert C. Stecher
Assistant Secretary of State

California has become the most populous of the 50 states in our union.

It is fitting that we, the people of California, commemorate this historic event with full celebration tempered by serious reflection upon our responsibilities as citizens of the leading state; by dutiful thanks for the blessings of God; and by full appreciation of the dedication, hard work, and foresight of the men and women who built our great state to its present rank.

It is fitting, too, and proper that we recognize the many areas of cultural, social, and economic life in which California is the leading state, for without these achievements, size alone would not be fitting cause for celebration and commemoration.

For these reasons, and to these ends, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, Governor of the State of California, declare that as a part of the four-day California First observance from December 29, 1962, through January 1, 1963, Monday, December 31, 1962, will be a state holiday consistent with Section 6700(n) of the Government Code, and call upon all classes of business and all classes of citizens to join in the observance of this holiday.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of December, 1962.

In studying the history of our country, we study not only the past but also the present and the future which are largely influenced by the past.

Thus, the study of history casts light upon the challenges which we face today in our state and our nation and upon the challenges which the future holds for us and our civilization.

The more fully we understand and appreciate our history and heritage, the more we will be prepared to draw on them to preserve our inherited freedoms and to pursue our course to the future with vigor and purpose.

In recognition of these values, the Legislature has declared that each year the month of February be designated as American History Month in California.

THEREFORE, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February, 1963, American History Month in our State, and ask all my fellow citizens, our schools, patriotic groups and civic organizations to join in undertaking and participating in such activities as will promote public understanding of our rich heritage and thereby strengthen our democratic way of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of January, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-three.

The trees of California are the crowning touches of beauty which Nature has laid on our bright lands. From the aged Redwood to the imported Eucalyptus, trees protect our land and our water sources and offer solace and inspiration to our people.

Every year the results of growth and progress remove numbers of trees from the land. As custodians of California's great inheritance of natural beauty, we are bound to replace that loss and provide for the continuing beauty of our state.

To that purpose, the Legislature has declared that each year the period from February 12, the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, to February 22, the birthdate of George Washington, be proclaimed Tree Planting Time in California. During this period, the people of California, individually and through their educational, political, civic, fraternal and other organizations, are urged to participate in planting trees to the benefit of the State and as perpetual memorials to those two great Americans.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period from February 12 to 22 as TREE PLANTING TIME in California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 11th day of February, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-three.

The trees of California have brought comfort and pride to the people in our land since the first days of discovery.

The giant Redwoods, the handsome Oaks and the stately Pines are carried in the minds of all our visitors.

It is not enough for Californians to rely on these trees provided for us by Nature. As our cities spread and our highway system grows we must take positive steps to plant new trees to assure that their verdant beauty will always be a part of the California scene.

To further this effort, and as a tribute to our great naturalist, Luther Burbank, the Legislature in 1947 declared that March 7 annually should be proclaimed ARBOR DAY.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 7, 1963, as ARBOR DAY in this state.

Twenty one years ago on April 9th, in one of the darkest defeats of the second World War, 75,000 Filipino and American soldiers wrote a brilliant chapter in the long history of man's bravery and courage.

On that day the beleaguered garrison at Bataan surrendered and the infamous Death March began. Today, two decades later, what was then received by the Allied forces as a crushing military defeat is remembered with pride as the beginning of a great and significant victory.

Even more important, it is, and should continue to be, remembered as an example of courage and endurance by men prepared to die in the defense of freedom, an example which we who are involved in a different struggle must bear in our hearts and minds if we are to prevail.

THEREFORE, In memory of the Filipinos and Americans who fell at Bataan and in a spirit of rededication to their example of courage and commitment, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim that April 9, 1963 be observed as Bataan Day in California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 20th day of March, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-three.

Once more, at a time when the earth and the life upon it are renewed after the rigors of winter, Holy Week comes to the Christian world.

It means the renewal of hope and strength in man after a long season of doubt and hardship. It offers a rebirth of belief in the dignity of man and the value of life to a world in which the continuing threat of devastation debases those beliefs.

Now, therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 12, 1963, GOOD FRIDAY, throughout our state and call upon all citizens of the Christian faith to observe this day with reverence.

The serious problem presented by the alarming increase of highway fatalities in California is one which can be solved only through active cooperation among government, industry, organizations and individuals.

Those organizations which make the reduction of the death toll their business perform a public service of the highest order.

The California Licensed Vocational Nurses' Association is such an organization. It has planned a traffic safety program during the week of June 24-29 just prior to the dangerous July Fourth weekend.

In appreciation and recognition of their public service, the Senate of the State of California has proclaimed the week of June 24-29 Traffic Safety Week and requested a similar proclamation from the Governor.

NOW THEREFORE, I hereby proclaim the week of June 24-29 Traffic Safety Week in California and call upon my fellow citizens to observe this week through special attention to their part in promoting highway safety.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 14th day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty Three.

Pursuant to Chapter 1.5 of Division 1 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and in order to provide for the continued operation of the State plans for Aid to the Aged, the Needy Blind, Needy Children and Needy Disabled under the provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code, I do hereby find as facts:

That assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs is provided for by the Federal Social Security Act; and

That this State has qualified to receive Federal assistance for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs and has not been notified that further payment of such Federal assistance will not be made because of failure of this State to comply with the requirements of the Federal legislation; and

That Federal assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs for the month of July, 1963 has not been received, and it is improbable that such Federal assistance will be received by this State prior to the usual time for transmitting such Federal assistance to the counties of this State.

In consideration of the above findings, I do hereby proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency and declare that the sum estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare in the amount of Federal assistance payable to this State under Federal law for the month of July, 1963 and appropriated by Section 145.3 of the Welfare and Institutions Code are available for expenditure.

You are, therefore, authorized and directed to do all things necessary to accomplish the intent and purpose of said Chapter 1.5 of Division 1 of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

The Honorable Edmund G. Brown

Sacramento 14, California

Dear Governor Brown:

I have been informed by the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare that it is not probable federal funds to finance payments of Old Age Security, Aid to Needy Blind, Aid to Needy Children, and Aid to Needy Disabled for the month of July, 1963 will reach this State before July 1.

In order that the county treasuries may contain sufficient funds to issue warrants to recipients at the time required by statute, it is necessary for the State Controller to remit state and federal funds no later than June 27. Sections 145 et seq. of the Welfare and Institutions Code authorize a loan from the General Fund whenever you proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency. Upon the issuance of your proclamation the State Controller will transfer the necessary funds from the General Fund to the Social Welfare Federal Fund and will issue his warrants to the counties against the latter fund.

The funds to be loaned pursuant to your proclamation amount to the following:

Old Age Security	$11,191,718.70
Aid to Needy Blind	480,569.46
Aid to Needy Children	6,498,899.09
Aid to Needy Disabled	1,492,413.28
Total	$19,663,600.53

These funds represent the federal share of anticipated aid payments for approximately 261,600 needy aged, 12,100 needy blind, 254,000 needy children and 33,200 disabled persons. Immediately upon receipt of federal funds the loan will be repaid to the General Fund.

Your execution of the attached proclamation is respectfully requested.

California, enriched in history and heritage, blessed by a benevolent Nature in the wealth of her resources, and mindful of the prominence her citizens have consistently brought her through enterprise, is proud to be the FIRST state in the nation in population, agriculture, aerospace development, military industry, education, recreation and in other fields of human endeavor.

In this year of the 110th annual State Fair and Exposition, Californians will number nearly 18 million, all keenly aware of the greatness the state has been fortunate to claim and hopeful of the added greatness that lies in store in the future.

One of the showcases for the past, present and future of these Californians is their State Fair and Exposition which by tradition offers attractions and programs of interest to every segment of the public and which focuses attention on the state's accomplishments and achievements in every field of human effort.

The 110th California State Fair and Exposition, beginning on August 28th and lasting through September 9th has everything to uphold the historic traditions and, therefore, is of paramount interest to all citizens and visitors in the state. Of special interest and specific significance is "California First" day on September 9, Admission Day, when representatives of the state's leading industries will be honored in ceremonies to which national visitors are invited, including first the Honorable President of the United States, and the Honorable Governors of the other 49 existing states.

Now, therefore, I, Glenn M. Anderson, Lieutenant Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 9th as a special day in California to be recognized this year on Admission Day additionally as "California First Day", and I do hereby urge everyone to attend the State Fair and Exposition and familiarize themselves with the state's wealth and resources exhibited and displayed.

PROCLAMATION

The year 1963 marks the hundredth anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation signed by Abraham Lincoln to prevent this nation from being half slave and half free.

Today, in spite of that historic document, one-tenth of the nation's population is still effectively enslaved by the perpetuation of age-old practices of racial segregation and discrimination.

The effect of these practices is that many Negroes and other minorities are economically deprived, poorly housed, inadequately educated, disenfranchised, and denied equal access to public accommodations.

These shameful conditions have demoralized the spirits of the Negro minority and troubled the conscience of the Caucasian majority so that members of both groups are unified in their demands for a new birth of freedom.

The rising demands for "de facto" equality are symbolized by President Kennedy's far-reaching civil rights program which is now awaiting congressional action.

To dramatize the need for such legislation, civil rights, religious, fraternal, labor, and youth organizations from across the nation have joined together in organizing a peaceable march on Washington on August 28.

Now, therefore, in recognition of the great cause for which the march on Washington is being planned, I, Glenn M. Anderson, Lieutenant Governor of California, do hereby proclaim August 28 as "Freedom Day," and urge all Californians to lend their spiritual support to the mission of those making personal sacrifices to travel to our nation's capital in order that all Americans may live as free men in our time.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
GOVERNOR'S CODE OF FAIR PRACTICES

This nation and state were founded on the principle that all men are created free and endowed with equal rights to secure the blessings of democracy without discrimination.

To carry out the clear mandate of our Federal and State Constitutions, the Legislature has enacted laws to prohibit discrimination in employment, housing, schools, and places of business. These laws, enunciating the State's public policy of nondiscrimination, have been supported by executive action and upheld by judicial decree.

But the laws, court edicts, and official pronouncements are only a beginning. If discrimination and segregation have been legally forbidden, a more subtle, but equally restrictive, de facto discrimination exists and grows. Justice demands that we not only banish old forms of discrimination but that we act affirmatively to assure those who contribute fully to our society a chance to share fully in its rewards.

To meet the obligation of the State and under the authority vested in me by the Constitution, I hereby proclaim the following Code of Fair Practices to be the official policy of the Executive Branch of the State of California.

ARTICLE I DECLARATION OF POLICY

Nondiscrimination is the policy of the State of California in all of its activities. Employees shall not only rigorously enforce that policy; they shall also take affirmative action to assure equality of opportunity in the internal affairs of state government and in its relations with the general public.

ARTICLE II EMPLOYMENT POLICIES OF STATE AGENCIES

State officials and supervisory employees shall appoint, assign, train, evaluate, and promote state personnel on the basis of merit and fitness, without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry. All state agencies shall promulgate clear, written directives to carry out this policy and to guarantee equal employment opportunities at all levels of state government. They shall regularly review their personnel practices to assure compliance. Where existing staffing patterns suggest something less than complete adherence, they shall determine the causes and, if necessary, initiate special recruitment programs to correct the situation. They shall conduct continuing orientation and training programs with emphasis on human relations and fair employment practices. The State Personnel Board shall take positive steps to insure that the entire examination process, including the qualifications appraisal panel, is free from either conscious or inadvertent bias.

ARTICLE III STATE SERVICES AND FACILITIES

All services of every state agency shall be performed without discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry. No state facility shall be used in furtherance of any discriminatory practice, nor shall any state agency become a party to any agreement, arrangement, or plan which has the effect of sanctioning such practices. Each state agency shall critically analyze all of its operations to ascertain possible instances of noncompliance with this policy, and shall instigate sustained, comprehensive programs to remedy any defects found to exist.

ARTICLE IV STATE CONTRACTS AND SUBCONTRACTS

Every state contract and subcontract for public works or for goods or services shall contain a clause prohibiting discriminatory employment practices by contractors and subcontractors based on race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry. The nondiscrimination clause shall include a provision requiring state contractors and subcontractors to give written notice of their commitments under this clause to any labor union with which they have a collective bargaining or other agreement. Such contractual provisions shall be fully and effectively enforced, and any breach of them shall be regarded as a material breach of the contract. As part of its annual report each state agency shall submit to the Governor certification of compliance with these provisions by all contractors and subcontractors.

ARTICLE V STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICES

All state agencies, including educational institutions, which provide employment referral or placement services to public or private employers shall accept job orders only on a nondiscriminatory basis. They shall refuse to fill any job order designed to exclude any member of a minority group because of race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry. They shall advise the Fair Employment Practice Commission of employers or unions known to persist in restrictive hiring practices. They shall assist employers and unions seeking to broaden their recruitment programs to include qualified applicants of various racial, religious, and ethnic backgrounds. In addition, the Department of Employment shall fully utilize its knowledge of the labor market, and contacts with job applicants, employers, and unions for promotion of equal employment opportunities.

ARTICLE VI STATE FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICE COMMISSION

All state agencies shall cooperate fully with the Fair Employment Practice Commission. They shall comply with its requests for information concerning practices inconsistent with the state policy of nondiscrimination, and they shall follow its recommendations for giving effect to that policy. In addition to discharging its enforcement duties, the Commission shall place emphasis on programs of affirmative action in the field of human rights.

ARTICLE VII STATE EDUCATION, COUNSELING, AND TRAINING PROGRAMS

All educational, counseling, and vocational guidance programs and all apprenticeship and on-the-job training programs of state agencies, or in which state agencies participate, shall be open to all qualified persons, without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry. Such programs shall be conducted to encourage the fullest development of the interests, aptitudes, skills, and capacities of all students and trainees, with special attention to the problems of culturally deprived, educationally handicapped, or economically disadvantaged persons. Expansion of training opportunities under these programs shall also be encouraged with a view toward involving larger numbers of participants from those segments of the labor force where the need for upgrading levels of skill is greatest.

ARTICLE VIII PRIVATE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

All private educational institutions licensed or chartered by the State, including professional, business, and vocational training schools, shall be required to show compliance with the state policy of nondiscrimination in their student admissions and other practices as a condition of continued participation in any state program or eligibility to receive any form of state assistance.

State of California

ARTICLE IX STATE LICENSING AND REGULATORY AGENCIES

State agencies shall not consider race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry in granting, denying or revoking a license or charter; nor shall any person, corporation, or business firm which is licensed or regulated by the State discriminate against or segregate any person on such grounds. All businesses licensed or regulated by the State shall operate on a nondiscriminatory basis, according equal treatment and access to their services to all persons. Any licensee or charter holder who fails to comply with this policy shall be subject to such disciplinary action as is consistent with the legal authority and rules and regulations of the appropriate licensing or regulatory agency.

ARTICLE X HOUSING ACCOMMODATIONS

No person, corporation, or firm which is licensed or chartered by the State to engage in the business of selling, leasing, renting, financing, building, or developing housing accommodations shall discriminate against any prospective buyer, lessee, or tenant because of race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry; nor shall any licensee or charter holder seek to promote the sale or lease of any residential property on the ground that a person of minority racial, religious, or ethnic background has established or will establish residence in the neighborhood. Any real estate broker or salesman, corporate owner, lending institution, homebuilder, or developer who fails to comply with this policy shall be subject to such disciplinary action as is consistent with the legal authority and rules and regulations of the appropriate licensing or regulatory agency.

ARTICLE XI PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Through its policy declarations and staff services, the State Board of Education shall assist local school districts in eliminating racial imbalances and de facto segregation in the State's public schools. The Board shall also pursue its programs of promoting fair employment practices for certificated teachers and approving textbooks which realistically portray the contributions of minority groups to the history and culture of this state and nation.

ARTICLE XII STATE FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry shall not be considered in state-administered programs involving the distribution of funds to qualified recipients for benefits authorized by law; nor shall state agencies provide grants, loans, or other financial assistance to public agencies, private institutions or organizations which engage in discriminatory practices.

ARTICLE XIII LAW ENFORCEMENT

Through the Attorney General's Office, the State shall encourage local law enforcement agencies to develop special training programs in the field of human relations, to establish formal procedures for the investigation of citizen complaints of alleged abuses of authority by individual peace officers, and to promote mutual understanding and respect for the law enforcement officer's duty to maintain the peace and the citizen's right to protection of his constitutional guarantees.

ARTICLE XIV ANNUAL REPORTS

Each state agency shall report annually to the Governor, between December 15 and January 1, all programs undertaken during the past year to effect this Code of Fair Practices. The report shall cover both internal activities and external relations with the public and with other state agencies.

hereunto set my hand and

In the year 1520, a Portuguese-born navigator and explorer, Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, accompanied Panfilo de Narvaez to Mexico and began the long series of brilliant adventures which were to write his name large in the annals of the discovery of the New World.

Cabrillo joined Hernando Cortes in the capture of Mexico City and was with Francisco Orozco's expedition to Oaxaca. Later, he assisted in the conquest of Guatemala.

Climaxing these adventures, Cabrillo sailed from Navidad on Mexico's west coast on June 27, 1542, and cruised northward along the Pacific Coast of Baja California. Three months later, on September 28, Cabrillo discovered San Diego Bay.

From there he sailed northward and opened the knowledge of the Old World to the remainder of the Pacific Coast of the New World as far north as Point Reyes.

Cabrillo's voyage up the California Coast was the opening chapter in the long and great history which is California's and, is therefore, of great significance and interest to California and Californians.

In accordance with legislative mandate, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 28, 1963, Cabrillo Day in California, and do hereby call upon my fellow citizens to join in the observance of this anniversary.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 23rd Day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-Three.

One hundred years ago--on November 19, 1863--Abraham Lincoln spoke those immortal words which so simply and movingly stated the purpose of the American people and its government.

In dedicating the national cemetery at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, he warned that the nation must resolve that "these dead shall not have died in vain".

And he pledged, in those words that still ring with truth, "that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth".

In many parts of the country today some of our people are still struggling for that "new birth of freedom" and for the democratic promise of equality in our Constitution and Declaration of Independence.

On this anniversary of Lincoln's great declaration, we have the opportunity to rededicate ourselves to the principles of freedom and equality which the Union fought for 100 years ago. It is a time to remind our children, our friends and ourselves of the American heritage of freedom and its dynamic application in our democratic society.

We cannot take that heritage for granted. Freedom is a fragile thing. If we deny its benefits to some, we threaten all with its loss. It cannot be applied unevenly, on the basis of color, race, religion or national origin. Nor can it be turned on and off at the whims of individuals, no matter what their rank or power. To protect freedom is the task of every American and it is this task which Abraham Lincoln handed down to us in his Gettysburg Address.

Accepting that task and to achieve its objectives, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of the State of California, do hereby officially proclaim and declare as follows:

1. The week beginning November 17, 1963, is designated as Gettysburg Centennial Week and should receive attention and recognition in the schools, homes, and public assemblages in the State of California for all purposes.
2. Tuesday, November 19, 1963, is designated as Gettysburg Address Centennial Day and should be the occasion of special recognition throughout the length and breadth of California among all of our citizens and residents.

Poetry is not an ornamentation on life. It is a vital part of it. All honest poetry, though it has myriad forms, has a single hallmark: the power to impress upon man a keen awareness of the reality of himself, his world and his society.

Where self, world and society are strong or beautiful, the poet calls this to attention. Where they are weak or ugly, he frees us from often self-imposed blinders and forces us to look at our responsibility to strengthen and beautify.

Because poetry awakens man to the reality of life and makes him see it whole, it is a support and a spur to man and civilization. And for these reasons, it is an essential ingredient of the life of a civilized man and a civilized society.

Now therefore, I proclaim October 15 as Poetry Day, as provided by a resolution enacted by the State Legislature.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I
have hereunto set my

Seal of the State of

PROCLAMATION

The United States is a big country. It is big in size and big in spirit. And it is varied.

No two of its states are alike. No two of its cities are the same. And its people are 180 million different individuals.

The sum of the differences in land, climate, scenery and environment is the physical grandeur of our country.

Out of the diversities of our people we have woven a society of scope and strength to match that grandeur.

The fabric of our society has been enriched and made stronger by the contributions of millions of Americans born in foreign countries, from the days of our foreign-born founding fathers right down to the present.

In recognition of these contributions, the Assembly of the State of California has designated October 28 to be Appreciation of the Foreign Born Day.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do officially proclaim October 28 to be Appreciation of the Foreign Born Day in California.

Assistant Secretary of State

During three days in February, the President of Mexico and the United States will be together in the State of California for a meeting of historic importance.

Their visit will mark the first time in history that the head of the Mexican state has come to California. We in California are honored by the forthcoming visit of President Lopez-Mateos.

This meeting of President Johnson and President Lopez-Mateos comes at a time when there is a rising sense of expectancy and hope among the peoples of the Americas about the future of our hemisphere; expectancy that the vast natural riches of this half of the globe can at last be harnessed to the benefit of all the men who dwell within it; hope that the democratic revolution which began nearly two hundred years ago in one small corner of the hemisphere will spread rapidly and peacefully throughout.

As that hope and expectancy stir from Canada to Argentina, the Presidents of two great members of the American family of nations meet in neighborly fashion to discuss issues vital to the peaceful development of the hemisphere.

As a reflection of that spirit of neighborliness, I deem it proper that the people of California observe the week in which these talks go forward as Good Neighbor Week.

Therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do officially proclaim the week of February 20 to be Good Neighbor Week.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th Day of January, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-Four.

This February we observe American History Month looking back once more on the great events which built this nation.

It is good that we do this, for an understanding of history is at once our greatest strength and greatest security. It provides us with knowledge for making wise decisions about the future; it is a guide to understanding the importance of protecting and cherishing our basic liberties and freedoms.

History tells us that those liberties are only as secure as our own vigilance in maintaining them and extending them to all. Today, many Americans in the South and in the North are denied the basic liberties guaranteed to all under the Constitution. The struggle of the Negro for his constitutional rights should remind us of the historical roots of all our freedoms. Let us remember the dark days of early man when serfdom, slavery and oppression were the bitter daily bread for most men. Let us remember our own revolution and the wars still being fought in the name of liberty. History will remind us, too, that freedom is a fragile thing, easily lost when tyranny in any guise is not rejected and repulsed.

In recognition of the importance of history, the Legislature has declared that each year the month of February be designated as American History Month in California.

THEREFORE, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February, 1964, American History Month in our state, and ask all my fellow citizens, our schools, patriotic groups and civic organizations to join in undertaking and participating in such activities as will promote public understanding of our rich heritage and thereby strengthen our democratic way of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed hereto this 5th day of February, 1964.

1. That conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property and to the maintenance of essential services have arisen and now exist in the County of Humboldt, State of California, as a result of damages caused by abnormally heavy and continuous rainfall which started on January 18, 1964;

2. That the Governor has been requested to proclaim a State of Disaster therein by the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Humboldt;

3. That the local authority in the affected area is inadequate to cope with the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril by reason of their magnitude, which places them beyond the control of the services, personnel, equipment and facilities within the County of Humboldt and requires the combined forces of a mutual aid region or regions to combat;

4. That the aforesaid conditions of extreme peril warrant and necessitate the proclamation of the existence of a State of Disaster;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State, do hereby proclaim that a State of Disaster does exist, and has existed since January 18, 1964, in the County of Humboldt;

One of man's deepest and best instincts is to enhance the beauty of his home by planting trees and bushes. Such landscaping can remind man of his deep connection with and commitment to nature. It can make his urban existence more pleasurable for himself and his neighbors. It is this instinct which, each year, is commemorated on Arbor Day.

Because of the great benefits, both spiritual and esthetic, which result from the planting of trees, it has become traditional on Arbor Day to encourage people to plant trees on their property. This is a tradition which I, as Governor, participate in wholeheartedly and with equal pleasure, I ask all Californians to be sure on Arbor Day and throughout the year that when they plant trees on their property they give great care to the right tree for the right place.

Each year, countless damage is done to various public utilities by the growth of trees which have been planted in the wrong place. More important, a tree which is not planted in the right place cannot develop its maximum beauty and usefulness to its owner. Therefore, I ask my fellow Californians to make the slogan of this 1964 Arbor Day celebration "plant the right tree in the right place."

Now, therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do officially proclaim March 7 to be Arbor Day in California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of February, A.D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-four.

Once again, we observe a solemn moment of history, a bitter day of defeat for Americans and Filipinos, but a day which will be remembered as an epic of courage and the beginning of a long, new struggle for freedom.

For the soldiers who surrendered at Bataan on April 9, 1944, there began a horror of cruelty and death--the infamous Death March. For America and the Free World, it was a moment of realization that the struggle for freedom and democracy was hardly begun and would be a long, costly fight against heavy odds.

Today we can look back on Bataan Day as a lesson for the future, a lesson in the need to keep our nation and the free nations of the world strong and independent. Let us hold up to our children and nation the magnificent struggle of Americans and Filipinos side by side at Bataan 22 years ago as a symbol of man's courage and desire to keep free.

THEREFORE, in memory of the Filipinos and Americans who fell at Bataan and in a spirit of rededication to their example of courage and commitment, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim that April 9, 1964, be observed as Bataan Day in California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have

PROCLAMATION

On the 74th anniversary of the founding of the Organization of American States, the President of the United States has proclaimed April 14, 1964, as Pan American Day and the week April 12-18 as Pan American Week.

This anniversary comes at a time when the people of the Americas are becoming increasingly aware of the common destiny and common goals which underlie relations among the American Nations.

Those goals are the creation of just and free societies in which American man is free to develop to his fullest potential the spiritual, intellectual and cultural drives bequeathed us by the Western Civilization to which we are common heirs.

That destiny is to achieve those goals as individual nations working in cooperation and at peace and, thereby, to serve as an everlasting demonstration of the power of free men and free nations to shape their social and political institutions to their own ends.

In keeping with President Johnson's request that governors of the 50 states issue proclamations calling attention to Pan American Day and Pan American Week, now, therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do officially proclaim April 14 as Pan American Day and the week April 12-18 as Pan American Week.

EDMUND G. BROWN, GOVERNOR

Pursuant to Chapter 1.5 of Division 1 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and in order to provide for the continued operation of the State plans for Aid to the Aged, the Needy Blind, Needy Children and Needy Disabled under the provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code, I do hereby find as facts:

That assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs is provided for by the Federal Social Security Act; and

That this State has qualified to receive Federal assistance for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs and has not been notified that further payment of such Federal assistance will not be made because of failure of this State to comply with the requirements of the Federal legislation; and

That Federal assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs for the month of June, 1964 has not been received, and it is improbable that such Federal assistance will be received by this State prior to the usual time for transmitting such Federal assistance to the counties of this State.

In consideration of the above findings, I do hereby proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency and declare that the sum estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare in the amount of Federal assistance payable to this State under Federal law for the month of June, 1964 and appropriated by Section 145.3 of the Welfare and Institutions Code are available for expenditure.

You are, therefore, authorized and directed to do all things necessary to accomplish the intent and purpose of said Chapter 1.5 of Division 1 of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

P R O C L A M A T I O N

In 1964, Californians have turned with the world to honor the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare, who wove endless richness and beauty from the English language.

In tribute to the world's premier poet, let us turn to "Midsummer Night's Dream" for his own words of how poets work:

"The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven;
And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name."

Before Shakespeare, from time's beginning, man has turned to poetry to extend the expression of his feelings beyond the limits of prose. Poets will ever "glance from heaven to earth" for the enrichment of man's culture.

Now, therefore, I proclaim October 15 as Poetry Day, as provided by a resolution adopted by the Legislature of the State of California, and urge commemoration of this day 400 years after William Shakespeare.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I
have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this first day

Assistant Secretary of State

From the beginning of our American history we have been strengthened in our democracy by the great contributions of men and women who came here from foreign shores.

These people have come from all lands and most of them are now so woven into the fabric of our nation that they are as American as the others whose forebears include more generations of the native-born. This welcoming of all peoples to our land and their absorption into our society has been one of the major ingredients of our success.

Upon occasion it has not been easy for citizens from all lands to live together, even in the United States of America. Indeed, we are now occupied with problems of the further integration of our citizens that give cause for grave concern. We know, however, that even as we suffer the trials of this process that we will succeed, just as we have succeeded with the integration of other peoples in our past. We can therefore mark any temporary failures with past successes. We must persevere, with the knowledge that once again, if we keep the principles of American democracy in our heart, we will once more succeed.

As Governor of California, I therefore proclaim October 28 as Foreign Born Day; and I urge all our citizens to give new acknowledgement to the accomplishments of peoples who have come here from all lands.

DECLARATION OF EMERGENCY

December 25, 1964

WHEREAS, recent storms and excessive rainfall throughout the northern part of the State of California have resulted in and directly caused a situation of extraordinary stress and of disaster in said area of the State which threatens loss of and damage to property, public and private, including, more particularly, the destruction of and serious damage to levees and other vital flood control, irrigation and water conservation works and structures owned both by the State and local governmental agencies in said area of the State, creating an imminent danger to the lives, health and well-being of persons in this State, to the safety of public and private property and the maintenance of essential services, and giving rise to an emergency which is a matter of general public and State concern, requiring work and remedial measures to protect the health, safety, convenience and welfare of the general public of the State.

NOW, THEREFORE, pursuant to authority of law, and in particular Section 128 of the Water Code, I hereby find and declare that the aforesaid recited matters are true and that an emergency due to storms and floods exists throughout Northern California northerly from approximately the latitude of Modesto to the border of the State of Oregon; that said emergency is a matter affecting the waters and dams of the State and is of general public and State concern; that work and remedial measures are required to immediately avert, alleviate, repair or restore damage or destruction to property having a general public and State interest and to protect the health, safety, and convenience and welfare of the general public of the State.

December 25, 1964

Honorable Edmund G. Brown
Governor of California
State Capitol
Sacramento, California

Dear Governor Brown:

Pursuant to Section 128 of the California Water Code, there is transmitted herewith a Declaration of Emergency, which declares the existence of an emergency in Northern California.

The emergency was brought on by excessive rains and snow melt run-off, resulting in flood conditions along numerous streams in Northern California. The emergency requires expenditures of funds for work and remedial measures over and above the normal flood control functions of the Department, such as overtime pay for operating on a 24-hour basis, use of Department employees not normally assigned to flood control operations, the hiring of additional outside labor, the purchase of additional materials and equipment for emergency work, and work done through or in cooperation with any other State Department or Agency, the Federal Government, or political subdivision, City, or District. It is not possible at this time to estimate what these emergency expenditures will be.

It is recommended, and respectively requested that funds to cover these emergency expenditures be allocated to the Department from funds available under Item 446.8 of the Budget Act of 1958.

Sincerely Yours,

William E. Warne

THE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE CODE

WHEREAS, Section 2604 of the Unemployment Insurance Code provides that whenever the Director of Employment believes that a change in contributions rate or disability benefit amounts may become necessary to protect the solvency of the Unemployment Compensation Disability Fund, he shall at once inform the Governor and the Legislature thereof and make recommendations accordingly, and

WHEREAS, the Director of Employment acting under said Section 2604 by identical letters dated December 23, 1964, to Edmund G. Brown, Governor, Senator Hugh M. Burns, President Pro Tempore, and Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh, Speaker, has informed the Governor and the Legislature that a change in contributions rate or disability benefit amounts is necessary by April 1, 1965, to protect the solvency of the said Disability Fund, and has recommended the enactment of corrective legislation on an urgency basis, and

WHEREAS, Assemblyman George N. Zenovich introduced Assembly Bill No. 241 on an urgency basis to become operative on April 1, 1965, which provides an increase of revenue to the said Disability Fund that would eliminate the present deficit cash position, brings revenue into balance with disbursements, and provides a small cash reserve to avoid future borrowing, but the 1965 Regular Session of the Legislature has not yet enacted Assembly Bill No. 241 or any other corrective legislation to protect the solvency of the said Disability Fund, and

WHEREAS, I find with respect to the Disability Fund that:

1. Over the past three years the income to the Disability Fund has been substantially less than the amount paid out in benefits and administrative costs, and
2. Under the authority of Section 3007 of the Unemployment Insurance Code the Disability Fund has borrowed and repaid the following sums of money:
  - (a) $1,000,000 in 1964.
  - (b) $7,000,000 in 1965, and
3. Under the authority of said Section 3007 in March, 1965, as of the 23d of the month, the Disability Fund has borrowed $15,000,000. This sum has not been repaid, and
4. Based on estimates of the Department of Employment, in order that the Disability Fund may continue the payment of benefits through April, 1965, the Disability Fund will have to continue to borrow money under said Section 3007 after March 23, and by April 23, 1965, the Disability Fund will have a cash deficit of about $30,000,000, and
5. Based on estimates of the Department of Employment, the Disability Fund, in 1965, will have to continue to borrow money in every month from May through December, and the Disability Fund will have a month-end cash deficit in every month except May and August, and

6. Based on estimates of the Department of Employment, the year 1965 will close with a cash deficit in the Disability Fund of approximately $22,000,000, and

WHEREAS, because the borrowing authority permitted under Section 3007 terminates on December 31, 1965, action to make the Disability Fund solvent by that date is imperative, and

WHEREAS, if action to reduce disbursements from the Disability Fund and thus to eliminate the cash deficit as of December 31, 1965, is taken immediately, such action can be less drastic than if it is delayed because:

1. Immediate action would limit a reduction of benefit disbursements to approximately 13%, if action were delayed until July 1, approximately a 20% reduction would be required, and approximately a 40% reduction would be required if action were delayed until October 1, and
2. Borrowing under Section 3007 of the Unemployment Insurance Code subjects the Disability Fund to interest payments, thus reducing the amount of money available in the Disability Fund for benefit payments, and

WHEREAS, Section 2604 of the Unemployment Insurance Code provides that if the Director of Employment has informed the Governor and the Legislature that he believes that a change in contributions rate or disability benefit amounts may become necessary to protect the solvency of the Disability Fund

then in such case the Governor may proclaim an emergency and authorize the Director of Employment to announce a modified scale of benefits or increased waiting period, or other changes in regulations regarding the eligibility for payment of benefits which the Director of Employment may deem necessary to assure the solvency of the said Disability Fund, such modified regulations to be in effect until the Governor proclaims the emergency at an end or until further action is taken by the Legislature,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by Section 2604 of the Unemployment Insurance Code do hereby proclaim an emergency and authorize the Director of Employment to announce a modified scale of benefits or increased waiting period, or other changes in regulations regarding the eligibility for payment of benefits which the Director of Employment may deem necessary to assure the solvency of the Unemployment Compensation Disability Fund, and I direct that this proclamation shall take effect immediately, and that as soon hereafter as possible this proclamation shall be given wide-spread publicity and notice.

PROCLAMATION

In commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Organization of American States and in recognition of the essential unity of the North and South American communities, the President has proclaimed the week of April 18-24 as "Pan American Week."

With its cultural, economic and social ties to the people of Latin America, California has a special historical and personal interest in this important celebration.

Tens of thousands of Californians were born in countries of South and Central America. Many more are sons and daughters of Latins.

Today, Californians are working side by side with Chileans in the Chile-California Program, an Alliance for Progress project; California Peace Corps volunteers are in many countries of South America; California agricultural and manufactured products flow into Latin countries, and through our great ports is an exchange of products and people which has been going on for many years.

Together, our peoples share the same goals: democracy, freedom for the individual, peace and prosperity. Californians have actively sought and fought for those goals. We have been proud to join other peoples in seeking them. Today we reaffirm them.

In keeping with President Johnson's request that governors of the 50 states issue proclamations calling attention to this international friendship, now, therefore, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do officially proclaim the week of April 18-24 as "Pan American Week."

PROCLAMATION

- WHEREAS On October 15 we observe Poetry Day in California--a day to honor our poets and their work; and
- WHEREAS In man's culture, from the earliest days, the poet has occupied a special place. For the words he has set to the music of the mind have moved men to great things. Through the ages the poet has lifted the hearts of the sad, stirred romance and recorded man's progress in the epic pages of history; and
- WHEREAS Americans will always remember that frosty January 20, 1961, when Robert Frost delivered his memorable and moving poem at the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy. On that day poetry found a new niche in American life; and
- WHEREAS In the tradition John F. Kennedy established four years ago and in commemoration of Poetry Day, 1965, a California poet, educator and legislator, Charles B. Garrigus, has composed a "Sonnet for California" which I am proud to present in this proclamation to the people of California:

Sonnet for California

"What profit is it to a man if, gaining all the world,
He lose the soul which gives it meaning?"
So spoke the best and wisest of us all,
In hopes that we would know life's happiest lot;
But men became enraptured with the treasures of the earth,
And trading peace for pleasure, soon forgot.

This California is a blessed land,
Where every prospect shows its fairest face;
And Beauty boasts where nature's bounteous hand
Has strewn her riches with a lavish grace.
Here a people's faith in learning's power
Has given hope its tools for shaping life.
Great dreams become achievements of the hour,
Reducing time's inheritance of strife.
But all the wealth that farm and factory give Shall mock the man whose dignity is lost;
Then let us measure gain by how men live
And count the righteous cause and not the cost.

Whoever says that justice can't be done
Has lost the faith by which this world is won.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, proclaim October 15 as POETRY DAY.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this seventh day of October, One Thousand Nine Hundred Sixty Five.

P R O C L A M A T I O N

The month of February has become synonymous with the observance of American History Month. Again this year, we turn our attention to the great and glorious past of our country. We do this to gain inspiration and courage to meet the challenges we must face in the years to come.

The liberties and freedoms which are constitutionally guaranteed to American citizens become more meaningful when we study the great struggles our forefathers endured in order to secure the blessings which are ours today. History tells us that the struggle for freedom can never be relaxed, that freedom thrives only under constant vigilance, that freedom is assured when men understand that freedom cannot exist when there is tyranny.

In recognition of the importance of history, the California State Legislature has declared that each year the month of February be designated as American History Month in California.

THEREFORE, I, Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February, 1966, American History Month in our state, and ask my fellow citizens, our schools, civic organizations and patriotic groups to join in undertaking and participating in such activities as will promote public understanding of our rich heritage and thereby strengthen our democratic way of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed hereto this 24th day of January, 1966.

Governor's Code of Ethical Standards.

FILED

In the office of the Secretary of State of the State of California

MAY 20 1966

At 1:15 o'clock P. M.
FRANK B. JORDAN, Secretary of State

By Walter C. Butler
Assistant Secretary of State

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of California, I hereby proclaim the following Code of Ethical Standards to be the official policy of the Executive Department of the State of California applicable to each and every officer and employee thereof.

ARTICLE I

DECLARATION OF POLICY

State officers and employees are responsible to all of the people of the State and not to any favored segment or group. The business and affairs of the State must be conducted in such an impartial manner that all persons understand that no State officer or employee can be influenced by other than proper methods. State officers and employees must avoid all situations where prejudice, bias or opportunity for personal gain could influence their decisions. They must equally avoid circumstances suggesting that favoritism or personal gain is the motivating force in the conduct of State government.

It is the intent of this code to set forth the minimum ethical standards to be followed by all officers and employees of the Executive Department. These standards are intended not only to require officers and employees to avoid activities that might result in using a public office or employment for private gain or the giving of favored treatment to any organization or person, but also to maintain public confidence in the Executive Department by prohibiting activities that might permit opportunity for personal gain or personal preference to influence decisions. The objectives are to maintain an impartial administration of the State government and to maintain public confidence in government.

ARTICLE II

STANDARDS OF ETHICAL CONDUCT

No employment, activity, or enterprise shall be engaged in by any officer or employee of the Executive Department of the State which might result in, or create the appearance of resulting in, any of the following:

Executive Department

State of California

Page 2

1. Using the prestige or influence of a State office or employment for the officer's or employee's private gain or advantage, or the private gain or advantage of another.
2. Using State time, facilities, equipment, or supplies for the officer's or employee's private gain or advantage, or the private gain or advantage of another.
3. Using confidential information acquired by virtue of State employment for the officer's or employee's private gain or advantage, or the private gain or advantage of another.
4. Receiving or accepting money or any other consideration from anyone other than the State for the performance of an act which the officer or employee would be required or expected to render in the regular course or hours of his State employment or as a part of his duties as a State officer or employee.
5. Performance of an act in other than his capacity as a State officer or employee knowing that such act may later be subject, directly or indirectly, to the control, inspection, review, audit or enforcement by such officer or employee or the agency by which he is employed.
6. Receiving or accepting, directly or indirectly, any gift, including money, any service, gratuity, favor, entertainment, hospitality, loan, or any other thing of value, from anyone who is doing or is seeking to do business of any kind with the State or whose activities are regulated or controlled in any way by the State, under circumstances from which it reasonably could be inferred that the gift was intended to influence him in his official duties or was intended as a reward for any official action on his part.

ARTICLE III

APPLICATION

The standards of ethical conduct set forth in Article II hereof shall be made applicable without exception to all officers and employees in the Executive Department of the State of California, whether they are members of the state civil service or are exempt from civil service.

All officers and employees who have been appointed by the Governor shall conform to these standards without further directive. All other officers or employees who serve under a State appointing power shall comply with the incompatibility statements issued by their respective appointing power as provided for in Article IV hereof.

Failure to conform to the standards of ethical conduct so prescribed may lead to removal from office, termination of employment, or other action as the situation may warrant.

ARTICLE IV

INCOMPATIBILITY STATEMENTS

Pursuant to Government Code Section 19251 enacted in 1949, each appointing power determines and states the activities which are considered to be inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with the duties of its officers and employees. These statements are subject to the review and approval of the State Personnel Board.

Each appointing power in the Executive Department of the State is directed to re-examine its existing statement and revise it, if necessary, or adopt a new statement which requires all its officers and employees to comply with the standards of ethical conduct prescribed in Article II hereof. Further, each appointing power is encouraged to add to such standards as may be necessary and make them more specific and definite with reference to its particular activities and functions.

The State Personnel Board, in reviewing and approving these incompatibility statements, is requested to consider the standards of ethical conduct required herein as a guide to its action.

Each appointing power shall advise each of its officers and employees of its incompatibility statement and that the standards of ethical conduct required shall be strictly complied with.

Executive Department

Each appointing power shall submit a written report to the Governor by March 15, 1966, describing in detail the action that it has taken to review, revise and promulgate an incompatibility statement containing the standards of ethical conduct set forth in this code and the extent to which current incompatibility statements now cover these matters.

The State Personnel Board shall submit a report to the Governor by May 15, 1966, summarizing the action that has been taken by all the appointing powers and by the State Personnel Board in this review, revision, and promulgation.

ARTICLE V

ADVISORY OPINIONS AND EXCEPTIONS

A. Appointing Powers

A number of the appointing powers have included in their incompatibility statements provisions requiring officers and employees to advise the appointing power when a situation arises as to which the officer or employee is in doubt as to whether contemplated conduct is prohibited. Advice is given in such situations as to whether the officer or employee may proceed. Further, some appointing powers have issued directives describing general situations in connection with their functions where the possible interest or personal gain of the officer or employee is considered to be of such a minor nature that it will not influence action and therefore is not prohibited. This type of advice and exception is desirable so as not to needlessly restrict State personnel if the permitted activities are such that the officer or employee will not be violating the policy underlying this code as set forth in Article I.

Although the making of numerous exceptions is not encouraged, each appointing power is requested to:

1. Describe in writing situations that commonly arise in the activities or functions of the appointing power in which the appointing power considers that the possible personal interest or gain of an officer or employee is of such a minor nature that it will not violate the policy underlying this code.

Executive Department

2. Designate one or more persons in the department or agency to whom specific questions can be directed and from whom guidance may be sought by its officers and employees when questions arise concerning whether a contemplated activity is prohibited by the standards of ethical conduct required and the policy underlying this code.

All officers and employees should be encouraged to discuss any activities where policy requires further definition with persons designated by the appointing power and to be guided by the advice then given. While such discussions and advice shall be considered as confidential, the appointing power or the Governor may determine that a matter involved has become of such importance that the public interest requires disclosure.

B. Other Officers

The heads of many State departments and agencies and a number of officers of the State are appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the Governor. It is desirable that such officers have an independent body from whom they can seek guidance where questions arise as to whether an activity contemplated by such an officer violates this code and the policy underlying it. The Governor has high regard and confidence in the judgment and discretion of the State Personnel Board which has broad experience and background in governmental activities and believes that the public and State officers share this regard and confidence. Therefore such officers are directed to seek guidance from the State Personnel Board when in doubt as to whether an activity they contemplate is prohibited by this code and the policy underlying it. The Personnel Board shall utilize its good judgment in giving such guidance.

Any inquiry to the Personnel Board on these matters shall be treated by the Personnel Board and the Governor as confidential. Information as to individuals involved will be made available only to the Governor and will not be made public except at the specific direction of the Governor when he deems that a matter has become of such importance that the public interest requires disclosure.

ARTICLE VI

State of California - Summer Neighborhood Youth Corps Project

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of California, I hereby proclaim the following statement regarding the Neighborhood Youth Corps projects to be the official policy of the Executive Department of the State of California.

ARTICLE I

STATEMENT OF INTRODUCTION

The Federal Office of Economic Opportunity and the United States Department of Labor, which administer the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC), have allocated to each California county the funds available for summer youth training programs to begin in June, 1966. Several counties do not have summer NYC projects approved, proposed or planned. The reason for the lack of summer projects in many counties is that the allocation to a particular county is not large enough to justify the time and expense involved in developing such a project; in other counties there are no organizations with sufficient resources to develop the projects.

The summer NYC projects provide valuable opportunities for experience, training and education which must not be lost for our state. California's future is founded upon the development and education of its youth, and every opportunity to aid them must be taken. I believe that the importance of these summer projects and the brief time period remaining create a situation which requires immediate and decisive action.

I propose that the State of California sponsor a summer NYC project using state agencies to furnish training positions for youth in the following counties which do not have such projects:

Butte	Lake	Sutter
Colusa	Napa	Tehama
El Dorado	Nevada	Yolo
Glenn	Placer	Yuba
	Plumas

The purpose of this project is to provide the enrolled youth with meaningful work experience, useful training and informal counseling so that they may more effectively compete in today's labor market.

ARTICLE II

OPERATION OF THE PROJECT

A. Administration

The Director of the Department of Employment shall have the authority to administer the State of California's summer NYC project, and in administering such project may perform the following activities:

1. Provide for the recruiting, selecting, referring, and counseling of applicants for the project.
2. Provide physical examinations when required.
3. Provide workmen's compensation for enrollees in the project.
4. Compile a follow-up report on all enrollees assessing and evaluating the effect of the program.
5. Provide placement services for all graduates of the program not returning to school.

Authorizing Administrator of the Resources Agency as Coordinator for Resource Conservation and Development Projects with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of California, I hereby proclaim the Administrator of the Resources Agency as Coordinator for Resource Conservation and Development Projects with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, is responsible for assisting local sponsors in developing and carrying out plans for Resource Conservation and Development Projects under Section 102 of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962 (Public Law 87-703).

A Resource Conservation and Development Project is defined as a locally initiated and sponsored project designed to carry out a program of land conservation and utilization in an area where acceleration of the current conservation activities will provide economic opportunities to its people as set forth in U. S. Department of Agriculture, Secretary's Memorandum No. 1515, dated November 2, 1962.

Provisions for developing applications include review by the Governor or his designated agency.

To implement a comprehensive review of these proposals by all units of the State which might have a responsibility or interest in these projects, I am designating the Administrator of the Resources Agency as coordinator of this effort.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

November 2, 1962

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1515

Resource Conservation and Development Projects

The Food and Agriculture Act of 1962, Section 102, Public Law 87-703 authorizes the Secretary to assist "in developing and carrying out plans for a program of land conservation and land utilization . . . ." The Department will follow the practice of cooperating with and assisting local sponsors in developing and carrying out plans for RESOURCE CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS in meeting its responsibilities under this new authorization.

A Resource Conservation and Development Project is defined as a locally initiated and sponsored project designed to carry out a program of land conservation and land utilization in an area where acceleration of the current conservation activities plus the use of the new authorities will provide additional economic opportunities to its people.

The basic objectives of the Department in participating in such Resource Conservation and Development Projects are:

1. The orderly development, improvement, conservation and utilization of natural resources of the project area and thereby to provide employment and other economic opportunities to the people of the area.
2. The provision to local leadership of the opportunities to more fully coordinate and utilize the facilities and techniques available to it in going agricultural programs and newly available under P. L. 87-703 in planning and carrying out a balanced program of land conservation and land utilization to meet local, State, and national needs.
3. The orderly extension of this program, project by project, as the local leadership is able to effectively plan and carry out the activities necessary to achieving the development, improvement, conservation and wise use of the natural resources.

POLICY. The success of each Resource Conservation and Development Project will depend on coordinated planning and action by the sponsors and the effectiveness of assistance from Federal, State, territorial, and local agencies, and groups, governmental and otherwise, communities and individuals assisting them.

1. To place responsibility within the Department, the Soil Conservation Service hereby is designated as the Departmental agency responsible for administration of the activities under Section 102, Public Law 87-703, relating to Resource Conservation and Development Projects.
2. The Soil Conservation Service also will be responsible for contacts with Federal agencies outside the Department and with State and local agencies and organizations in a position to further such projects.
3. The following agencies of the Department will appropriately assist such projects in accordance with their Departmentally assigned functions: Farmers Home Administration, Forest Service, Federal Extension Service, Office of Information, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Economic Research Service, the Office of Rural Areas Development, Farmer Cooperative Service, and Rural Electrification Administration. Each of these agencies shall develop its operating procedures for effectuating its participation in Resource Conservation and Development Projects and shall coordinate the instructions covering such procedures with overall instructions and procedures for project participation issued by the Soil Conservation Service. As provided in Secretary's Memorandum No. 1518, long-term agreements for cost-sharing and transition payments under Section 101, Title I of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962 shall also be utilized to further the objectives of Resource Conservation and Development Projects.
4. The governing bodies of Soil Conservation Districts, singly or acting in unison, will be encouraged, in furtherance of their agreements with the Secretary and in cooperation with other interested groups such as RAD Committees and County ASCS Committees to take the lead at the local level in developing the leadership and arranging for appropriate sponsorship where Resource Conservation and Development Projects are needed to accelerate conservation of natural resources and improve farm and rural income and standards of living.

PRINCIPLES. The following principles shall be used in the general administration of the program of assistance to Resource Conservation and Development Projects:

1. The plan for the project will be developed by the sponsors of the project with the assistance of the Soil Conservation Service and other Federal, State, and local agencies and groups in a position to help.
2. The plan for the project will set forth the opportunities for economic growth resulting from the development, conservation and utilization of the natural resources of the area.
3. The plan for the project will be approved by the Secretary. If there is an approved overall Economic Development Plan encompassing the project area, the project plan must be made consistent with it before presenting it to the Secretary for approval.
4. The area of a project will be determined by local needs and desires. However, priority shall be given to those of considerable size (for example, two or more contiguous counties or all or parts of several in the same land resource area) limited only by (1) the area in which local initiative and leadership truly can be effective and (2) a reasonable time in which necessary surveys and investigations needed in planning can be carried out.

EXECUTIVE ORDER 66-15

Direction to state agencies and contractors with the State of California to review and strengthen air pollution control programs.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of California, I direct all state agencies, and contractors with the State of California, to review steps being taken to minimize our air pollution-causing activities and to undertake full administrative action, legal and appropriate, to further reduce smog intensity.

All air pollution-causing activities possible shall be curtailed or eliminated, particularly during periods when smog is forecast.

Assistance as to technical evaluation to determine air pollution potential may be received from the Bureau of Air Sanitation, Department of Public Health, or the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board, in Los Angeles.

The purpose of this Executive Order is to reaffirm to all state agencies and contractors the actions that have already been taken and policies and practices to be followed to minimize air pollution.

During recent years, exhaust control systems have become realities on new vehicles sold in California. The crankcase device installation program has improved and progressed to the point where more than six million vehicles in the state are now equipped. These controls are preventing our skies from being polluted with 400,000 gallons of unburned gasoline and 1,600 tons of carbon monoxide each day. Controls on other smog sources have been strengthened.

The activities of state and county air pollution agencies are turning the tide in the battle against smog. Smog intensity, however, sometimes increases with late summer and early fall--largely due to changes in weather patterns--and for this reason extra efforts are called for by all persons subject to this Executive Order.

Each agency or division head will report on action and plans to implement this order by September 1, 1966, to the Chairman of my Interagency Committee on Air Pollution, Mr. Eric P. Grant, Executive Officer of the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board.

WHEREAS Poetry is a vital part of life, and through its many forms has a single hallmark--the power to impress upon man a keen awareness of himself, his world and his society; and

WHEREAS It is fitting and proper that we set aside a special day to honor our poets and their work. Throughout man's culture, the poet has set the music of the mind to lift the hearts of the sad, to stir romance, to record man's progress and failure in the epic pages of history; and

WHEREAS The poet, by pressing on us the immediate concerns of ourselves and our society, has often been an impetus for change and improvement in our world; and

WHEREAS Poetry is an essential ingredient of the life of a civilized man and a civilized society.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, proclaim October 15, 1966, as POETRY DAY in California, as provided by a resolution enacted by the State Legislature.

EXECUTIVE ORDER R2-67

In recent years, expenditures for state services have increased at a rate far in excess of population growth, resulting in a critical current excess of expenditures over available revenues.

I consider it vital to the economic health and prosperity of California that state government be conducted in the most business-like and economical manner, and that the people of this state be assured that their tax dollars are spent wisely.

At the last meeting of the Governor's Council, I announced an impending study designed to help the departments evaluate existing programs and adjust them to the level of current revenue. Prominent leaders of business and industry have in the public interest volunteered to conduct intensive research of the current programs and procedures of state government as a contribution to our determined effort to provide essential services at a cost the taxpayer can afford to pay thereby lessening the burden of government.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of California, I am, therefore, initiating on this date, the Governor's Survey on Efficiency and Cost Control, and appointing A. Kenneth Pryor as Chairman. The survey has retained Warren King & Associates, Inc. as consultants to the program. I authorize the survey to make such studies and investigations as they consider necessary to determine how the services of the State of California may be provided its citizens in the most efficient, expeditious, and economical manner, and to that end, further authorize them to select and retain as their agents and assistants such executives and experts from business and industry as are skilled in the conduct of private enterprise.

With the initiation of this survey, I further direct each officer and employee of this state to furnish the consultants and their representatives complete information concerning their respective agencies, departments, and subdivisions thereof, and to give the consultants and their agents every assistance in the performance of their duties.

It has been brought to my attention that the maritime industry of the United States is faced with a difficult hardship in attracting qualified personnel to serve at sea during the expanded needs of the shipping industry during the Viet Nam crisis.

The Pacific Coast District of the Maritime Administration has recorded numerous ship delays because of the personnel shortage on ships traveling to the Far East. Despite the cooperation of the unions, ship companies, and Maritime Administration, it has been impossible to effectively eliminate these ship delays.

During 1966 it is estimated that ships sailing from the Pacific Coast District alone have been delayed a total of 10,575 hours. This means our ships sailing with military supplies for the Viet Nam War and the Far East have been delayed for a total of 440 days. According to our estimates this delay has meant a cost to the U.S. Government of $1,189,687. More important than the financial loss, however, are the possible difficulties that could have been encountered at the receiving port due to the delay. We must make sure that every possible effort is made to eliminate delays in these vital shipments of supplies and materials.

Many of our California employees serve as members of an important reserve corps for the Merchant Marine because they hold valid licenses as deck officers or marine engineers.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of California, I authorize that those employees who currently hold valid licenses are given the privilege of returning to Merchant Marine duty subject to the approval of their department heads and the secretary of their area, with full return rights to their current employment and current civil service position at the conclusion of their Merchant Marine duty to a limit of eighteen months leave from State responsibilities. Department heads may replace those leaving for Merchant Marine duty and are given an exemption from the hiring freeze in those cases.

I would like to encourage those employees who have the unique ability to serve their country in this manner to contact the U.S. Department of Commerce, Maritime Administration, Pacific Coast Director, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, Box 36073, San Francisco, who will in turn refer applications to the proper hiring agency.

Additionally, I would like to encourage local city and county agencies plus our California industry to give consideration to joining with us and also releasing their eligible employees for Merchant Marine duty during this crisis. It is hoped in this manner that the State of California can contribute to an early victory in the Viet Nam War effort.

Dated this 17 day of April, 1967.

EXECUTIVE ORDER R4-67

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of California, I authorize that effective this date, there is established the California Job Training and Placement Council. It shall consist of:

Lieutenant Governor, Chairman
Administrator of Health and Welfare Agency, Vice Chairman
Superintendent of Public Instruction
Director of Employment
Director of Industrial Relations
Director of Rehabilitation
Director of Social Welfare
Director of Service Center Program
Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity
Six public members, to be designated by the Governor

Two members of the Senate, to be designated by the Senate Committee on Rules, and two members of the Assembly, to be designated by the Speaker, will be invited to meet with and advise the Council to the extent compatible with their duties as members of the Legislature.

The principal function of the Council is to review the present multiplicity of job training programs in California to determine whether a better coordinated system, enlisting the full support of private industry, can be developed to reduce unemployment and public dependency.

The Council will have the widest possible latitude in making such studies and surveys as it deems appropriate to accomplish its task.

The Council is specifically charged to propose policies which will govern training to be given and admission requirements thereto which are fully supported by industry so that jobs will be available to trainees who have successfully completed an approved training program.

It is also to develop a sound cost-compared-to-benefits formula with which to evaluate training programs.

The Council is charged to examine and recommend on the advisability of consolidating various training and adult education activities into one coordinated program. In this regard it is to study training and selection techniques used successfully by private employers.

An executive director will be named to head a small staff of persons who will carry out the Council's responsibilities. A progress report will be submitted by the Council to this office and the Legislature in January of 1968, and a final report will be required in January of 1969.

Pursuant to Chapter 1 of Part 6 of Division 9 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and in order to provide for the continued operation of the State plans for Aid to the Aged, the Needy Blind, Families with Dependent Children and Needy Disabled under the provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code, I do hereby find as facts:

That assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs is provided for by the Federal Social Security Act; and

That this State has qualified to receive Federal assistance for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs and has not been notified that further payment of such Federal assistance will not be made because of failure of this State to comply with the requirements of the Federal legislation; and

That Federal assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs for the month of June 1967 has not been received, and it is improbable that such Federal Assistance will be received by this State prior to the usual time for transmitting such Federal assistance to the counties of this State.

In consideration of the above findings, I do hereby proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency and declare that the sum estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare in the amount of Federal assistance payable to this State under Federal law for the month of June 1967 and appropriated by Section 18003 of the Welfare and Institutions Code are available for expenditure.

WHEREAS, the laws of the State of California empower the Governor to proclaim a State of Disaster in an area or region of this state affected or likely to be affected by certain conditions of extreme peril to persons and property within the state, which proclamation shall be in writing and shall take effect immediately upon its issuance; and

WHEREAS, I, as Governor of the State of California, have found and do hereby find:

1. That conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property within this state have arisen and now exist as a result of major and widespread fires which have occurred in large areas within the Counties of Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego and Ventura.

4. That the Chairmen of the Boards of Supervisors of the Counties of Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego and Ventura have requested the Governor to proclaim a State of Disaster in their respective counties; and

I, RONALD REAGAN, Governor of the State of California, having found that conditions of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property existed within the Counties of Butte, Marin and Yolo, State of California, commencing January 17, 1969, as a result of storms, flooding and other conditions which, by reason of their magnitude, were beyond the control of the services, personnel, equipment and facilities of said counties, and having been requested by the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Counties of Butte, Marin and Yolo to proclaim a State of Disaster in said counties, I therefore proclaim the existence of a State of Disaster in the Counties of Butte, Marin and Yolo; and

I direct that as soon hereafter as possible this proclamation be filed in the Office of the Secretary of State and that widespread publicity and notice be given to this proclamation.

Done at the City of Sacramento this 12th day of March, 1969.

Pursuant to Chapter 1 of Part 6 of Division 9 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and in order to provide for the continued operation of the State plans for Aid to the Aged, the Needy Blind, Families with Dependent Children and Needy Disabled under the provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code, I do hereby find as facts:

That assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs is provided for by the Federal Social Security Act; and

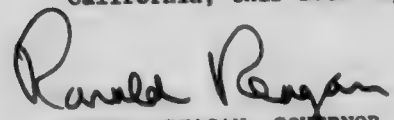

That this State has qualified to receive Federal assistance for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs and has not been notified that further payment of such Federal assistance will not be made because of failure of this State to comply with the requirements of the Federal legislation; and

Dear Governor Reagan:

I have been informed by the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare that it is probable federal funds to finance the payments of Old Age Security, Aid to Needy Blind, Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Aid to Needy Disabled for the month of May 1971 will not be available to this State before May 1.

In order that the county treasuries may contain sufficient funds to issue warrants to recipients at the time required by statute, it is necessary for the State Controller to remit state and federal funds no later than April 28. Sections 18000 et seq. of the Welfare and Institutions Code authorize a loan from the General Fund whenever you proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency. Upon issuance of your proclamation the State Controller will transfer the necessary funds from the General Fund to the Social Welfare Fund and will issue his warrants to the counties. The funds to be loaned pursuant to your proclamation amount to the following:

Old Age Security	$ 22,087,760.
Aid to the Blind	1,094,119.
Aid to Families with Dependent Children	30,082,759.
Aid to Needy Disabled	16,799,403.
Total Federal Assistance	$ 70,064,041.

These funds represent the federal share of anticipated aid payments for approximately 323,700 aged, 14,000 blind, 190,200 disabled and 1,670,800 dependent children.

I have been requested by the Department of Finance to prepare the attached welfare emergency proclamation for your execution.

Pursuant to Chapter 1 of Part 6 of Division 9 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and in order to provide for the continued operation of the State plans for Aid to the Aged, the Needy Blind, Families with Dependent Children and Needy Disabled under the provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code, I do hereby find as facts:

That assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs is provided for by the Federal Social Security Act; and

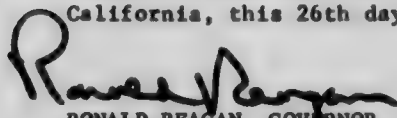

That this State has qualified to receive Federal assistance for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs and has not been notified that further payment of such Federal assistance will not be made because of failure of this State to comply with the requirements of the Federal legislation; and

That Federal assistance to this State for the above-mentioned Public Assistance programs has not been received, and it is improbable that such Federal assistance will be received by this State prior to the usual time for transmitting such Federal assistance to the counties of this State.

In consideration of the above findings, I do hereby proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency for the month of July, 1971, and declare that the sums estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare in the amount of Federal assistance payable to this State under Federal law and appropriated by Section 18003 of the Welfare and Institutions Code are available for expenditure.

You are, therefore, authorized and directed to do all things necessary to accomplish the intent and purpose of said Chapter 1 of Part 6 of Division 9 of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

Welfare Emergency
Proclamation for the Governor's Assent

, 744 P Street, Sacramento 95814

I have been informed by the Federal Department of Health, Education, and Welfare that federal funds to finance the payments of Old Age Security, Aid to Needy Blind, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and Aid to Needy Disabled will not be available to this State before the first day of the month of need.

In order that the county treasuries may contain sufficient funds to issue warrants to recipients at the time required by statute, it is necessary for the State Controller to remit state and federal funds no later than three working days preceding the month of need. Sections 18000 et seq. of the Welfare and Institutions Code authorize a loan from the General Fund whenever the Governor proclaims the existence of a period of welfare emergency. Upon issuance of the Governor's proclamation, the State Controller will transfer the necessary funds from the General Fund to the Social Welfare Fund and will issue his warrants to the counties. The funds to be loaned pursuant to the Governor's proclamation would amount to approximately $70,000,000 each month.

I am requesting the Department of Finance to prepare the welfare emergency proclamation for the Governor's execution.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. R-33-71

WHEREAS, all law-abiding Californians share a deep concern and shock over the recent killings and other unlawful incidents behind the walls of our correctional institutions. Many of these incidents appear to result from the unlawful designs of self-proclaimed, revolutionary forces operating both within and without prison walls. Many of these incidents also result from the fact that our correctional institutions contain a greater percentage of violent offenders than ever before, and

WHEREAS, these forces constitute a real and present threat to an orderly correctional system, as they do to society at large. They seriously impede, if not altogether prevent, any reasonable efforts at rehabilitating those inmates who are capable of it, as it becomes necessary to reduce inmate activities and contacts with correctional personnel. They constitute a significant threat to the life and safety of correctional personnel far beyond the potential danger to which such personnel have always been subjected in the past, and

WHEREAS, there have been well publicized attempts to distort the facts of the recent San Quentin escape attempt and the killings perpetrated in the course of that attempt. The public is entitled to know the truth; our correctional officers and their families are entitled to personal safety. Accordingly, it is vital that the Board of Corrections, as the official body charged, make a thorough analysis of security procedures in our prisons and make recommendations to me and to the people of the State of California aimed at reinforcing the safety and protecting the lives of both inmates and correctional officers.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Ronald Reagan, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this state direct the Board of Corrections to review the August 21 escape attempt at San Quentin and other incidents of violence which have occurred within the last two years at San Quentin, Soledad, Folsom and other correctional institutions in the State of California; and to make recommendations regarding correctional officer safety, unnecessary exposure of correctional officers to danger, inmate security, inmate handling procedures, communications with prisoners, including personal visits, and any other procedures which will halt the violence and the attempts by radical elements and violent offenders to disrupt the orderly processes of our correctional system.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. R-34-71

I, Ronald Reagan, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this state do hereby redefine the California Code of Fair Practices which guarantees and guards the right of every person in our State to enjoy to his or her fullest capability the birthrights of our democracy without discrimination or prejudice.

Time and experience have shown that laws and edicts of non-discrimination are not enough; justice demands that every citizen consciously adopt and accentuate a personal commitment to affirmative action which will make equal opportunity a reality. This is not only necessary in the internal affairs of state government, but also in its relations with the general public, including correction of any past inequities which may tend to deny equal opportunity to all.

I hereby affirm this Code of Fair Practices in support of the laws of this state as the official policy of the Executive Branch of the State of California.

REGULATIONS FOR CALIFORNIA'S GASOLINE EMERGENCY

In light of the state of emergency now existing in the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Mateo, Contra Costa, Solano and Alameda, and pursuant to the authority vested in me to promulgate, issue and enforce rules, regulations and orders, I deem the following rules and regulations necessary for the protection of life and property:

1. At the retail level, gasoline may be dispensed into vehicles with a license plate whose last (or only) digit is an odd number (1, 3, 5, 7 and 9) only on odd numbered days of the month, that is, on the first, third, fifth, seventh and so on. Environmental license plates that contain letters only will be equivalent to the digit 1. Examples of odd number plates are as follows:

MARTHA
KAM 2345
J12345

2. At the retail level, gasoline may be dispensed into vehicles with a license plate whose last (or only) digit is an even number (0, 2, 4, 6 and 8) only on even numbered days of the month, that is, on the second, fourth, sixth, eighth, tenth and so on. Examples of even number plates are as follows:

2 MARY
O1234J
W6ABC

3. For any calendar month in which there are 31 days, sales may be made on the thirty-first day of the month without regard to the registration plates of the motor vehicle.
4. Gasoline shall not be sold to any vehicle that has more than one-half tankful of gasoline. When requested by the gasoline attendant, the customer shall permit inspection of the fuel gauge with the ignition key in the "on" position.

State of California

5. When dispensing gasoline to the general public, gasoline retailers shall not refuse to sell gasoline to anyone, on appropriate odd or even days, except to refuse to sell gasoline to vehicles with more than one-half a tankful of fuel.
6. No general hours or days of operation are required by these regulations. However, each gasoline retailer shall clearly post his anticipated minimum business days and hours.

COMMENT:

Individual retailers are the best judges of the business days and hours that satisfy their customers' needs, and are encouraged to work out staggered hours of operation in common marketing areas. All gasoline suppliers are urged to refrain from establishing additional retail stations, and are urged not to reduce the gasoline supplies available to existing stations in order to supply unnecessary new stations.

7. Each gasoline retailer shall manage his monthly fuel allocation so that it will last through the month.

COMMENT:

This regulation may be complied with by adjusting business hours and business days of the week, or by establishing maximum or minimum purchase volumes, or both. Readjustments should be no more frequent than absolutely necessary; if adopted, maximum or minimum purchase volumes should be clearly indicated by appropriate signs.

8. Each service station shall clearly indicate its gasoline supply and service situation by a sign or flag, easily visible from off the premises. If the flag system is used, the following will apply: Green flag--gasoline available for the general public (on appropriate days for appropriate license plates); yellow flag--gasoline available for emergency vehicles only; red flag--out of gasoline and/or closed. If the sign system is used, it should state the following, or equivalent information: Gasoline available--emergency vehicles only--out of gasoline and/or closed.
9. The following vehicles are exempt from the provisions of these orders:

Executive Department
State of California

- a) Emergency vehicles as defined in Section 165 of the California Vehicle Code.
- b) Buses regularly used to transport passengers, as defined in Section 233 of the California Vehicle Code.
- c) Vehicles used for commercial purposes in the judgment of the gasoline retailer.

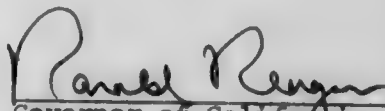

Vehicles with out-of-state license plates are exempt from the alternate day ban on gasoline purchases but not from the one-half tank purchase provision. Operators of exempt vehicles are urged to purchase gasoline only on appropriate alternate days whenever possible.

- 10. At the retail level, gasoline may be dispensed into separate containers only when necessary in the judgment of the gasoline retailer. Such sales shall be in the smallest practical quantity.

COMMENT:

Storage of gasoline in separate containers in the trunk of automobiles or in homes or garages is an extremely dangerous practice.

- 11. Pursuant to the authority of Section 8665 of the Government Code, any violation of these orders or regulations is a misdemeanor and upon conviction, shall be punishable by a fine of not to exceed five hundred dollars ($500) or by imprisonment not to exceed six months or by both such fine and imprisonment.

REGULATIONS FOR CALIFORNIA'S GASOLINE EMERGENCY

In light of the state of emergency now existing in the county of Santa Clara, and pursuant to the authority vested in me to promulgate, issue and enforce rules, regulations and orders, I deem the following rules and regulations necessary for the protection of life and property:

1. At the retail level, gasoline may be dispensed into vehicles with a license plate whose last (or only) digit is an odd number (1, 3, 5, 7 and 9) only on odd numbered days of the month, that is, on the first, third, fifth, seventh and so on. Environmental license plates that contain letters only will be equivalent to the digit 1. Examples of odd number plates are as follows:

MARTHA
KAM 2345
J12345

2. At the retail level, gasoline may be dispensed into vehicles with a license plate whose last (or only) digit is an even number (0, 2, 4, 6 and 8) only on even numbered days of the month, that is, on the second, fourth, sixth, eighth, tenth and so on. Examples of even number plates are as follows:

2 MARY
01234J
J01234
W6ABC

3. For any calendar month in which there are 31 days, sales may be made on the thirty-first day of the month without regard to the registration plates of the motor vehicle.
4. Gasoline shall not be sold to any vehicle that has more than one-half tankful of gasoline. When requested by the gasoline attendant, the customer shall permit inspection of the fuel gauge with the ignition key in the "on" position.

State of California

5. When dispensing gasoline to the general public, gasoline retailers shall not refuse to sell gasoline to anyone, on appropriate odd or even days, except to refuse to sell gasoline to vehicles with more than one-half a tankful of fuel.
6. No general hours or days of operation are required by these regulations. However, each gasoline retailer shall clearly post his anticipated minimum business days and hours.

COMMENT:

Individual retailers are the best judges of the business days and hours that satisfy their customers' needs, and are encouraged to work out staggered hours of operation in common marketing areas. All gasoline suppliers are urged to refrain from establishing additional retail stations, and are urged not to reduce the gasoline supplies available to existing stations in order to supply unnecessary new stations.

7. Each gasoline retailer shall manage his monthly fuel allocation so that it will last through the month.

COMMENT:

This regulation may be complied with by adjusting business hours and business days of the week, or by establishing maximum or minimum purchase volumes, or both. Readjustments should be no more frequent than absolutely necessary; if adopted, maximum or minimum purchase volumes should be clearly indicated by appropriate signs.

8. Each service station shall clearly indicate its gasoline supply and service situation by a sign or flag, easily visible from off the premises. If the flag system is used, the following will apply: Green flag--gasoline available for the general public (on appropriate days for appropriate license plates); yellow flag--gasoline available for emergency vehicles only; red flag--out of gasoline and/or closed. If the sign system is used, it should state the following, or equivalent information: Gasoline available--emergency vehicles only--out of gasoline and/or closed.
9. The following vehicles are exempt from the provisions of these orders:

Executive Department
State of California

- a) Emergency vehicles as defined in Section 165 of the California Vehicle Code.
- b) Buses regularly used to transport passengers, as defined in Section 233 of the California Vehicle Code.
- c) Vehicles used for commercial purposes in the judgment of the gasoline retailer.

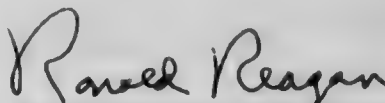

Vehicles with out-of-state license plates are exempt from the alternate day ban on gasoline purchases but not from the one-half tank purchase provision. Operators of exempt vehicles are urged to purchase gasoline only on appropriate alternate days whenever possible.

- 10. At the retail level, gasoline may be dispensed into separate containers only when necessary in the judgment of the gasoline retailer. Such sales shall be in the smallest practical quantity.

COMMENT:

Storage of gasoline in separate containers in the trunk of automobiles or in homes or garages is an extremely dangerous practice.

- 11. Pursuant to the authority of Section 8665 of the Government Code, any violation of these orders or regulations is a misdemeanor and upon conviction, shall be punishable by a fine of not to exceed five hundred dollars ($500) or by imprisonment not to exceed six months or by both such fine and imprisonment.

OES RELEASE #7353

On behalf of the Energy Planning Council, the Office of Emergency Services announces the following clarifications of the Emergency Gasoline Marketing Plan.

1. Vehicles used for commercial purposes: These guidelines were issued today for use by retailers in determining whether a vehicle is used for commercial purposes.
  - A. Vehicles which by their design, size, or recognizable company identification are obviously being used for commercial purposes.
  - B. Vehicles which are owned and operated as part of a company vehicle fleet as may be determined by company marking or the vehicle's registration.
  - C. Individually owned vehicles used for commercial purposes, as evidenced by the presence of specialized equipment, instruments, tools of the trade or profession, supplies or other material which cannot be readily carried by the vehicle operator on public transportation, or any other evidence that it is necessary to use the vehicle for commercial purposes.
2. Doctors and Nurses: No blanket exemption is made for doctors and nurses. However, when they are using their vehicles for professional purposes (such as special calls) their vehicles should be considered as those being used for commercial purposes and when using their vehicles for emergency calls they should be considered emergency vehicles. Physicians and nurses are expected to do the same planning in fueling their vehicles for private use as are other citizens. In extreme emergency situations, they can call upon taxis, ambulances, or the local law enforcement agency.
3. Appointments: "Sales by appointment only constitute discrimination under Section 210.62 of the Federal Petroleum Allocation and Price Regulations, unless he (the retailer) conducted his business by appointment only prior to January 15, 1972 in so far as he continues his pre-existing practice."
4. FEO regulations also prohibit stations from selling exclusively to commercial vehicles.

"We are not satisfied and we will not be satisfied until justice rolls down like waters and righteousness like a

I commend those words to the people of California today, January 15, 1975, the 46th anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther King

This man and the values by which he lived-- occasion, but especially today.

A growing number of people in California are unable to obtain decent housing because of high interest rates, inflation, and other dislocations in the economy.

Therefore, by virtue of Article IV, Section 3 of the Constitution, I hereby convene the Legislature of the State of California in extraordinary session at Sacramento at noon Monday, February 17, 1975, to consider and act on housing and housing finance legislation.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 16th day of February 1975.

PROCLAMATION

The cost of medical malpractice insurance has risen to levels which many physicians and surgeons find intolerable. The inability of doctors to obtain such insurance at reasonable rates is endangering the health of the people of this State, and threatens the closing of many hospitals. The longer term consequences of such closings could seriously limit the health care provided to hundreds of thousands of our citizens.

In my judgment, no lasting solution is possible without sacrifice and fundamental reform. It is critical that the Legislature enact laws which will change the relationship between the people and the medical profession, the legal profession and the insurance industry, and thereby reduce the costs which underlie these high insurance premiums.

Therefore, in convening this extraordinary session, I ask the Legislature to consider:

1. Reconstituting the Board of Medical Examiners to include a majority of public members.
2. Giving the Board full authority to discipline and decertify practitioners for lack of competency.
3. Providing the Board with authority to set recertification standards, including updated training and public service, in order to minimize malpractice and increase the quality of medical care.

Executive Department

State of California

4. Providing the Board with authority to develop a system to minimize the present maldistribution of medical care in certain areas of the State.
5. Establishing a Medical Peace Corps to serve Californians who lack adequate medical care.
6. Regulation of hospital rates, including authority over excessive hospital bed capacity and unnecessary duplication of expensive and under-utilized equipment.
7. Voluntary binding arbitration in order to quickly and fairly resolve malpractice claims while maintaining fair access to the courts.
8. Establishment of reasonable limits on the amount of contingency fees charged by attorneys.
9. Elimination of double payments ("collateral sources"); institution of periodic payments and reversionary trusts; limitation of compensation for pain and suffering while insuring fully adequate compensation for all medical costs and loss of earnings; and setting a reasonable statute of limitations for the filing of malpractice claims.

In addition, I intend to:

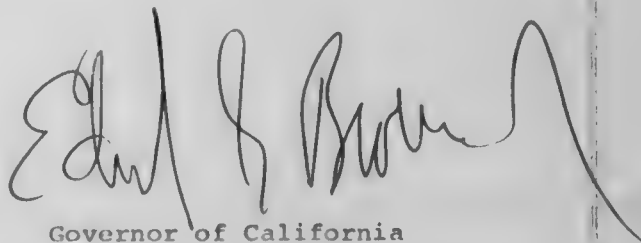

- a) convene a Special Panel to immediately conduct a complete investigation into all insurance company rates and reserve practices and;

- b) support legislation in the regular session to insure adequate public representation on all professional boards, including the Board of Governors of the California State Bar.

State law appropriately has declared that the policy of the State of California is that the blind and other disabled persons shall have the same rights as the able-bodied to the full and free use of public places.

The blind and the physically disabled bear enough of a burden without facing discrimination in the fields of housing, public accommodations, travel or employment.
